Mrs. Keith May Seek Spouse's Board Seat

Mrs. Eugene Keith, wife of the Elk Grove Village Trustee, may seek election to the village board April 20 in place of her husband who has said he will not seek reelection.

She said yesterday she will begin circulating petitions this week for a two-year term on the board of trustees.

Mrs. Keith's husband has served on the board for eight years but his decided not to seek office again, saying he has "not been able to change the present administration."

"I'm really serious about it," Mrs. Keith said. A resident for 11 years, she lives at 48 Lonsdale Rd.

However, she said she was not sure she would file by the Feb. 15 filing deadline until she saw how the race for the two-year term would shape up.

"IT WILL DEPEND on who's running and how many candidates there are,"

she said. "If there are only a few running I'll run," she said. "If there are a lot of people I won't."

Mrs. Keith is employed as an administrative assistant for P & S Management Co., owner and operator of 10 Holiday Inns.

There are three, four-year and two, two-year terms open for election on the board of trustees.

Three incumbent trustees, Ronald Chernick, James O'Brien, and Edward Kenna have filed for four-year terms.

Yesterday, Nanci Vanderweel, of 215 Fleetwood Ln., became the first woman to file for trustee in the 14-year history of the village. She will seek a two-year term.

A resident for seven years, she has been active in the community in many organizations and events, including the League of Women Voters, Action Now, task force on law enforcement and safety, Mark Hopkins PTS, and is a member of the Elk Grove Village Planning Commission.

ALSO SEEKING the two-year term will be George Spees, of 140 Crest Ave., a development engineer for Eureka X-ray Tube Corp., Chicago. He said he will file for office today.

Spees has been active with scouting, boys' baseball, and the Lions Club. He also is a game official with the Illinois High School Association and has lived in the village for eight years.

Others reportedly intending to seek election to the village board include Harold Sutter, of 756 Love St., Alva Stone, of 600 Tonne Rd., and Robert Lindahl, of 690 Versailles. Stone is the principal of Grove Junior High School.

Gerald Smiley of 1156 Cheltenham Rd. has filed for a two-year term as village clerk. Mrs. Donald Todd of 88 Kennedy Blvd., has also indicated she will seek election to the clerk's office as has incumbent clerk Mrs. Stephen Schwellenbach, of 240 Fern Dr.

by DOUGLAS RAY

"Eighteen years of my sweat is in the basement of that building," said Mrs. Mary Lambides, a member of one of the 23 families left homeless by the apartment building fire at the Meadow Trace complex in Rolling Meadows Saturday.

Mrs. Lambides, who had been a resident of Meadow Trace for four years, said, "I just want to move back to the city of Chicago."

The American Red Cross provided temporary housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows for all of the persons who had formerly lived in the fire gutted building. Yesterday was the last day for the 3-day disaster emergency housing and other agencies have stepped in to help the victims of the fire.

Since many of the children living in the complex attend Twinbrook Elementary School, the school's administration is providing help for the youth.

Principal Darrell Little has given clothing left at the school for emergency to the children. The school's Parent Teacher Association will conduct a collection of used furniture, to give to the families who lost many of their belongings. Clothing, footstuffs, furnishings and any other items that may be used by the victims are being sought.

THERE IS A SPECIAL need for baby furniture and clothing, said Mrs. Margaret Ciganek, a resident of the complex who is collecting many items for the homeless. Mrs. Ciganek said that two infants and two expectant mothers were without a home today. Eight of the children are under five years of age, she said.

John Blyth, Meadow Trace manager, said that housing will be provided for all the victims of the fire at other apartments in the area. Many of the homeless will be moved into other apartments at Meadow Trace, Blyth said.

Walter Jakobowski said that he had been told that an apartment for his family would be provided at Meadow Trace for 60 days. Jakobowski, who had been shopping when the fire began Saturday, said he didn't manage to salvage much from the fire. "We only got the television set out," he said.

"I WON'T MOVE back to Meadow Trace," said Miss Susan Elkins, who called herself one of the "lucky ones." "They will have to show me the next building is better," she said.

Miss Elkins said that she had urged management to improve the building that was destroyed by fire.

Most of Miss Elkins' belongings were salvaged when she returned to her apartment Sunday before demolition of the apartment began. "I lost pots and pans, but not much else," she said.

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser, felt differently about Meadow Trace. "I think it would be nice to move back," she said. She had been out of town at the time of the fire, "I'm not afraid to move back to another apartment in the complex," she said.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Kraehnke were one of the families hit hardest by the fire. They had recently purchased furniture for their apartment. "We had no insurance," said Mrs. Kraehnke.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Elk Grove Park 'In Line' With Nixon Policy

The Elk Grove Park District development plans are right in keeping with Pres. Nixon's plea for more parks, according to Jack Claes, park director.

Claes commented yesterday on Nixon's State of the Union message in which the president encouraged more park space and open land.

"The last two or three presidents have indicated more emphasis on parks and use of parks. I believe this is right," Claes said.

He added, "Realtors tell me people want to know about churches, schools and parks. Many decide where to live on what is offered for their families. With the 20 per cent turnover like there is in Elk Grove I think parks and recreation programs are paramount."

Claes pointed to the 2,000 people participating in sign-up programs at the park district as evidence that there is interest in this area.

The park district has 15 neighborhood parks ranging in size from 2 to 17 acres. The district is also in preliminary planning for parks west of Rte. 53. Claes expects no park development in that area for more than a year. Park improvements are now being planned for existing parks, he said.

Pahl Endorses Revenue Sharing

President Nixon's proposal for revenue sharing in his State of the Union message Friday has been on the Elk Grove Village president's list of concerns for quite a while.

In commenting on Nixon's proposal, Jack Pahl, village president, said he hoped the proposal would boost chances of revenue sharing in the near future.

However, he said, "I'm in favor of the concept of revenue sharing. I'll withhold final judgment on Nixon's proposal until I see the ramifications of what he has in mind."

NIXON'S PROPOSAL would return a small percentage of federal income tax receipts to state and local governments. The proposal is a shift from the present practice of rigidly allocated federal grants to states and municipalities for welfare, hospitals, housing, highways and other programs. It has been opposed in Congress.

Pahl was appointed chairman last week of an Illinois Municipal League committee to obtain approval and support of the revenue sharing concept.

He had made a resolution last year at the Annual Conference of the Illinois Municipal League seeking support of the revenue sharing concept and a committee to pursue it.

Pahl said the amount of monies that Elk Grove Village may obtain from revenue sharing "could be quite substantial." He said, "It's very clear that citizens are saying, 'We're paying enough in taxes and we want you to make the best use of what we're giving you.'"

According to a poll, many people favor the concept of revenue sharing, feeling that a lot of problems can best be handled locally. A Gallup survey of adults in the nation early this month showed 77 per cent of the public in support of the revenue sharing concept.

PAHL SAID HE favored an unrestricted plan where the money could be used in any way the state or local government preferred. He said it could be used for additional police or firemen, or for public improvement.

He added, "It puts additional responsibility on the local officials but that's what they are there for."

There are several public interest groups which are concerned with revenue sharing. They are the National Conference of Governors, the National League of Cities, and the U.S. Conference of Mayors, and the National Association of Counties. Pahl said they will be approached for support of the concept.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee called for a federal investigation into the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad's purchase of insurance to protect its directors against charges of wrong doing.

The Justice Department Monday charged and Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Temperatures around the country:

FIREMEN PROBE ceiling of the Elk Grove Bowl, Rte. 72 and Arlington Heights Road, where a fire Sunday in the lounge caused $40,000 in damage. Firemen reported the fire resulted from a hot metal chimney duct from a fireplace which ignited a wooden joist in a false ceiling.

Coroner's Inquest Set In Girl's Death

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl. Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today, however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on park district property since the district was formed in 1966, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss.

However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

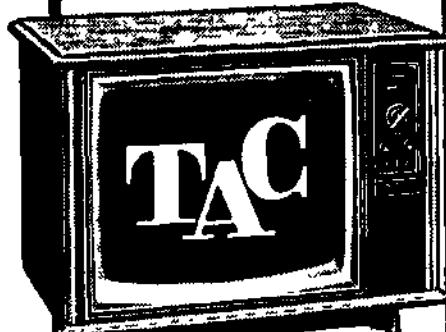

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill."

Fiedler Conducts At Hersey Tonight

The doors at John Hersey High School will open at 6:30 tonight for the annual Pops Concert. Directing the school's bands in the performance will be Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. at the school, located at 1900 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights. School officials said Friday a small number of tickets would be on sale at the door tonight. Most tickets have already been sold. There are no reserved seats for the performance.

Tonight's concert will open with the stage band playing jazz and rock tunes. Other selections to be played include "Festive Overture" by Dimitri Shostakovich; "American Salute," by Morton Gould; and the finale from the "New World Symphony," by Antonin Dvorak. The symphonic winds will also play "America the Beautiful" and "Hello Dolly."

Leroy Anderson's "Serenata" will be played by the concert band. Other selections to be performed by the concert band include "California Dreamin'," Monday, Monday," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "West Side Story."

FIEDLER WAS scheduled to arrive for the performance yesterday afternoon. A rehearsal with the school's concert and symphonic bands was set for last night. Following this a reception for Fiedler and band members was to be held.

At noon today a luncheon will be held in Fiedler's honor at the Arlington Park Towers where he is staying. During the luncheon, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights village president, is scheduled to present a fire hat to Fiedler, making him an honorary member of the Arlington Heights Fire Department.

This afternoon the final rehearsal with the band members will be held. Following tonight's concert a small reception for Fiedler will be held, with a limited number of invited guests.

MONEY TALKS

There are rewards for smart money management

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus. Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical married family in this country, whether it is in the low, middle, or high income bracket, most frequently quarrels about money.

Disregard of ability to pay for what the family terms its needs is often at the root of the problem. "Young people today," says San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Alfred Auerback, "assume they should have a car, a television set, nice clothes, and the other luxuries merely for the asking."

In predicating their happiness upon such possessions, they ironically set the stage for unhappiness. People who count their pleasures in purchases are only too eager, Time Magazine has noted, to adopt the ingenious forms of credit that have been invented.

"The Good Time Charlies and other merchants of debt do not talk too freely about the true cost of all this credit," Time points out, "and too many borrowers have no idea what they are really getting into."

There is widespread concern among families that they are guilty of loose spending habits and that their financial brinkmanship may be getting them into trouble.

For them we have four common-sense recommendations of qualified counselors that will be presented in succeeding articles.

Doctor's Hearing Scheduled Today

Dr. James Middleton, a Des Plaines area physician charged by Cook County Sheriff's Police with deviate sexual assault, is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court this morning in a pre-trial hearing.

Middleton's attorney, Warren Carey, was granted a continuance Jan. 12 until today after Judge George Zimmerman ordered State's Attorney Daniel Mirobelli to supply Carey with a list of witnesses for the prosecution.

Zimmerman also ordered that the state let Carey examine physical evidence seized by the sheriff's police at the time of the doctor's arrest in his office.

Dr. Middleton was arrested in a raid on his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines last Dec. 1 by sheriff's police. They found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photographs, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation.

THE RAID came after a two month investigation by sheriff's police in which a number of his women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Dr. Middleton was also charged by police with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education has also charged Middleton with unethical practice and deception in applying for his Illinois medical license.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

"SYLVESTER AND THE Magic Pebble" a children's book by William Steig, has been criticized by an official of the Illinois Police Association because policemen are portrayed as pigs in the book. Educators have defended the book, pointing out that other characters, including one pictured above, also are pigs. The educators point out that all the characters in the book are animals, that the policemen appear only once and that police are not criticized in the text. The book is copyrighted by Steig and published by Windmill Books/Simon and Schuster. "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble" won the 1969 Caldecott Medal of the American Library Association for the best illustrations in a children's book.

McKelvey In New Washington Program

Jeffrey McKelvey, a senior at Elk Grove High School, has been selected to participate in the 1971 secondary high school program, "Presidential Classroom for Young Americans."

McKelvey, of 108 Essex Rd., Elk Grove Village, was one of 350 seniors selected from high schools throughout the United States, United States territories, and Departments of Defense and State dependent high schools abroad.

The program will provide a week of study, March 20-27 for McKelvey, including government study in Washington.

The Presidential Classroom will hold six 1971 classes which will serve 1,920 students. The selection "provides for a representation of all of our nation's various social, cultural, ethnic and religious backgrounds," according to Charles G. Allison, chairman.

THIS YEAR, each of the 50 states, the four territories and American Samoa are represented by participants. Overseas schools will be sending students from Argentina, Nicaragua, Mexico, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Labrador, Okinawa and the Philippines.

Now in its third year of operation, Presidential Classroom for Young Americans was initiated from White Houses memo dating back to an original idea of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Research and development were done during the Administration of Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson with the first Presidential Classroom being inaugurated during the presidential campaign of 1968, establishing it as a non-partisan, non-profit educational program in government.

The Presidential Classroom is governed by a 10-man board of directors and an advisory board of senators, congressmen, a Supreme Court justice, a cabinet officer, the military chiefs of staff, leading national educators and private citizens.

Youth Honored For Volunteer Work

Outnumbered 43 to 1 recently, Keith Bradkowski had the distinction of being the only boy to be honored as a junior volunteer at St. Alexius Hospital.

All of the others cited at a banquet Jan. 17 were girls.

While the girls received caps and/or pins, 14-year-old Keith was given a tie tack and stethoscope in tribute to 388 hours of volunteer work since early last summer.

"He's reliable, responsible, and everything else you could want to imagine," said Mrs. Darryl Skarda, director of the volunteers.

"He comes every Friday to work in pharmacy and Saturday in physical therapy," she said. "And he's here every day off from school."

KEITH'S JOB is to assist the chief pharmacist and chief physical therapist, either washing or moving equipment or helping a patient.

A freshman at St. Viator Catholic High School in Arlington Heights, Keith said he plans to be a surgeon.

He became interested in medicine "a year ago last week," he recalled, when he had his appendix taken out.

"I decided then I wanted to be a surgeon," said Keith, of 1157 Lancaster Ave., Elk Grove Village.

When Keith is not at the hospital, in his spare time he is practicing his organ, playing with the family's cats and dogs, or taking care of his fish. (He has four aquariums.)

An interest in medicine may run in the family, admitted Keith. His sister, Candy, 9, wants to be a veterinarian.

KEITH BRADKOWSKI, a junior volunteer high school student, assists St. Alexius Hospital patient Frank Scygiel with whirlpool treatment.

Driver Unhurt, Car Totaled

An Arlington Heights woman escaped injury Sunday night when she got out of her car moments before it was demolished by a Chicago and North Western Railway train.

Arlington Heights police said the driver of the car, Aleda S. Kresge, 47, of 10 N. Pine St., Arlington Heights, saw the train approaching and left the vehicle before it was struck by the southeast bound train.

Mrs. Kresge reportedly told the police that she had turned onto westbound Euclid Street from Northwest Highway, left the roadway and got stuck in a ditch.

The woman said she tried several times unsuccessfully to free the car before she saw the train.

Ronald Schuetz, 52, the train's engineer, said he saw the car on the tracks and applied the brakes, but could not stop in time to avoid striking the car.

The car was demolished in the accident.

Mrs. Kresge was charged by police with failure to have her vehicle under control. She is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 24.

Des Plaines Votes Down Sport Center

Des Plaines residents Saturday voted down a $1,435,000 bond referendum for a sports complex which was to include a professional-sized hockey ice rink, gymnasium and meeting rooms.

Elk Grove Village residents have been asked to come to vote March 6 for a similar referendum. Although the Elk Grove Park District has not yet announced how much money will be sought in the referendum, it is expected to be about $1.5 million.

The local park district is also proposing park improvements and a lighted baseball diamond, eight to ten tennis courts and two 3-wall handball courts.

Service Unit Asks $78,134

Expanded youth and adult services may be provided by Elk Grove Village Community Service during 1971-72 if the proposed budget of $78,134 finalized last week, is approved by the village board.

Community Service, a village-funded social service agency, is operating on a $45,000 budget this fiscal year.

Last Thursday the board officially became a not-for-profit corporation, allowing it to receive funds from outside organizations. However, since no funds have been committed, the agency is seeking its full budget from the village.

The budget includes $48,800 to maintain present services. The remaining $29,334 will be used to cover the cost of a second full-time youth worker, a full-time adult worker, additional rental space for youth service, and youth hotline expenses.

In another area, the Community Service and Mental Health Board endorsed the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council referendum to be held Feb. 27.

The referendum is expected to provide funds to 12 mental health agencies in Elk Grove, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Palatine townships. A 10-cent levy is being asked of the voters in the four townships.

Community Service is one of the agencies expected to receive funds from the levy.

Resident Receives Safe Pilot Award

Don Flower, president of the National Pilots Association, has presented to Vincent J. Flood, of 650F Versailles Circle, Elk Grove Village, the association's highest award.

Flood received the safe pilot certificate in recognition of skill and flying ability during 500 hours or more as pilot-in-command "without a major accident involving damage to property or injury to person."

Flood, whose career began over 25 years ago, accumulated a total of 7,000 accident-free hours to qualify for the award.

Elk Grove Girls Plan Folk Dance

The Blue Bird, Camp Fire, Junior Hi and Horizon Club girls in Elk Grove Village will participate in a folk dance from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday at Thomas Livey Junior High School, 999 Leicaster, Elk Grove Village.

The dance will be conducted by Mrs. Edna Freeman of Morton Grove.

Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Carole Knapik's and Mrs. Edith Godejahn's fifth grade Camp Fire groups will serve as hostesses.

'Coffee' Planned

The Elk Grove Village Newcomers Club will hold a coffee at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Elk Grove Village Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd. Women who are new in the area are invited to come and meet their neighbors.

The Newcomers Club is a service and social organization. Membership is open to women in the village and surrounding area. Persons interested in further information regarding the club may call membership chairman Mrs. David Paganoff at 437-4515.

Illinois Bell Wages Total Announced

Wages paid to Illinois Bell Telephone Co. employees residing in Elk Grove Village and a portion of Des Plaines totaled about $1,040,000 in 1970, the firm announced Monday.

Funds spent on construction by the firm last year totaled $307 million, making the year the most expensive in the company's history.

Included were costs of installing an advance electronic switching system at the firm's Elk Grove Village Central office and expenditures for a new garage, also in the Northwest suburb.

Illinois Bell and Bell System affiliates spent an estimated $600,000 on rents, supplies, and other payments in the Elk Grove exchange area during a recent 12-month period.

The firm said it spent more than $1 million each day last year to improve, expand, and improve phone service.

Calendar Change?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Each time January arrives, or crashes down upon our heads, hardly anything gets done for the next 23 days or so. For it takes at least that long to get adjusted to the new calendar that must be hung on the wall every January.

As you leaf through the calendar, trying to figure out where you stand in relation to time, you can see that the year is loaded with nasty little surprises.

In 1971, for example, Groundhog Day is going to fall on a Tuesday, which conflicts with your group therapy session. The only Friday the 13th comes in August, which is your unlucky month anyway. Etc.

THESE FLUCTUATIONS of the calendar, which adds to the vicissitudes of an already inconstant life, are all the more vexatious for being totally unnecessary.

Ever since 1919 there has been available a perpetual calendar invented by Dr. Willard E. Edwards of Honolulu — a calendar you can hang on the wall and forget, secure in the knowledge that Groundhog Day will always fall on Thursday and that Friday the 13th forever after will come in January, April, July and October.

Why, then, do we continue to muddle along with the shifty, unbalanced calendar presently in use? What is holding up adoption of the calendar reform advocated by Edwards?

The best explanation I can offer is this: while Edwards is indubitably a nimble mathematician, he is unfortunately an ungainly poet.

THE ONLY WAY we can cope at all with the present calendar is with the help of that poem that begins, "Thirty days hath September. . . ." Admittedly, this is not the stuff of Ezra Pound.

But it does have a certain felicity. At least we can live with it.

Should the perpetual calendar be adopted, however, this familiar little verse would no longer be applicable. We would then have to memorize a new poem, composed by Edwards, which goes:

"With a day apart, the years begun.
"Then thirty, thirty, thirty-one.
Months always start in a certain way
"On Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

"Each quarter and each year the same,
"Is the perpetual calendar's aim."
The mind boggles.

Quite likely, persons who might be influential in bringing about adoption of the perpetual calendar are persuaded by its merits until they come to its poetic summarization. At which point they cop out.

Win at Bridge

OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

We don't think much of North's jump to three no-trump but we can't fault South for jumping right to six spades.

West opened the king of diamonds. South plunked dummy's ace of diamonds on the king, remarking, "No better place for it." In so doing he had succeeded with one of the rarest coups in bridge. This coup requires the play of the ace on the king, the specific remark and the loss of an important contract as a result.

It is easy to see that South can't use that ace at trick one and make his contract. The discard from his hand does him no good and while he can take the heart finesse it is going to lose.

If South had been using his brain instead of his mouth he would have found the winning line of play. This winning line is to play low from dummy and ruff the diamond. Then South plays out three rounds of trumps and leads his king of clubs.

West will be smart enough to duck and South will continue with the 10. If West ducks this lead, South has avoided the loss of a club trick and can lose one heart trick only, but West will undoubtedly play the ace of clubs this time.

South will have lost one trick, but West will be on lead and will be forced to let dummy gain the lead. If he leads a diamond or club South will get one heart discard on the diamond ace and three more on clubs. If he leads a low heart South will play dummy's jack. If he leads the king of hearts South will have tricks to burn.

Premiere Was 'Pure Sunshine'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pearl Bailey arrived during the weekend with the debut of her new, one-hour ABC-TV variety series, and the only question is what in the world took the networks so long to give her a weekly show of her own.

The lady is simply terrific. And so was her Saturday night premiere, except for one minor bit with Andy Williams, who joined Bing Crosby and Louis Armstrong to help get her off flying.

Television is a fickle medium, of course, and one never knows how a new show will do against competition, but this is a performer that ABC-TV should value and protect. Pearl Bailey is pure sunshine.

You can always tell when a real heavy-weight arrives on the home screen. The lightweights work and work and fuss and go through their material and yet never give the feeling of being able to handle an hour. The heavyweights fill the hour before you know it.

Miss Bailey is such a 100 per cent, fully accredited heavyweight that you had the feeling she could have gone another hour easily on Saturday night without even powdering her nose.

SATURDAY NIGHT, producer Bob Finkel and director Dean Whitmore gave Miss Bailey a chance to take command with a variety of her talents. She did a show stopping dance number, she clowning throughout the hour in her imitable regal con-woman manner, and among her songs were two that were just plain lovely in their poignance: "Make Me a Rainbow" and "Didn't We" with Armstrong.

Satchmo and Crosby no longer have the voices they once did, but each is such a consummate showman — and Miss Bailey was so delightful — that her numbers with them were rich in the very special professionalism that many singers with better natural voices never achieve.

It's been said that likability is perhaps the most important single quality in determining what makes successful video performers, and that is probably true. If ABC-TV does right by Miss Bailey, it will profit, for there are few performers in show business as likeable as Pearl Bailey, who let the sunshine in a long time ago.

Perry Como's On Top Again

by VERNON SCOTT

UPI-Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Perry Como, what are you doing with a recording right up there at the top of the pop charts?

"Darned if I know. But I'm sure getting a kick out of it."

Como is as puzzled as the Woodstock generation over his record of "It's Impossible" becoming one of the hottest platters in record stores and on the air.

"IT'S A ROMANTIC ballad and it says a lot of nice things," he explained. "I don't know whether it's part of a new trend brought about by that movie 'Love Story' or not."

"The lyrics are simple. Nothing earth-shaking. But I like them."

Laconically he recited part of the song:

"It's impossible to ask the sun to leave the sky,

"Or tell a baby not to cry, it's impossible."

Perry chuckled softly. "It's been more than five years since I've had a big hit. I've never done any acid rock singing. But I did a few things that had a little contemporary sound but not really."

State Income Tax

Defended By Official

The director of the year-old Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs has defended the state income tax as a key factor in keeping down local school taxes.

Addressing more than 400 persons attending the annual banquet of the Northwest Municipal Conference (NWMC) last Thursday night, Robert J. Lehnhausen said portions of the revenue distributed to school districts had effectively kept the lid on local taxes.

He disclosed figures showing that during the current 1970-71 school year, northwest suburban Districts 25 and 59 received $6.4 million in state aid.

Lehnhausen made his remarks as part of a speech in which he described the role of his new department.

"We attempt to be helpful. We do not put our nose where it should not be," he said, stressing the department was not designed to meddle in local affairs.

900 Students In Festival

About 900 students from all six Dist. 214 high schools are scheduled to participate in the ninth annual Dist. 214 Choral and Orchestra Festival to be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 9 at the Prospect High School Fieldhouse, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

Sterling Mische, choral director at Prospect and chairman of this year's festival, said approximately 500 students will perform in a mixed chorus; 275 will sing in a girls' chorus; and 85 students will participate in the orchestra.

All Dist. 214 schools will be represented in the festival. The schools are Prospect, Arlington, Wheeling, Elk Grove, John Hersey and Forest View.

MISCHE said auditions were held for students to play in the orchestra. Mixed and girls' choruses will combine for performances at the festival.

Guest musicians expected to attend the festival are Jack Perniecky, Leonard Van Camp and Donald Craig.

Crane TV Show On Air Tonight

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will make his debut tonight as host of his own television program.

Conservative Viewpoint, a weekly half-hour interview program, begins at 10 p.m. on WSNS-TV, Channel 44.

Crane's first guest is Dr. Edward Teller, scientist who is considered the "father of the H-Bomb."

The programs are videotaped in Washington, D.C., and sent to Chicago for use by Channel 44.

Channel 44 is owned by Ytte Roe, who was one of the candidates in the 1969 Republican primary election for Congress in the 13th District. Crane was the winner in the primary and subsequently defeated Edward Warman of Skokie in the general election.

Heat wave coming! Trane your house now.

It might seem like a crazy time to install TRANE Whole House Air Conditioning. But the truth of the matter is, it's the best time of all.

You get a better price. If you wait until spring, you get off-season prices . . . and big savings.

You beat the rush. If you TRANE now, you won't have to join the line of people who are waiting for the heat wave to come. You'll be the first to have the heat wave in your house.

You beat the heat. Right now, we're all in the grip of the heat wave. But when the heat wave comes, you'll be the only one who won't have to suffer. You'll be the only one who won't have to pay for the heat wave. You'll be the only one who won't have to pay for the heat wave.

Why procrastinate? There's no time like the present to have a TRANE Whole House Air Conditioning system installed. Call today for a free estimate. TRANE is the only name in air conditioning.

Barthule Sets Record But Harper Falls

Locker Room Lingo

Kingman Shows 'Giant' Promise

JUST THE other day, Ernie Banks was happily chirping on television that it's only such-and-such more days until spring training begins.

That reminded fans that the long cold winter isn't really all that long and before we know it, the hot stoves can be turned off and the crack of hickory on horsehide will ring out once more.

But Dave Kingman, for one, didn't need to be reminded. He's been getting ready for the 1971 baseball season ever since the new year began.

Kingman, you remember, is the former baseball and basketball star who gave Prospect fans so much to talk about just a few years ago. He starred on the Knights' cage and diamond squads for two years before his graduation in 1967.

Since then, big things have been happening to Kingman. The latest was being the No. 1 pick in the country in the special phase of the pro baseball draft in June.

Soon after that, Dave signed what was probably a very lucrative contract with the San Francisco Giants. He has been invited to spring training with the big club, hence, his workouts at the present time in California.

But let's regress back to the beginning of Kingman's athletic career, which has seen a generous share of distinction.

Dave first played varsity baseball at Prospect in the spring of 1968 but didn't overly impress anyone on his way to a 3-3 record. He first began to be noticed that summer as a red-hot pitcher for the Mount Prospect American Legion baseball team. His coach was Mark Thorne, now a coach at Forest View High School.

That summer, Kingman lost only one game, had a phenomenal earned-run average of 0.50, pitched a no-hitter, several one and two-hitters and was practically untouchable when his smacking fast ball, bending curve and pinpoint control all were working. He also batted close to .400 and was a fine power hitter.

More and more scouts started making their way to Mount Prospect games to get a look at this tall, lanky righty they were hearing raves about.

The following spring, when Dave and another Prospect star, Tom Lundstedt, were seniors, mobs of scouts were contacting coach Bill Slayton and beating a path to Knight games. They flew in from all over the country, even though the games were often rained out, for the sole purpose of seeing these two youngsters with the mountains of potential. At some games, as many as 20 scouts would form conventions behind the backstop. They weren't disappointed. Kingman enjoyed a fabulous spring.

And baseball wasn't his only skill. In his senior year in basketball he was the leading rebounder for an 18-6 club, shot 47 per cent from the floor, averaged 16 points per game (second only to Lundstedt, one of the all-time greatest area performers), averaged a steady 12 rebounds and had 21 rebounds in one game, second most in school history for

Palatine Matmen Roll To Win Over Falcons

Palatine lost only one match and tacked up three pins in easily ruling Forest View 36-11, in a Mid-Suburban League wrestling meet Saturday on the Pirate mats.

Three of the bouts ended in draws as the streaking Pirates' coach Bob Sonnerman stormed to their fourth league triumph in a row after starting the schedule with four losses.

The only wrestler to enter the meet undefeated, Forest View's Mark Bowe, kept his unbeaten record intact (7-0-1) at 145 pounds with the Falcons' only win of the day.

Greg Schultz started the Pirates' romp with a pin in 3:35 at 98 pounds. Dean Hutchinson took a 6-3 triumph at 105 before John Lonergan of Palatine and Dan Pirron of Forest View worked to an 8-8 standoff at 112.

Randy McAllister won 6-2 for Palatine at 119 before another tie at 126, a 0-0 stalemate between the Pirates' Kevin Lonergan and the Falcons' Mark Hyneman. Jim Bambrick claimed a 7-5 verdict at 132 and Pirate teammate John Van Wolvelaar and Mike Martin drew 2-2 at 138.

Bowe pinned his man in 5:40 at 145 before four closing wins for Palatine. Mike Caldwell got a pin in 1:12 at 155,

It was a night to remember as well as for.

For Kevin Barthule it was his finest point producing performance of his life. The Harper College guard poured in 43 points, the most any Hawk basketball player has ever scored.

However, Barthule's sterling showing was tarnished somewhat by Waubesa College. While this Wheeling freshman was accounting for half of Harper's points, Phil Neal was doing nearly the same thing.

Neal's 41 along with Charlie McGee's 24 proved to be too much for the locals. When the firing had concluded, the Chiefs took a 100-88 victory away from Fremd High School Saturday night.

Both coaches were impressed with each other's star. Harper's John Gelch had this to say about the former East Aurora performer:

"He certainly made the difference. I thought we had them on the run two or three times and he'd just come down and put one up from 20 feet out. He's as fine a front liner as we've seen this year."

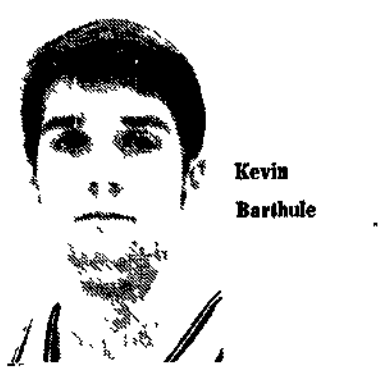

Waubesa's Ray Lumppp and his Chiefs were Barthule's conscious the entire second half after he burned them with 17 points in the first half. But Kevin kept canning them in and scored 26 more — just about his season average. Lumppp had this to say of Barthule:

"I like him. Not because he can shoot but because he's a competitor."

Both Barthule and his teammates showed fine competitive spirit despite being down 49-33 at halftime. Helping Barthule in bringing the Hawks back was the shooting of Bob Brown and the rebounding of both Brown and Scott Silbernson.

With 10 minutes remaining, Brown hit two straight baskets to cut the lead to 66-59. But the margin climbed back to around the 10-point figure as Neal kept

Closing Surge Nails Peoria, 129-124

Don't Count Out Travelers Yet!

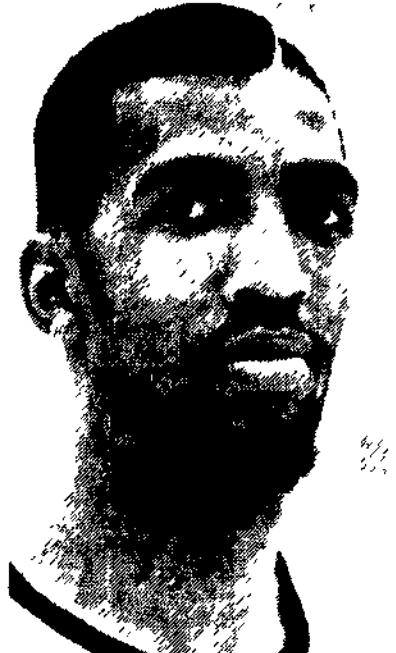

Two things had to happen Sunday evening to keep the Northwest Travelers' slim playoff hopes alive in the Continental Basketball Association.

Decatur had to beat Rockford. They did.

The Travelers had to beat Peoria. They did.

With their backs to the wall, and their playoff hopes severely jolted in a loss to Rockford the previous Sunday, the Travelers rebounded with a 129-124 conquest of Peoria — on the road!

Trailing by 14 points heading into the final period, Northwest roared back with another of their now-famous stretch drives and in a thrilling finish slapped down stunned Peoria for the second time this season.

JOE JACKSON Charge!

Northwest now stands 3-10. Peoria is 3-8 and Rockford is 5-8 in the battle for a playoff spot.

"They did just a fantastic job in that final period," praised coach Russ Shaw. "They were aggressive, they went to the boards, they pushed Peoria into mistakes, and they were tough in the clutch."

"Ruffner (Paul), Holt (A.W.), and Modestas (Ed) all hit two free throws when we needed them in those final seconds, and Joe Jackson was something else in that last quarter."

Jackson hit five straight baskets in the final stanza, and it was a dunk shot, with his back to the basket, that "seemed to break their backs," according to Shaw.

And Jackson played that final period with five fouls.

"Nobody could quite believe it," the head coach said. "His back was to the basket as he was going up, he hangs in the air, switches the ball to his left hand, not his shooting hand, and stuffs it 'through over his head."

"Then Holt comes down a little later and dunks a couple, and Peoria wonders what hit them. I can't say enough for the way these guys played."

Peoria, a surging club in recent weeks in the CBA, had the Travelers down 99-85 heading into that concluding quarter. But nobody counts out Northwest until that final gun.

Holt, Ruffner, Modestas and Jackson took charge on offense, and the Travelers rallied until they only trailed by one with 2:50 remaining.

With only two team fouls at this point Shaw called for a deliberate foul from the bench and the strategy paid off. Peoria missed at the line, and Northwest came down to settle and take a one-point lead.

Seconds later, another deliberate foul, this one under the 2:00 mark, clicked again, and Northwest, which had relinquished the lead, gained the advantage. They held on as Modestas, Holt and Ruffner all hit clutch free throws under tremendous pressure.

on hitting and failing to collect his fifth personal.

During the final five minutes Barthule brought his team back with four straight baskets to make the score 88-81. But Neal continued to plague the hosts with four straight of his own. It was quite a scoring show by the two standouts.

As the final seconds clicked off the Chiefs scored a couple of easy layups with Neal putting in the final pair of points to make it 100.

Harper zoomed off to a 6-0 lead in the first half behind Barthule, Jeff Boyer and Scott Silbernson. The Chiefs finally took the lead for good at the 11:40 mark 16-14 on a three-point play. They went on to make it 24-16 over the next three minutes as the Hawks cooled down somewhat.

Harper pulled within five, 33-28, on a pair of free throws by Jim Hynes. Then they started missing again and the Chiefs, behind the 10-point burst of Neal, raced out to an 18 point lead. Only a 35-footer by Hynes at the buzzer made the score 49-33 at intermission.

Barthule's 43 surpassed the record held by Mike Druding of 36 back in the 68-69 season. He also bettered John Knopf's 14 field goal record against Lae County (69-70) with 18. Barthule needs only eight more points to take the season scoring honors away from Druding who totaled 347.

That latter record should come against the Hawks' next opponent, league leading Lake County on Friday. Then he has eight more regular season games plus the tournament to improve upon that mark.

The loss was Harper's sixth in the Skyway Conference against no wins while Waubesa is in second place with a 5-1 mark. Overall the two teams are 2-11 and 10-7, respectively.

Halftime score: Waubesa 49, Harper 33.

Everybody helped out in the win, including the bench. Bobby "Duke" Floyd, a recent acquisition from the Eastern League who played his college ball at Augustana, and Don Russell came on late in the third period to spell the tiring regulars and key a successful press, taking the momentum away from Peoria.

"And the job Holt did on Peoria's L.C. Bowen was just great," praised Shaw. "Bowen had been averaging 38 a game, but only got 21 and 13 of those were free throws. A. W. really worked on him, slapped one of Bowen's first shots right back at him, and it was a tremendous psychological move. Bowen hasn't had that happen to him much this year."

Ruffner stayed in the scoring race with a nice 33-point output, hitting 15 of 27 from the floor. Modestas bounced back after a sub-par showing against Rockford with 28, canning 11 of 21, and Dickens and Holt had 19 and 18 respectively. Holt also collected 16 rebounds.

Jackson only had 13 but five of those baskets came in the final period. And then there was that stuff shot. That ignited the charge!

Prospect Wins In Mat Tussle

The Prospect wrestlers combined four straight victories in the middle weights and added a forfeit by Fremd at 185 pounds to trim the Vikings, 26-12.

Breaking the meet wide open were Knights Les Verde, John Laver, Kent Hutchinson, Bob Fischer and Scott Szala, all of whom racked up important decisions to break a short-lived 6-6 deadlock.

Fremd crept into a lead when Dave Motta outdueled Steve Brice, 6-2, but Knight Al Weber tied the meet by edging John Lynch, 5-3.

Vike Jeff Alvis kept his unbeaten streak intact by whipping previously undefeated Ron Cherwin, 6-2, but the Knights exploded during the next four matches to pull away.

By the time Rick Salinas put Fremd back on the scoreboard at 155 over Knight Mickey Gebert, Prospect was comfortably ahead, 18-9.

Rich Brower added a 7-0 win for the Knights before teammate Jeff Sorenson picked up five points for a forfeit. Tim Tuerk kept his Viking unbeaten skein alive by tripping Prospect's Paul Beck, 3-2 in the heavyweight class.

Fremd Wrestles Past Glenbard

Fremd rose above the break-even plateau for the first time and dropped Glenbard North below the same level with a 26-21 Mid-Suburban League wrestling victory over the Panthers Friday night at Fremd.

Five wrestlers entered the meet undefeated and four of them survived with their records still unscathed. Ed Chavez (105 pounds) and Jim Butties (185) for Glenbard and Jeff Alvis (112) and Tim Tuerk (heavyweight) for Fremd still haven't lost. Chavez handed Len McGunn his first loss in a battle of unbeaten at 105.

The teams alternated in the early going before the Vikings of coach Guy Hendricks reeled off three straight wins in the middle weights to take the lead for good. Glenbard came back with three of its own in a row, but Tuerk sewed up the verdict for the Vikes in the final match.

Dave Motta fetched the hosts their first points at 98 with a pin in a snappy 1:30. McGunn's perfect record was spoiled in a 3-2 nail-biter at 105 but Alvis stayed undefeated at 112 with a pin in 3:30.

After one more loss, Fremd started moving into a commanding lead. Steve McGunn won 7-0 at 126, Rob Hawkins took a 9-5 victory at 132 and Bill Anderson racked up a 2-28 at 138. The 145-pound tussle was an 8-3 tie between Fremd's Ron Vleck and Glenbard's Tollaf.

The Vikings then dropped three straight before Tuerk assured victory with a 5-3 win.

Fremd also won the sophomore meet 31-18 and the frosh tilt 31-21, with the Panthers prevailing in junior varsity competition, 35-13.

LaGrange Falls To No. 5

Maywood-Proviso East held No. 1 ranking for the fourth consecutive week in the United Press International board of coaches high school basketball poll.

The Pirates were ranked tops by nine of the 16 participating coaches. Dolton-Thornridge and unbeaten Paris each received three first-place votes and Benton was ranked first on one ballot.

LaGrange slipped from second to fifth after losing Friday night.

The rankings: 1. Proviso East (14-1); 2. Thornridge (15-1); 3. tie between Paris (15-0) and Joliet Central (16-2); 5. LaGrange (13-3); 6. Mendota (17-0); 7. Benton (15-1); 8. Quincy (12-3); 9. Normal U. High (14-1); 10. Rock Island (12-2); 11. Carbondale (13-3); 12. Granite City (12-5); 13. Peoria Richwoods (12-3); 14. Centralia (11-5); 15. Alton (13-4); 16. Bloom (13-4).

Rod Red-Hot

January of 1971, which has been one of the finer months Rod Laver has ever enjoyed, could get even better.

The Australian king of tennis has already won six straight $10,000 matches in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic this month and Thursday he has a chance to put another $10,000 in his checking account.

Kinsella Honored

Swimming sensation John Kinsella, 18, an Indiana University freshman from Oak Brook, is the 1970 winner of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the nation's outstanding athlete by the Amateur Athletic Union. AAU President John B. Kelly Jr., a veteran Olympian and himself the winner of the coveted award in 1947, made the announcement.

Kinsella, holder and co-holder of three world records, won over nine other nominees in the annual balloting with 1,097 points. Runnerup was walker Ron Laird, Pomona, Calif., with 746.

Wormy Win

An eight-inch long worm wriggled to victory in what was billed as the world's first worm race a week after the unofficial favorite was accidentally squashed by its owner during training Sunday at Brighton, England.

Toy Token Tom, cheered on by a crowd of 30 spectators, inched along the two-foot plate glass course at the Brighton Toy Fair in one minute seven seconds — a speed of 4.533 hours per mile.

Huskies Shade Prospect

In what could very easily have passed as an all-star meet, Prospect hosted Hersey in a Mid-Suburban League wrestling match that included five unbeaten grapplers.

The Huskies eventually nipped the Knights, 20-17, and in the process, eliminated Prospect's John Layer from the undefeated ranks.

Jim Battaglia, Brad Smith and Pat Teeley of Hersey and Ron Cherwin and Layer of Prospect all entered the meet without a loss in league action.

Battaglia barely kept his slate clean by tying Knight Les Verde, 7-7, but Smith whipped Layer, 7-2, while Teeley and Cherwin were ringing up convincing victories.

Cherwin was part of a trio that combined for three straight triumphs to push Prospect out in front, 9-0. Steve Brice and Al Weber both handled their opposition from Hersey in close matches before Cherwin turned back Randy Reames, 6-2.

The Huskies quickly made amends, however, as Battaglia, Smith, Jim Cantanzaro, Rick Adornetto and Tom Deluca all survived the next four matches to boost Hersey into a 14-11 advantage.

The teams traded decisions during the final four matches to assure Hersey of the three-point triumph. Huskie Pat Teeley kept his skein intact by downing Prospect's Rich Brower, 6-1, while teammate Bob Vercruysee nudged Jeff Sorenson, 8-5.

Prospect countered with victories from Mickey Gebert at 155 and Paul Beck in the heavyweight bracket, but couldn't turn the tide in the final score.

Pirates Rock Conant In 33-13 Mat Battle

Palatine's resurgent wrestling team won its third Mid-Suburban League meet in a row against four losses Friday with a 33-13 whipping of Conant. The visiting Cougars' record was lowered to 1-5-1.

The result could not have been guessed by the first few bouts. Conant lost only one of the first four, winning two by wide margins, before Palatine retaliated, eventually winning the last four matches to run up the final score.

All four of the meet's pins were racked up by Pirates.

Al Gordon got the Cougars off to a fast start with a 12-4 romp at 98 pounds. Mike Beck of Conant and Dean Hutchinson of Palatine battled to a 2-2 draw at 165.

John Loneragan put Palatine in the lead at 112 with a pin in 5:58. Dave Barnes came back for Conant with a 16-2 drubbing of his opponent at 119 to give the visitors their final lead.

The rash of one-sided matches continued at 126 when Kevin Loneragan recorded a pin in 5:46. Another Pirate win went to Jim Bambrick when he romped 9-0 at 132. Conant's Dennis O'Malley stopped this string at 138 when he ran up a 15-0 whitewashing.

Conant's Terry Stenger and Palatine's Bob Peterson fought to a 7-7 draw at 145, but it was the last points of the Cougars. Mike Caldwell started Palatine's finishing kick at 155 with a pin in just 58 seconds, Jim Walsh won 3-1 at 167, John Withager posted a 19-1 massacre at 185 and Jeff Frost pinned his foe in a fast 39 seconds at heavyweight.

Palatine also won the junior varsity meet, 32-17, and the frosh contest, 32-18.

Card Wrestlers Show 7-1 Mark

Arlington's wrestling team continued to keep its Mid-Suburban League title hopes alive with a strong showing over the weekend.

The Cardinals polished off Elk Grove on Friday, 33-8, and Glenbard North on Saturday, 27-18. This boosted the hosts' record to 7-1.

Arlington raced out to an 11-0 lead behind the scoring of Frank Dal Campo (98) — an 8-0 decision over Bob Ancona, Jeff Whitnell (106) — a 4-0 win over Dale Pankow and Tom Dal Campo (112) — a pin at 1:02 over Bob Walser.

The Grove won the next two on decisions — Ken Siebold (118) beat Rich Porowski, 5-0, and Marc Crain blanked Roy Genevich, 3-0.

Arlington rolled up seven points making performances after that to cinch the meet. This is how it went: Bob Wilson (132) decided Dennis Byrne, 4-2; Peter Anderson won a close one over Paul Morris, 4-3; Scott Douglas blanked Dave Byrne, 12-0. Mark Chidley decided Van Wintz, 4-2; John Chapman drew with Bob Webb, 0-0; Pete Harth shut out Bob Gleff, 8-0; and Jeff Selleck pinned Ron Campopiano in 0:59.

Arlington and Elk Grove tied on the Jayvee level, 28-28, but the Cardinals won both the sophomore and freshman meets.

Glenbard North proved to be pretty tough for the Cards on Saturday. During the meet two records were broken. Frank Dal Campo set a varsity record with a pin over Mike Hay at 0:26 in the opener. And the second to last matchup saw Harth, unbeaten and untied against all competition this season lose a decision to Jim Butties, 8-5, at 165.

Arlington raced out to a 24-5 lead before a strong finish by the Panthers made the score close. This was how the Cards won the meet out:

Whitnell (105) lost a close one, 4-3; Tom Dal Campo (112) won, 9-5; Porowski (119) was tied, 2-2; Genevich (128) won a narrow 8-7 decision; Wilson (132) pinned his man at 5:38; Anderson (138) blanked his opponent, 7-0; Douglas (145) did the same, 15-0; Chidley (155) was pinned in 1:44; Chapman (167) was also pinned at 3:11; and Selleck came on with an 11-2 win after Harth's upset loss.

The lower levels also went to Arlington: Jayvees won 27-21, sophomores won 34-12 and the freshmen won 31-11.

Wheeling Posts 27-17 Win Over FV Matmen

Forest View and Wheeling locked up in a dramatic dual wrestling meet at the Falcons' gym on Friday with the outcome being decided on a couple of timely pins.

Randy Wroble (167) and Mike Pavlick (185) — two clutch Wildcat wrestlers — stopped a pair of Falcons to take the lead for good in winning 28-17.

Heading into the last four weights, both teams were deadlocked at 14-all. Forest View's Mike Pryor decided Dave Sorge, 5-1, at 155 to give the Falcons the lead for the first time in the meet.

But the final three 'Cats were too tough to handle. Wroble stopped Steve Dolphin at 1:59 to make it 19-17. Pavlick stopped Bob Klein at 5:16 and then Holzkopf decided Rod Read, 11-0, at heavyweight.

Dolphin at 1:59 to make it 29-17. Pavlick stopped Bob Klein at 5:16 and then Holzkopf decided Rod Read, 11-0, at heavyweight.

Wheeling's Mike Beard and Greg Ernest helped their team to an 8-0 bulge with a pin by the former and a 5-1 decision by the latter.

Dan Pirron made it 8-5 with a pin over Dave Pease at 5:11. Then Wheeling's Wright won a decision and Mark Hyneman came back with a decision for the hosting team. Both teams posted decisions to make it 14-11 in favor of the visitors.

Then Mark Bowe (145) defeated Brad Smith, 9-2, and tied the score. This set up the late weight heroics.

Wheeling captured the Jayvee meet, 29-17, and the freshman meet, 27-19. Forest View won the sophomore meet with a 30-12 win.

Ski Club Plans Weekend Trips

The Four Winds Ski Club meets every two weeks at the Beef 'N Barrel restaurant in Schaumburg (Route 62, one mile west of Meacham Road) at 7:30 p.m. Meetings are held on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

This club, in the opinion of club members, is the latest thing in the northwest suburbs for the skier. Trips to some fine ski areas are on the agenda. Anyone may join by attending the next meeting.

For further information, contact Doug Anderson at 359-6938.

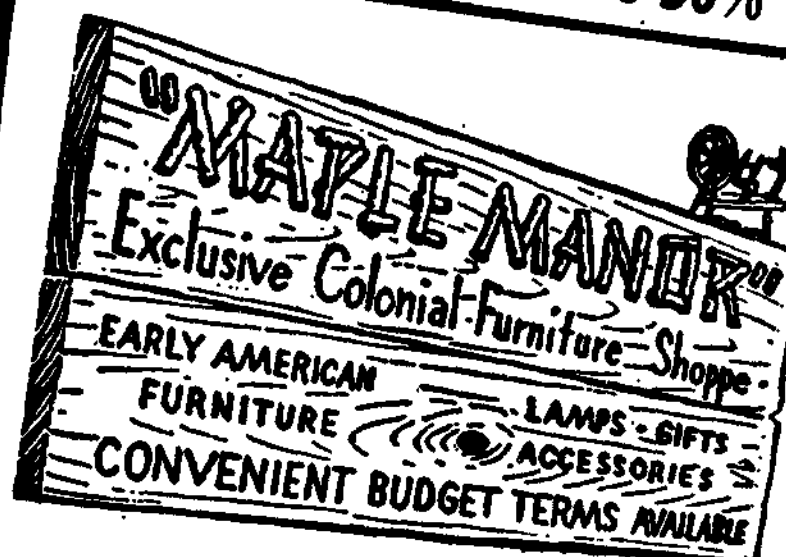

One of the trips being planned is Feb. 12-14 to Nob's Nob and Thunder Mountain. The Four Winds club will leave by bus Friday night with all interested skiers welcome to take part. The complete weekend package includes four meals, two-day use of ski lifts, transportation, lodging, Sweetheart Party on Saturday evening and, of course, plenty of skiing.

To reserve your place call Ken Flader at 366-2419 (trip leader) after 6:30 p.m. or Doug Anderson (assistant trip leader) at the above number.

The Way We See It

Nixon Emphasis Turns to Nation

Our reaction to President Nixon's State of the Union message Friday is a mixture of guarded optimism and skepticism.

We are optimistic because the President's "new American revolution" concentrates on domestic issues rather than the woes of foreign policy. This is an encouraging sign. It is here, at home, where our most serious problems now are: crime, racial strife and distrust, a sagging economy, a dying environment.

When the chips are down and a decision must be made on national priorities, the health, welfare and care of our own country must come before that of others.

It is reassuring, therefore, that the President is putting greater emphasis on problems at home. To be sure, our foreign concerns cannot be minimized. But the President's emphasis on domestic issues in his most important message of the year to Congress indicates these concerns will enjoy the limelight during the next two years of the Nixon administration.

Our skepticism is prompted by the President's own decision not to relate specific details of his six major goals. He did indicate that each of his plans would be outlined in-depth in separate messages to the Congress, and their merits can be judged at that time.

We are particularly pleased with the President's concern for guaranteed medical care for all families, regardless of ability or inability to pay. In a nation as prosperous as ours, it is distressing that so many are unable to enjoy good health because the cost of good health has risen so much.

His pledge to ask Congress to appropriate $100 million to launch an intensive campaign to find the causes and cure of cancer is, on a smaller scale, similar to the national goal set by President Kennedy to have the nation put a man on the moon during the decade of the 1960s. There is no reason to think that a nation that met the Kennedy goal, which seemed so unbelievable at the time, cannot also meet the Nixon goal. Medical technology in this country should be able to accomplish anything and the President's commitment to a cure for cancer is the first necessary step toward that desirable goal.

We also agree with the President's concern for welfare reform. The nation cannot turn a cold shoulder on its less fortunate citizens, but it also must not make welfare more attractive than employment. The Congress already has indicated that welfare revisions must contain both adequate care for the needy but also incentives to work.

The President's proposal to reorganize the structure of the federal government, specifically the Cabinet, does not seem as significant as it might sound. The key to a well-functioning government structure lies in the men holding the positions, not in the titles. However, since the Cabinet is the policy-making arm of the executive branch and must work closely with the President in determining the nation's directions, it should be organized in a way which the President believes would be most effective.

In short, we are encouraged by the President's message. We will await with interest the details as he relates them to Congress. We hope his concern in such vital areas is reflected by the Congress.

City Beat

Another Apartment Fire

by MARTHA KOPER

And the legend of Rolling Meadows apartment buildings continues.

The city is gaining quite a reputation. It's too bad, because it's not the kind of reputation anyone in town wants.

"There's a fire in Rolling Meadows!" someone says, and he quickly hears a reply, "Oh, another apartment building is burning."

As cruel as it sounds, many suburbanites have learned to expect a blazing two or three-story building when they hear there's a fire in Rolling Meadows.

Observers at the Meadows Trace apartment building fire Saturday didn't seem surprised. It was just another case of occupants of almost 30 apartments running for their lives with furniture and belongings.

Luckily, no one was injured, and from the long string of apartment fires preceding last week, no one has been killed or seriously hurt.

But who knows how long that luck will continue?

The declining reputation of the city is not as important as a cure for innocent apartment dwellers being rousted from their homes periodically when smoke rises high above the roof.

Martha Koper

It's a baffling predicament because there is no magic cure. Several of the previous fires were attributed to poor fire code regulations and shoddy construction. So city officials more than two years ago stiffened all local restrictions relative to apartments.

Apartment buildings constructed since the code revisions are believed to be safe. They have the necessary fire walls and cement construction between floors. They have the correct amount of fire exits and some even have fire alarm systems.

However, there's still a lot of apartments in town which were built before the changes were made in city regulations. Although the fire chief and building inspector have made several trips through the older buildings and required many changes, there's no way to alter the basic structure of the building.

Obviously, there's no way to put a cement slab between floors and fire walls between apartment units after the structure is built. But accepting that fact doesn't make the buildings any safer.

In the midst of the previous fires there were always murmurs about one complex in town which hadn't been hit by flames yet. To the average person, Meadows Trace just looked like it would be susceptible to fire. The long halls, with exits only at each end of the building, seemed a natural place for fire to spread quickly.

Questions about Meadows Trace's fire immunity were answered Saturday. Many suspicions were confirmed. A fire did spread rapidly and left at least 56 people homeless.

Saturday's fire just about rounds out the scorecard. There aren't many apartment complexes left in Rolling Meadows which haven't been hit by fire.

Let's just hope the cycle doesn't start from the beginning again.

Prospectus

Time to Appoint Manager

by GERRY DeZONNA

Mount Prospect needs a village manager.

Village Atty. John Zimmermann is currently the acting village manager. He has been since September, when former Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett resigned.

Although Zimmermann has been doing a good job as both village attorney and village manager, that's a lot to expect of one man. I don't think it's quite fair to Zimmermann or the residents of Mount Prospect.

Although the village board may be happy with Zimmermann's performance in both offices, I think the public deserves the attention and services of both an attorney and a village manager.

I can understand why the board is reluctant to rush out and find a replacement for Zimmermann. For one thing Zimmermann is well acquainted with the village, department personnel and village trustees. He knows how the legislative and administrative bodies of village government operate in Mount Prospect, and he's well acquainted with the problems which beset both on a daily basis.

This is the second time in about two years that Zimmermann's served as administrative anchor man. When former village manager Robert Moore resigned in May of 1969, Zimmermann was appointed by the village board to serve as acting village manager until a new man was located. Barnett took office in September of 1969.

In September of 1970, Barnett resigned and Zimmermann once again was appointed to serve as acting village manager. To date, a replacement has not been found.

The village board may also be reluctant to push for the hiring of another new village manager based on its experience with Barnett. Barnett, a professional administrator, resigned because village trustees were unwilling to give him the job they promised. The village manager form of government in Mount Prospect "exists in name only," Barnett said when he resigned last September.

Barnett said he was leaving because as chief executive officer he was not permitted administrative authority and control. "Before the people of this community lose faith in their government, it would be only just for the board to permit the next manager to have full reign on the administrative front," he said.

Barnett was complaining about the discrepancy between theory and practice. In a 1968 referendum, Mount Prospect elected a village manager form of government. By referendum, the board could hire and fire the village manager but could not change the nature of his job or usurp his powers as chief executive officer.

Some members of the present village board were instrumental in seeking approval for the village manager form of government three years ago and campaigned for a "professional" village manager, professionalism in office.

I think these trustees were right. Mount Prospect has a professional fireman serving as fire chief, a professional policeman as police chief and a licensed attorney as village attorney. Then why shouldn't Mount Prospect have a professional administrator serving as village manager?

I don't think it's fair to Zimmermann or the residents of Mount Prospect to ask one man to do both jobs, and needless to say, expect him to do it well.

School Queries Unanswered

I would like to say that I was more than a little disappointed at Tom Wellman's reporting of a group of citizens' earnest efforts to get the High School Board 214 to have an open hearing and give other taxpayers a chance to be heard on this issue of taking away buses from safety routes.

Why did they bring it up the day before the Con-Con Referendum and a few days before Christmas when everyone is so busy? Why didn't Dick Stamm, who lives just outside the mile and a half limit in our area, call one of us and tell us they were voting on these buses — he knew we had appeared before that Board before on this same issue? This was two years ago. Why did Jack Costello feel Stamm needed "defending" when that was all we ever asked of him? Why didn't they stick to the issue and give us a valid reason for not allowing an open hearing on this issue?

The Fence Post

Irrational Argument

Mr. Jack Buterbaugh ("Long Hairs Turn Him Off" — Herald 1-7-71) has committed a far more serious crime than being dirty or having long hair. He has let his emotions take control of his ability to think clearly.

The proof of my accusation is the fact that through his entire letter, Mr. Buterbaugh uses such emotion charged expressions as "disease infected molls, barnyard morals and deviates," when he has no way of proving that these charges are true. He does not back up one of his statements with a reasonable argument. If there were really an argument, Mr. Buterbaugh would not have been compelled to use such bitter language.

One can also assume from his choice of words, that he equates people who choose to wear their hair long with some of the lesser animals. I would like to point out to him that many of the greatest minds in history have had shoulder length hair.

With this fact in mind, if Mr. Buterbaugh would think instead of hate, he would ultimately come to the logical conclusion that he has no way of knowing how an individual thinks or what his political beliefs are, or whether or not that individual is a "deviate" unless he communicates with them, judging each as an individual apart from others.

There is little doubt in my mind that Mr. Buterbaugh considers himself a proud American. If this is indeed a fact, then I ask him to look at some of the precepts upon which our country was founded.

Is it not true that any American is entitled to any job for which he is qualified, no matter what his political and religious beliefs or racial heritage?

Are not our state and national parks for the enjoyment and use of anyone who wishes to use them, no matter what he or she may look like or think?

Is it not true that the "radical hippie o yippie" types (as he refers to them) are entitled to the same protection under the law that Mr. Buterbaugh is?

Is it not so that the pride of our "American System" is that anyone can believe anything he chooses so long as he stays within the limits of the law, and that if he does not that he is then, and only then, a criminal?

The person who cannot answer yes to all of these questions is what is really wrong with this country. America was built around the ideas behind my questions. The men who first put those ideas down on paper were intelligent and just men. The only proof needed of their validity is the fact that they are still in practice.

The unfortunate thing is that too many of us know them, but do not understand or practice them. And it is these people who are just as responsible for our troubles as those who wish to destroy our system entirely.

It is not too late for Mr. Buterbaugh and others like him to start using their minds and not their emotions. It's not too late for them to realize that just as they dress and believe as they see fit, so do others dress and believe as they please. That just as Mr. Buterbaugh camps and vacations where he pleases, so may others camp and vacation where they please without the threat of having people like Mr. Buterbaugh and his friends providing (to use Mr. Buterbaugh's own words) "an unpleasant surprise to these deviates this coming summer, if they still infest campgrounds."

I am ashamed that this is the kind of justice and freedom that some people believe in.

May Day Pay Day

As we progress into the New Year, that persistent date, May 1, or to the uninitiated, the beginning of the fiscal year, draws closer. As it does, in our community, the many committees meet to discuss the ever present foe and the elusive dream of us all, the balanced city budget that also satisfies all the municipal employees.

As the hard working men on these committees pour over ominous figures, let us remind them of the men who must live on these figures. Let us also remind them the cost of living is still soaring, while our hopes of a better life for our families remain constant.

As they toy with the hopes of averting large pay raises for the policemen and the firemen, may I also remind them that a man who doesn't have to worry constantly about stretching a dollar does a much better job in a much better frame of mind.

Need I say more than you place your pay them a percentage of the value you place on the lives of your loved ones?

Let the pay scales would jump then!!

Rules for Snowmobiles

With snowmobiles becoming popular as recreational vehicles, it is inevitable that Illinois enact a law covering their use and particularly to curb those snowmobilers who abuse the privilege by disregarding safety procedures and rules of the road.

The Illinois Department of Conservation is presently putting together a workable proposal for regulating the use of snowmobiles. David Eckberg, the department's chief counsel, has been meeting with representatives of the International Snowmobile Assn. and state of Michigan Department of Natural Resources personnel. Michigan already has adopted a series of strict regulations governing use of the versatile vehicles.

The public safety and welfare must be protected, and the prospect of some regulation in Illinois is a welcome one. Such a law must not, however, unduly penalize the many snowmobilers who do operate their vehicles with full regard for the rights and safety of other citizens.

Proposed legislation will be submitted to the current session of the Illinois legislature for final approval. We urge them to give it careful consideration and make certain the law is both equitable and enforceable.

Education for Credit

A call for better education on lending practices and interest rates has been issued by the Federal Reserve Board.

The board said the federal truth in lending law has made Americans more aware of the interest charges they pay creditors but believes "consumers will probably not become fully aware of consumer credit costs, in general, and truth in lending in particular, until these subjects are taught in schools.

With credit assuming so large a role in the economy of the average family, the subject does seem to deserve thorough treatment at the high school level.

Course Builds Self-Esteem

Charm Inside The Prison

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Women incarcerated in correctional institutions across the country will soon have the opportunity to enroll in a program stressing good grooming techniques and ways of achieving feminine charm.

Labeled "Self-Esteem Through Femininity," the program will include in a 10 week session of two-hour classes courses in posture and walking, personality and good manners, nail care, skin care and basic make-up, feminine hygiene, wardrobe, hair care and styling and job preparation.

The idea of making ladies out of inmates is being sponsored by Correctional Programs, an arm of the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation.

The program has been tested for the past two years at the Illinois State Reformatory for Women in Dwight.

LAST WEEK, A GROUP of women, all representing charm schools or having backgrounds of modeling-charm-beauty development programs, met in Chicago for a week's seminar to prepare them to initiate the programs on a volunteer basis at various prisons in their home states.

Mrs. Margaret Morrissey, superintendent at Dwight, feels the charm course taught at the reformatory by Jo Green, a Chicago fashion and beauty consultant, with assistance from Mrs. Alma Freeman, has been highly successful.

At a recent press conference Mrs. Morrissey said, "The program has been a very effective tool in redirecting lives of female offenders."

One hundred and eleven women have received the charm certificate in the span of two years. Of 60 of those who have been released from Dwight, only one has returned as a parole violator. None of the graduates has returned on new sentences. This is in comparison with a usual eight per cent average return rate of all women released from the prison.

WHEN ASKED HOW the girls are affected, Mrs. Morrissey answered, "They are secure in presenting themselves before the parole board. Their attitude is better . . . friendlier and more willing to cooperate."

Although the program is strictly on a volunteer basis, all the female inmates at Dwight have signed up for the 10-week Saturday sessions.

The program was instituted as a result of the teaching of a "Positive Mental Attitude" class at Dwight. The inmates at Dwight requested an additional program to encompass the basic principles of a positive mental attitude.

W. Clement Stone who turned $100 into a multi-million insurance empire, Combined Insurance Company of America, so consequently is the major proponent of the positive mental attitude formula, said the correctional programs, "We can motivate those incarcerated to motivate themselves so that once they are released, they won't want to come back."

"THESE PROGRAMS also motivate the warden and his staff," he continued.

A positive attitude will be established.

"We don't train our youth how to use their inherited instincts, passions and brain. It has been proven all over the world that it doesn't make any difference what a person is or who he is. It simply requires motivation to acquire a positive mental attitude."

In discussing "Self Esteem Through Femininity" Stone expressed the desire of the program to work on both the outer and inner charm of women incarcerated.

"One incarcerated must be taught to respond to the inner urge to do the right thing. No one has taught the inmate to use the God-given powers of his brain."

At the conclusion of the training, the screened women returned to their various geographical sectors to begin programs in more than 10 prisons across the country.

A CHARM PROGRAM began at Cook County Jail Jan. 25 taught by Mrs. Louise Nichols of Lombard.

The "Self-Esteem" program is one of several Stone Foundation activities which operates under Correctional Programs.

Others include: "Guides For Better Living" which operates training programs in positive mental attitudes in 15 states and over 50 institutions; an art program that assembles art from inmates of the nation's penal institutions for various national displays at which they are auctioned; and a body dynamics program that helps female inmates to coordinate body movements and control weight.

BUFFALO GROVE NURSES

Thomas Sharkey, author of two books, will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Wheeling Buffalo Grove Nurses Club Wednesday. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held in the library of Jack London Junior High School.

Mr. Sharkey, a free lance writer and author, has written "The Eating Man's Diet" and "Sanctity Is a Broken Television on a Rainy Day." He has also published articles in Reader's Digest, Family Circle, McCall's and Cosmopolitan.

The club received a donation for its scholarship fund from the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Stavros.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Karl Kimmel, Mrs. Theodore Scherbert and Mrs. Kenneth Wolniak.

BUFFALO GROVE NEWCOMERS

"The Importance of a Check-up and a Check" will be the topic for Thursday's meeting of Buffalo Grove Newcomers Club. Dr. Melvin Gible, a member of the board of directors of Northwest Suburban Unit of the American Cancer Society, will show films, discuss breast self-examination and the Pap smear. He will also answer questions from the members.

The meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Addolorata Villa on McHenry Road in Wheeling, will be open to the public. Those planning to attend are asked to call Mrs. Evert Biegalski at 537-3788.

MOUNT PROSPECT NEWCOMERS

A fish fry to be held at the Village Tavern in Long Grove is on the agenda for Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers. The date is this Friday and the charge is $5 per couple. Reservations may be made by calling 392-9120.

At tonight's meeting of the club, Chicago psychic Joseph De Louise will head the program in the Mount Prospect Community Center. The meeting begins at 8 p.m.

Love Bug Knows No Season

Cathy Bube

Carole Cameron

Christine Hammerstrom

Patricia Lubke

Miss Cathy Jane Bube and Gary Del Manning, both of Arlington Heights, are planning to be married April 17. Their engagement and approaching wedding date are announced by Cathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurell D. Bube, 307 S. Dwyer Ave. Mr. Manning's parents are the Delmar Mannings, 2107 Robinhood Lane.

Miss Bube attended Wisconsin State University at Stevens Point and is now working for Allied Chemical Corp., Palatine. Her fiancé studied at Wisconsin State University at Whitewater and is employed by Goodyear Co., Niles.

The Christmas Eve engagement of Carole Cameron to Charles J. Racansky Jr. was announced by her parents, the Richfield Camerons of Mount Prospect. The couple has decided on an October wedding.

Miss Cameron, a '67 graduate of Prospect High School, attended Western Illinois University in Macomb. She is now a part time student at Harper College.

The prospective bridegroom, son of the Charles J. Racanskys of Chicago, earned a B. S. degree in mathematics from Western Illinois University last March. Both are employed with Allstate Insurance Company in Northbrook.

Miss Christine Ann Hammerstrom's engagement to Kenneth Harless of Davenport, Iowa, is announced by her parents, the Harold Hammerstroms of Elk Grove Village. Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hurless of Davenport.

Both young people are students at the University of Iowa in Iowa City. Chris will be teaching French after graduation and Kenneth is studying pharmacy. The couple has not set a wedding date.

The engagement of Patricia R. Lubke to William N. Kamai, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kamai of Honolulu, Hawaii, is announced by her parents, the Arthur E. Lubkes, 1605 W. Fremont, Arlington Heights. The wedding is planned for April 17.

Graduates of Loyola University, Chicago, Patricia is employed as a senior management analyst for Washington National Insurance Co. and William has returned to General Motors Truck and Coach Division as a management trainee after a tour of duty in Vietnam.

Former Arlington Girl Is Married

A former Arlington Heights girl, Diana Lynne Evans, became Mrs. David Joseph Clements on Dec. 31 in Burlingame, Calif. Diana is a graduate of Prospect High School and also the University of Arizona at Tucson. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Rees Evans, who formerly resided at 1223 Woodford Place in Arlington Heights, now make their home in Burlingame.

Diana and David, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold M. Clements of Nacogdoches, Texas, were married in Our Lady of Angels Church with Rev. J. W. Mullally of Miami, Fla., presiding. The service was held at 10:30 a.m. with Christmas trees and poinsettias as decorations. Mr. Evans gave his daughter in marriage.

A WHITE VELVET gown trimmed in Chantilly lace, velvet headpiece and illusion veil was Diana's choice in bridal costume. Her flowers were cinnamon carnations ringed with holly. Diana's sister Pamela was maid of honor wearing a crimson velvet gown trimmed in white lace; her flowers were white carnations with holly.

H. M. Clements Jr. served his brother as best man, and ushers were the bride's brother Rees Evans and Stuart Lashlee of Phoenix, Ariz.

David, a former Marine with duty in Vietnam, studied at Texas A and M University and Stephen F. Austin State College in Nacogdoches. He and Diana honeymooned in southern California following their wedding reception in Crystal Springs Country Club, Burlingame.

Gynecologic Nursing Conference

"What's New in Gynecology" will be reported Wednesday, Feb. 10, in a conference for registered, licensed practical and student nurses at Holy Family Hospital.

Medical specialists on the hospital staff, Stritch School of Medicine, Loyola University, and Northwestern medical school will make a series of presentations. Doctors and their topics include: Dr. L. Leone, "New Techniques in Gynecologic Diagnosis;" Dr. J. Eggers, "New Aids in Diagnosis of Pelvic Diseases;" Dr. William Cusick, "Emotional Aspects of Pelvic Surgery;" Dr. M. MacLavery, "New Techniques in Treatment of Pelvic Cancer" and Dr. James O'Leary, "Recent Developments and Treatment of Thrombo-embolic Disease."

FOLLOWING LUNCHEON, there will be a panel discussion on the "Nurse's Role in Care of Gynecologic Patient." Dr. U. Cucco, chairman of the OB-Gyne department of Holy Family will be moderator. Panelists will be Drs. Leone, Cusick, L. McGill, MacLavery and Eggers.

Nurses interested in attending may contact Mrs. Barbara Carswell, R.N., coordinator staff development, Holy Family. Registration is open to all registered, licensed and student nurses from northwestern suburban areas. Reservations, limited to 100, are due by Feb. 5. Registration fee of $1.75 includes luncheon and coffee break refreshments.

Spring Floral Workshop Opens

In conjunction with Arlington Heights Park District, Arlington Heights Garden Club is sponsoring a 6-week workshop on floral arrangements.

The sessions, beginning today, will be held each Tuesday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 in Pioneer Park Field House.

Spring flowers in varied containers will be the subject of the lessons, the first of which is being conducted by Mrs. Charles Moser, chairman of the workshops and artist chairman of the club.

All area women may register for the workshops. Fee is $10; registration is through the Park District. The field house is located at 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights.

'Schoolmandering' Means Complications...

Editor's note: The Cook County Board of School Trustees recently approved a boundary change that eventually would place almost all Rolling Meadows students in Rolling Meadows High School. Education writer Judy Brandes, who has covered the story, analyzes the effects of the change in a three-part series. Part one discusses some of the financial questions raised by the shift.

by JUDY BRANDES
The Dist. 211-214 boundary change in Rolling Meadows is water over the dam for the residents now that the county board has ruled in favor of the change. Shortly, though, the school districts will face a flood of complications when they start working out the financial details of the boundary change.

Uppermost in everyone's mind is the problem of the 27 juniors attending William Fremd High School in Dist. 211 this year. With the boundary change, they will be unable to complete their senior year at Fremd unless someone pays about $1,000 tuition for each of them

The boundary decision comes at the end of the first semester for the juniors. Yearbooks have been ordered and class rings for the 1972 graduating class are expected to arrive at school sometime next month. The 27 students, who until this month thought they would be members of Fremd's Class of '72, have made friends, joined activities and made plans for completing their required classwork at Fremd.

SINCE Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class the first year it is open, the upcoming seniors cannot be consoled with the idea of being the first class to graduate from their community high school.

If arrangements are not made for them to remain at Fremd as tuition students, Dist. 214 probably will place them in the Forest View High School senior class with the other 29 Dist. 214 seniors from Rolling Meadows.

During the Cook County Board of School Trustees' hearing on the boundary change, concern for the 27 Fremd juniors was expressed by both school districts and the resident petitioners.

Until the two local school boards receive official notice of the boundary change from the county superintendent, neither can take any official action to solve the juniors' problem. This notice should come during the next two weeks.

Legally, Dist. 211 cannot allow the 27 students to remain at Fremd next year without receiving tuition for them. The boundary change will be effective July 1, and the students will become residents of Dist. 214 at that time. According to state law, no district can accept out-of-district students without someone paying the per pupil cost of education in the district.

This figure, which hovers around $1,000 for Dist. 211, also is the per-pupil cost the district submits to the state to receive state aid.

ROLLING MEADOWS Mayor Roland J. Meyer has said the city would try to help solve the tuition problem and would help pay the $27,000 needed to keep the 27 juniors at Fremd next year.

A municipality can give any portion of the state income tax it receives to another taxing district, such as a school park or fire district. The city would be able to give some of its income tax money to Dist. 211 to help cover the tuition for the 27 students.

City officials have not said how much money they are willing to contribute, but they have said they will negotiate with both school districts.

The 27 students will be living in Dist. 214, so Dist. 214 will receive about $182 in state aid for each of them, regardless of where they go to school.

The per-pupil amount of state aid any school district receives is based on assessed valuation, enrollment and average daily attendance. No high school district can receive more than $850 per student. Dist. 214 is below the maximum because of its $945 million assessed valuation.

Residents in the area changing districts hope Dist. 214 will give at least the estimated $5,000 it will receive for the 27 students to Dist. 211 to help pay the tuition, and that the city will make up the difference.

IF DIST. 214 agrees to pay the $5,000, and perhaps some additional money, the city or the parents will have to round up about $22,000 for the rest of the tuition.

However, Dist. 214 may have good reasons for not wanting to give the state aid money to Dist. 211.

Totally, 134 students from Fremd High School are affected by the boundary change. With the possible exception of the 27 juniors, they will start school this coming fall in Dist. 214's Rolling Meadows High School.

Dist. 214 will not receive any tax money from the newly annexed area until spring, 1972. Between 107 and 134 students will be in school in Dist. 214 for eight or nine months before their parents pay taxes to that district.

The reason for the delay in changing the taxes from Dist. 211 to Dist. 214 is that both school districts passed their 1970 tax levies last fall.

ROLLING MEADOWS residents were in Dist. 211 at that time and are responsible for the taxes levied by the district while they still were part of it.

Dist. 211 based its levy on an assessed valuation that included Rolling Meadows. For taxing purposes, the disannexing area is part of Dist. 211 for the rest of 1971.

After 1971, Rolling Meadows residents will continue to pay taxes to the Dist. 211 Bond and Interest Fund for bonds sold and levied while they were in the district.

The bonded indebtedness the area is responsible for and how it will affect each homeowner's tax bill for the next 16 years will be analyzed tomorrow.

Busy Season For Our Lawmakers

by ED MURNANE

This is the beginning of the busy season for public officials in both Washington and Springfield.

The state legislature returns to Springfield today where it will begin what is expected to be the busiest session of a General Assembly in the history of the state. On the docket between now and the end of June are hundreds of bills to implement the new state Constitution, redistricting of the state's congressional and legislative district, approved of the annual budget and the appropriations bills that go along with it and action on the usual bills that manage to find their way into the legislative battleground each year.

The best way to tell that the General Assembly is back in session is to look for the annual flood of creek bills — those designed to relieve flooding in various districts of the state.

Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, is getting the jump on most of the lawmakers ers by introducing one of the first creek bills of the new year. He'll file a bill this morning that will appropriate $600,000 for the continuation of work on Salt Creek in Rolling Meadows, Palatine and Arlington Heights, including the improvements under the Chicago and North Western Railway culvert near Arlington Park Race Track.

IN WASHINGTON, senators and congressmen will begin sifting through the thousands of legislative items that will keep Congress busy for the next two years.

The new Congress has 13 members from Illinois in its "top 200" club of those who rank in the upper half in seniority.

Heading the list is Rep. Les Ahrends, R-17th, who is the ranking Republican in the House of Representatives and fourth in seniority among the 434 members of the House.

Ahrends has served 19 terms in the House, six fewer than Rep. Emmanuel Celler, D-N.Y., who is number one in seniority.

Rep. Harold Collier, R-10th, ranks highest among the local congressmen with a 106 ranking. Collier is serving his ninth term now and moved from 123rd to 106th following last year's elections.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-12th, is one of 45 representatives who have completed four terms in the House and have moved into the upper half in seniority.

Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-14th, has completed his third term and Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th, technically is serving in his first term since he was elected mid-way through the 91st Congress.

However, Crane does have seniority over the 53 new representatives who were elected in November.

The same is true for Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., who was sworn-in as Illinois' junior senator in November. Stevenson has seniority over the 11 new senators, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., since seniority is determined by consecutive service.

THE NORTHWEST Suburban Bar Association has invited Judge Raymond K. Berg to speak at its Feb. 10 meeting at the Des Plaines Elks Club. Berg is the judge who ordered the crackdown on drunken drivers during the holiday season and is urging that it be continued on a year-round basis. The bar association opposes the idea.

Cut Your Own Taxes

Miscellaneous Category: A Gold Mine?

by RAY DE CRANE

Enterprise Publications
Don't dismiss too casually the "Miscellaneous" category of deductions on your income tax return.

There can be a gold mine of deductions here.

This is a catch-all classification. Enter under Miscellaneous any deduction that did not properly fit into any other category on your return. If they apply in your case, you may list here any of the following:

Child care or invalid care payments.
Storm, fire, auto accident and theft losses.

Unreimbursed work expense, including the purchase and cleaning of required uniforms and special work clothes not readily adaptable to ordinary street wear; purchase of rubber and asbestos gloves used in special occupations; safety equipment, such as safety shoes and goggles; tools and supplies used in certain craft occupations; deductions from your wages for damages to your employer's property.

Union dues.
Fees paid an employment agency for having obtained a new job.

Educational expenses, if the training was to maintain or to improve skills required on the job or to meet your employer's specific job requirements or if required by law or regulations to keep your status. But such expenses undertaken initially to qualify you for a job or to qualify you for a better position are not deductible.

Alimony, if paid periodically to your former wife in accordance with a court decree or written separation agreement entered into after Aug. 16, 1954. The former wife must include such income in her return.

Unreimbursed entertainment expense if required by the nature of your work.
Expenses incurred in connection with the production or collection of income. If you are an investor, you may deduct fees paid an investment counselor or for subscriptions to financial publications. Also deduct the rental fee for a safety deposit box to safeguard your securities; the fee paid anyone for preparing your income tax return the cost of any tax publication you buy for help in preparing your own return.

Now for some explanations of the foregoing: A working wife who hires someone to care for her dependent children under the age of 13 so that she may go to work may obtain a child care deduction. It is limited to $600, or actual expenses if less, if one child is involved; and a maximum of $900 for two or more children.

A working wife who has a husband able to work must file a joint return to make this claim. The child care deduction is reduced by the excess of their combined income beyond $6,000. So, if there is one child involved and the combined income is $6,600, there is no deduction.

A widow, unmarried woman, divorced or deserted wife, may also claim a child care deduction if the prime purpose is to permit them to work or to seek gainful employment.

In the case of casualty and theft losses, any uninsured losses are deductible to the extent they exceed $100. In other words, the first $100 of each loss is on you; the remainder (less any insurance reimbursement) is fully deductible.

Forensics Team Holds First Meet

The Elgin Community College (ECC) forensics team sponsored the first annual G.I. Renner Forensics Tournament on Jan. 16.

Students from Kishwaukee Junior College, Eureka College, Malcolm X College, and Muscatine College (Iowa) competed with ECC in four events.

The sweepstakes award went to Kishwaukee College whose participants took first place in both impromptu speaking and oral interpretation. ECC captured the second place sweepstakes award by tying with Malcolm X College in after dinner speaking and with Muscatine College in oratory.

President G. I. Renner addressed the concluding session and accepted a plaque from the school which will record the forensics victories of ECC students. The plaque bears his name and will be hung at the school.

Mrs. Wini Steelman and Miss Barbara Bonner, co-captains of the forensics team, co-chaired the tournament, but did not compete. Those ECC students who did participate are Wayne Mull, Cindy Gysin, Diana Curtis, Cindy Caba, Alice Hawkins, and Martha Miles.

Sharon Dam, Robert Alfording, and Gloria Lane came from Northern Illinois University to serve as judges. There were also three judges from ECC, Terry Domschke, Margo Biersach, and Imogene Smith.

Ted Small Gets New Corporate Post

Ad Director Is Promoted

Ted W. Small, director of advertising for Paddock Publications, has been named corporate vice president of sales and marketing.

Announcement of his appointment was made today by Stuart R. Paddock Jr., president. The action was authorized at a Board of Directors meeting held Wednesday.

Small will continue to serve as president and publisher of Circle Enterprises, Inc., a Paddock subsidiary which publishes five weekly Herald newspapers in Lake County.

In his new corporate post, he will direct and coordinate all marketing and sales activity for the parent and subsidiary companies. Paddock Publications, Paddock DuPage Newspapers, Paddock Crescent Newspapers, and Circle Enterprises publish 10 dailies, five tri-weeklies, and 11 weeklies in northwest and south Cook, north Will, DuPage and Lake counties. Combined circulation of all newspapers is 213,255.

Leo G. "Jerry" Piper, an editor and publisher in community journalism from northern Illinois, has been named editorial director for the Paddock Crescent South newspapers group. The announcement was made by William Over, publisher and general manager of Paddock Crescent Newspapers.

At the same time, Over announced that Rick Friedman will become editorial director for the expanded Paddock Crescent North group in DuPage County. Friedman has previously been editorial director for both the north and south community newspapers.

Piper will be responsible for editorial operations of the Southwest Graphic Herald, serving Lemont, Lockport, Mokena, Bolingbrook, New Lenox, Romeoville, Frankfort, Crest Hill, Marley, Lincolnwood Hills, Lincoln Estates, and Western Joliet; the Tinley Park Times Herald; the Oak Forest Times Herald; and the Orland Park Herald.

Piper, 39, comes to Paddock Crescent publications with a background in weekly newspaper publishing from Durand, Ill., a small community close to the Wisconsin border northwest of Rockford. In Durand he was co-publisher of Van Sickle Associated Publishers.

Piper joined the Van Sickle organization in 1955 following a tour of duty as Air Force public information officer at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, Nev. He served as editor for the Byron Tribune, his hometown newspaper, as well as editor of the Stillman Valley News, and the Leaf River Register, all Ogle County weeklies. In 1958 he became a partner in the firm.

Leo G. Piper

IN 1962 Piper became editor of the Durand Gazette and manager of the Van Sickle printing plant in Durand.

A graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism, Piper was a member of the university track and cross-country teams. Among awards his newspapers have received is a first-place award from the Illinois Press Association for sports coverage.

Piper is a member of the Illinois Press Association board of directors, treasurer of the Northern Illinois Editorial Association, an Illinois Editors Traffic Safety Seminar board member, and area alumni leader for the University of Missouri. He is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism fraternity.

In Durand, Piper was secretary of the village plan commission, board member of the Medina Nursing Home, and active in Business Men's Association and in various civic and business enterprises.

made director of display advertising in 1968, advancing to director of advertising in April, 1970.

The new vice president brings to his position more than 25 years' experience in sales, sales administration, merchandising, and promotion.

A 19-year resident of Mount Prospect, Small is a member of St. Raymond Catholic Church and has served as a Rotary Club director, member of Park District Advisory Board, and board of governors for Village Green Golf Club. He recently completed a second term as president of Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce.

Small and his wife, Lee, are parents of two children. They live at 725 W. Busse Ave., Mount Prospect.

Park Dist. Slates Chess Tournament

Second place winner was James Murphy and third place winner was Jeff Hyland.

The third and final sectional will be played during the Arlington Heights Chess Club's regular meetings held every Monday at 7:30 p.m. The club meets at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights.

The chess club, which is open to all area residents, is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District. There is no fee or age limits required for joining the club.

Woods Appointed To Citizens Task Force Unit

John G. Woods, former mayor of Arlington Heights and a delegate at the Illinois Constitutional Convention last year, has been appointed to a citizens task force committee that will help the Illinois Legislature implement the new state charter.

Appointment of the 15-member committee was announced by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Prof. Samuel Gove, director of the Institute of Government and Public Affairs at the University of Illinois, will head the committee.

The task force is bipartisan and includes several Con-Con delegates in addition to Woods.

They include Robert Butler of Marion, David Davis of Bloomington, Stanley C. Johnson of DeKalb, Mrs. Betty Keegan of Rockford, Maurice Scott of Springfield and Al Raby of Chicago.

ALSO NAMED to the committee were Jack Siegel, municipal attorney for Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and Evanston, and L. D. LaFleur of Bloomington, a DuPage County auditor.

Ogilvie said the task force would identify areas of legislation needed to implement the new Constitution, which takes effect on July 1. He said the group will make recommendations for the enactment, repeal or amendment of specific statutes, provide research and technical assistance to the legislature and advise the governor on the implementation process.

Gove estimated that it will take 500 bills to implement the new Constitution.

The Constitution, written during the nine-month convention in 1969 and 1970, was overwhelmingly approved by Illinois voters on Dec. 15.

It will replace the 1870 Illinois Constitution.

The Doctor Says:

Better Dead Than Bald?

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am scared and don't know where to turn. I'm 28 and have three children. Other than an operation for appendicitis I have never been ill. Four years ago my hair started falling out and it falls out by the fistful. I go to the beauty shop every Saturday. A young operator told me I'd be bald in years. I can't sleep or eat and just the thought starts me to cry. My husband says it is all foolishness, but I would rather be dead than bald. Would you please tell me who I should see or what to do to help me? We don't have much money, but I'd gladly go to work if necessary.

Dear Reader — Baldness in women is more common than you might think, although it usually occurs in later years. Of course, you are not bald YET. There are a lot of causes for baldness. Sometimes it is the result of a glandular disturbance. The small gland at the base of the brain sometimes is injured in childbirth and leads to multiple gland problems. The thyroid gland function is important, too.

Nervousness sometimes causes a loss of hair — even in patches. This may be a contributing factor in your case.

Another cause for loss of hair is frequent use of harsh chemicals in beauty treatments. That trip to the beauty parlor every Saturday may be costing you more than money. Considering some of the things that are done to hair it is a wonder that any of it survives.

I think you really ought to go see a skin specialist (dermatologist). He can tell you if you also need some studies for endocrine gland function or if you just need to stop all those hair treatments.

If your loss of hair is caused by nervousness, perhaps knowing this is the cause will help you to relax and nature will solve your problem.

Since you don't have much money, why don't you drop the beauty parlor off your list of expenses for awhile and merely shampoo your hair at home (not too often) for a few weeks and see what happens? Don't use bleach or tint or other beauty preparations.

ABOUT ONE-THIRD of diabetics can be treated with dietary management alone. The figure might be even higher if all those who are overweight really lost all their excess fat. I have personally seen many people who had diabetic blood reactions become completely normal after significant weight loss.

MANY PEOPLE fail to realize that their living habits include the regular use of drugs. Coffee or colas contain caffeine, which is a drug. If you need a tranquilizer, you don't need a stimulant. The two drugs would counteract each other.

DO YOU KNOW anyone who has violent reactions after drinking alcohol? Usually, these people have brain damage, according to Dr. George Thompson, a Los Angeles psychiatrist. Dr. Thompson found that these people had abnormalities in their brain wave (EEG) similar to those reported in certain types of epilepsy (psychomotor). As little as two drinks can precipitate the reaction in some people and they may not even remember the incident afterward.

Twin Lakes Ducks May Be In Danger

Release of a substance, tentatively identified by park district officials as crankcase oil, somewhere in the High Point area of Hoffman Estates within the past several days is causing problems at South Twin Lake and may prove dangerous to wild ducks inhabiting that pond.

Mrs. Anne M. Scherings, director of parks and recreation told The Herald that the appearance of oil was reported to her Monday morning by Edwin Houff and Gary Alvarez, both residents of the lakeside area.

Apparently the oil was drained from a vehicle somewhere in the area and subsequently flowed down pavement and into a sewer leading to the retention pond.

Mrs. Scherings explained that she had reported the incident to village officials and had been promised that they would investigate and take any steps necessary to correct the situation.

Ken Dean, village superintendent of streets, said that based on findings of street department employees assigned to investigate South Twin Lake yesterday morning, small amounts of oil appeared to have entered the lake from the sewer system.

Stressing that Twin Lakes, like other ponds owned by the park district, are retention basins, Dean called for caution on the part of residents in chemical disposal.

"STORM CATCH basins are not designed for the disposal of oil of any kind, paints, thinners or other chemicals," he warned.

Dean suggested that possible safe disposal of such materials is accomplished by draining the substance into cans, capping them securely and placing them with other refuse, stored in covered garbage cans, for scavenger collection.

"From here on in, the village plans on checking the area in the neighborhood of Twin Lakes in an attempt to determine what and where this oil may have come from, helping the park district in any way possible to clear up the immediate problem and stressing proper use of storm sewers to the people of our community," Dean said.

Continuing he said that he cannot envision permanent damage to the lake since workers quickly began sopping up as much of the oil possible with straw.

Dean also emphasized that since much of the lake is frozen only minimal amounts of the oil has flowed into the water. The more than 20 wild ducks at the lake site were also provided with straw nesting places.

'Festival Of Arts' Drive Set For Monday

A house canvass and mailings will open the fund drive next Monday for the Schaumburg Festival of Arts, June 19-20 at Schaumburg High School.

Mrs. Sonja Leraas, festival chairman announced a goal of $4,000 for the drive, to finance rental of school facilities to house the festival, security for exhibitions, easels and operating expenses, construction of a stage and prizes for winning artists.

The festival is expected to draw exhibitors from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Roselle, Streamwood, Hanover Park, Rolling Meadows, Inverness, Arlington Heights and Bartlett. Fund-raisers will be solicited in those communities.

The festival soon will incorporate a non-profit organization, said Mrs. Leraas, and donations will be tax deductible.

INDIVIDUAL DONORS may become patrons or sponsors. If they contribute $20 to the festival, they qualify as patrons and receive two free tickets to all events, one for a student and one for an adult. Sponsors are persons contributing $100, and they receive 10 free tickets, five for students and five for adults. They also will receive two adult passes for the first season of Schaumburg Civic Theater.

Festival volunteers also will contact merchants in the communities, asking them to purchase program advertisements.

"Even cultural events cannot be organized and operated effectively without funds," said Mrs. Leraas. She noted a $100 donation was given by Lancer Corp., Schaumburg, kicking off the fund-raising project.

"We are gratified that builders like Campanelli Bros., Leavitt & Sons and Morwell have shown support of the festival by donating lumber to build exhibition booths and a stage. This has saved us a very substantial expense, but there are still many other materials and services necessary to such a large-scale event that must be purchased," she said. Festival expenses are estimated at $3,050 in a preliminary budget, not including the cost of school facility rental. Among major expenses will be printing of programs, letters and festival maps, estimated at $1,500. Most work to prepare for the festival will be done by volunteers, and other expenses generally will be for materials.

PROCEEDS OF the event will finance future festivals, and help establish the Schaumburg Civic Theater, to be organized by festival supporters.

Mrs. Leraas announced the names of recently appointed committee chairmen. These are Mrs. Marian Waesche of Rolling Meadows. An evening of One-Act Plays, Mrs. Daphne Ducharme and Mrs. Donna Clark, both of Schaumburg, poster contest; Mrs. Pat Nehmzow of Schaumburg, fund and ticket drive, and Mrs. Shirley Ryan of Schaumburg, A swinging Decade. Chairmen still are needed for committees on a poetry contest, program preparation and parade arrangements.

Authorized persons working on the fund drive are Miss Terry Vangsness, Hanover Park; Mrs. Marlene Feilen, Elgin; Bill Montello and Gerald Kometsky, Streamwood; Mrs. Waesche, Rolling Meadows; Mrs. Marilyn Carroll, Mrs. Peggy Kulik, Mrs. Darlene DeBolt, Mrs. Linda Overwise, Mrs. Shirley Tosh, Mrs. Judy Roten, Mrs. Mickey Keating, Mrs. Nehmzow and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Leraas, all of Schaumburg.

Persons who wish to contribute to the festival may contact Mrs. Keating at 882-4153.

Mrs. Leraas added festival supporters now are registering persons who would like to exhibit their art work.

"And even though we are concentrating at this time on raising funds for the festival, we would like to emphasize that we are still looking for volunteers to head up and work on various committees," she said. Volunteers may reach Mrs. E. Leraas at 894-2380.

Conant Slates Career Seminar

A career seminar program aimed at the student who is concerned with getting a job after graduation is being held in James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

According to Bruce Welker, vocational guidance coordinator, the program instituted in November is different because it is for the forty to fifty per cent of the student body that will not go on to college.

"For many careers college is necessary, but there are vocations that do not require further study and it's these jobs we are talking about," said Welker.

Welker said freshman through senior students may attend programs when speakers are scheduled.

This year's program is different from last year's when only two or three career day sessions were held for all students.

THE HOME room period is extended when speakers are scheduled and any student who is interested in the announced speaker can attend. All students are not required to attend. But, a student can attend as many sessions as he wants throughout the school year.

Don Martin, manager of the local Hoffman Estates Osco Drug Store, is scheduled to talk to the students Wednesday morning.

He is the first of several local businessmen and workers Welker has asked to appear before the students and is formally "talk about their jobs."

"The most frequent question students ask is what's available for me?" said Welker.

"Next comes, how do I enter the field, and how fast can I move up?" added Welker.

Welker believes it is important to give exposure to all types of careers. "The program this year will do that by scheduling many speakers in various fields," he said.

Auto Agency Plans Purchase Of Land

Franklin-Weber Pontiac agency of Schaumburg plans to purchase 1.25 acres west of its present location on Golf Road for future expansion, owner John G. Mathais told the Zoning Board of Appeals last week.

Mathais, who is seeking B-4, auto agency zoning for the property, said the additional land will be used for storage, a used car lot or possibly a showroom at some future date.

Withaeger Drive, a dedicated but un-built street, comes between the land Mathais is purchasing and the agency's present site.

Mathais said he will try to have the street vacated and dedicate a street site at the west end of the property.

The zoning board unanimously recommended B-4 zoning, restricted to auto dealership use with no service stations. The recommendation must be presented to the village board for final action.

6 Vie For Park Board Post

Six men have announced their intention to run for three Hanover Park Park District commissioners posts in the April election.

They are the three incumbents, Harry Vosburg, John Koutsogianis and Wayne Dobson and Jim Strawn, Larry Celeste and Wayne Roethler.

Vosburg, appointed recently to fill the unexpired term of resigning commissioner John Morrissey, has filed his petition as has Koutsogianis.

Dodson, Strawn, Celeste and Roethler have taken out petitions, and Mrs. Nancy Neilson park district secretary, but have not filed. Filing closes Feb. 15.

There are two, 6-year terms and one unexpired two-year term, Dodson's up for election.

Strawn, chairman of the Community Service Committee, has resigned from the committee, effective Feb. 1. He said he would devote his time to the park district if elected.

CELESTE, MANAGER OF the Hanover Park Boys Boxing Club, is active in park district activities.

Roethler is slot car racing supervisor and has directed racing programs at the Ahlstrand Fieldhouse for the past two years.

In the village municipal election race where three trustees posts are up for election, incumbent Trustee Gordon Jensen has taken out a petition, said Mrs. Elaine Mars, village clerk. Jensen has not filed, she added.

Others who have taken out petitions are past trustee Bill Hommowun and James Dowling.

Two three-man slates have filed. They are the Republican backed slate of Frank Dalla Valle Jr., Tom Everett, and William Rietz, and the HOP (Hanover's Own Party) slate of incumbent two Trustees Louis Barone and James Scheuber and James Kamradt.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Temperatures around the country:

Dist. 54 Works On Policy Statement

Developers' Donations Are Listed

Contributions from Schaumburg Township developers to school Dist. 54 have been a matter of concern for the board of education in past months, most recently related to a Miller Builders project.

Last night the board's building and sites committee was to start work on a policy statement, listing minimum donations desired by the board from each developer. In preparation for last night's work, district business manager Marvin Lapicola has reported to the board on donations already received from construction firms.

Total contributions to date have amounted to $2,926,300, with the major share of $1,460,400 coming from Hoffman-Rosner Corp., said Lapicola.

Other contributing builders have been Campanelli Brothers, $772,850; 3-H Builders, $260,000; Timbercrest Builders, $164,050; Branigan, $90,000; Lancer Corp., $131,000 and Kasuba Builders, $48,000.

The Hoffman-Rosner Corp. gifts are broken down into $506,100 in land, $600,000 in buildings and $294,300 in cash. The firm has built 14 developments in the school district, with the one near Blackhawk School bringing the greatest dollar-value to district accounts. In that area, a donated site was valued at $24,500, and cash donations for a building totaled $180,000. Other areas from that firm, and the donations to the district, are Twinbrook School site and funds, total value of $183,000; Fairview School site and funds, $157,000; Hoffman School site and funds, $143,000; Lakeview School site and funds, $139,500; Hammerstein Farm area, $12,000 cash; Hillcrest School site and funds, $161,500; Town and Country Park area, $18,600 cash.

OTHER Hoffman-Rosner contributions have been MacArthur School site and funds, $187,000; Higgins-Ross roads area, school site and funds, $88,500; Churchill area, $14,200 cash; Hassell-Jones roads area, $9,200 cash; area north of Hassell Road, $12,200 cash, and at an unspecified site, land and cash $98,200. Some school buildings also were sold to the district by the corporation at prices below market value, for a district savings of $62,000.

Campanelli Brothers contributions from seven sites are listed as Dooley School site, $68,950; Campanelli School site and building, $275,000; cash from an unspecified area, $72,900; Hale School site, $80,000; Addams Junior High site, $150,000; Aldrin School site, $72,000, and a site near Frost Junior High, $58,000.

3-H Builders has made two contributions, $200,000 for Hanover Highlands School and $80,000 in the Anne Fox School site.

Timbercrest builders has given a school site for $96,000, a per home unit cash donation of $41,800 and a per apartment unit cash donation of $26,250.

Branigan donated the Frost Junior High site for $75,000 and a school site in Pleasant Hills for $15,000.

Lancer Corporation's donation amounted to the $96,000 Collins School site and $35,000 in cash.

Kasuba builders gave $48,000 in cash. Other commitments from builders, with donations not yet received, are Kennedy Brothers, $130,350; Kaufman and Broad, $128,000; Peter Robin, unassessed sites; Multicom, $64,000; Levitt Builders, $256,000; Knightsbridge, $5,150; Centex, $56,000; Miller Builders, $46,600 and Gleich Development, $48,000.

23 Families 'Evicted' By Fire

by DOUGLAS RAY

"Eighteen years of my sweat is in the basement of that building," said Mrs. Mary Lambides, a member of one of the 23 families left homeless by the apartment building fire at the Meadow Trace complex in Rolling Meadows Saturday.

Mrs. Lambides, who had been a resident of Meadow Trace for four years, said, "I just want to move back to the city of Chicago."

The American Red Cross provided temporary housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows for all of the persons who had formerly lived in the fire gutted building. Yesterday was the last day for the 3-day disaster emergency housing and other agencies have stepped in to help the victims of the fire.

Since many of the children living in the complex attend Twinbrook Elementary School, the school's administration is providing help for the youth.

Principal Darrell Little has given clothing left at the school for emergencies to the children. The school's Parent Teacher Association will conduct a collection of used furniture to give to the families who lost many of their belongings. Clothing, footstuffs, furnishings and any other items that may be used by the victims are being sought.

THERE IS A SPECIAL need for baby furniture and clothing, said Mrs. Margaret Ciganek, a resident of the complex who is collecting many items for the homeless. Mrs. Ciganek said that two infants and two expectant mothers were without a home today. Eight of the children are under five years of age, she said.

John Blyth, Meadow Trace manager, said that housing will be provided for all the victims of the fire at other apartments in the area. Many of the homeless will be moved into other apartments at Meadow Trace, Blyth said.

Walter Jakobowski said that he had been told that an apartment for his family would be provided at Meadow Trace for 60 days. Jakobowski, who had been shopping when the fire began Saturday, said he didn't manage to salvage much from the fire. "We only got the television set out," he said.

"I WON'T MOVE back to Meadow Trace," said Miss Susan Elkins, who called herself one of the "lucky ones." "They will have to show me the next building is better," she said.

Miss Elkins said that she had urged management to improve the building that was destroyed by fire.

Most of Miss Elkin's belongings were salvaged when she returned to her apartment Sunday before demolition of the apartment began. "I lost pots and pans, but not much else," she said.

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser, felt differently about Meadow Trace. "I think it would be nice to move back," she said. She had been out of town at the time of the fire, "I'm not afraid to move back to another apartment in the complex," she said.

Mrs. and Mr. Ralph Kraehnke were one of the families hit hardest by the fire. They had recently purchased furniture for their apartment. "We had no insurance," said Mrs. Kraehnke.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Persons wishing to help the victims of the fire may contact Mrs. Ciganek at 397-8788 or Twinbrook School at 894-3309.

Elgin YMCA Slates Women's Karate Class

Women interested in improving their self defense and self confidence may still enroll in the women's karate class at the Elgin YMCA, 111 N. Channing St.

"Emphasis will be on self-defense in the course," said Robert Barron, first-degree black belt who will be the instructor. "Women will learn the basic self-defense movements such as escapes, counters and other effective fundamentals."

The course will include karate, ju jitsu and judo.

It also will include calisthenics, conditioning, body control, agility, proper breathing and body control, Barron said.

The class will meet each Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in the martial arts room of the YMCA, 111 N. Channing St. YMCA membership is not required for enrollment. For more information, contact the Elgin YMCA, 695-1100.

"If there is interest, we will conduct an intermediate class following the beginning class," Barron said.

MONEY TALKS

There are rewards for smart money management

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus. Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical married family in this country, whether it is in the low, middle, or high income bracket, most frequently quarrels about money.

Disregard of ability to pay for what the family terms its needs is often at the root of the problem. "Young people today," says San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Alfred Auerback, "assume they should have a car, a television set, nice clothes, and the other luxuries merely for the asking."

In predicating their happiness upon such possessions, they ironically set the stage for unhappiness. People who count their pleasures in purchases are only too eager, Time Magazine has noted, to adopt the ingenious forms of credit that have been invented.

"The Good Time Charlies and other merchants of debt do not talk too freely about the true cost of all this credit," Time points out, "and too many borrowers have no idea what they are really getting into."

There is widespread concern among families that they are guilty of loose spending habits and that their financial brinkmanship may be getting them into trouble.

For them we have four common-sense recommendations of qualified counselors that will be presented in succeeding articles.

OK'd In Special Board Session

New Water, Sewer Rates

Hanover Park Village Board members adopted an ordinance establishing rates and charges for use and services of the combined water works and sewerage system, in special session Saturday.

A portion of the ordinance restates water and sewer tap on fees, and clarifies the present village ordinance.

The ordinance adopted stipulates the permit fee for water tap on is $150 for each connection and $100 for each sewer system connection.

However, each family unit in a multi-family building or townhouse shall be construed as a separate unit or connection.

Several builders have in the past challenged the village's right to interpret the then existing ordinance as applying to multi-family development.

Village Atty. William Davies gave the board his interpretation of the tap on fee ordinance several months ago.

DAVIES SAID builders must pay $150 per unit but the builders argued that they have in the past been paying per connection.

The trustees took the attorney's recommendation and advised the building inspector to charge per unit in the future.

The new ordinance does not require interpretation and clearly states each unit requires payment of a separate tap on fee.

The water rate remains the same, $4.00 per month, in both DuPage and Cook County portions of the village.

A nominal 25 per cent a month charge for sewer service is set in the Cook County portion of the village.

DuPage County residents of Hanover Park will pay a $4.75 a month sewerage service charge. The DuPage users pay a higher sewerage fee because revenue from the fee will pay for the new sewage treatment plant built in DuPage County to serve DuPage County residents.

Most of the construction will be below ground level, with limited additions to existing buildings.

Tripling the capacity of the plant was planned to provide for the projected growth of the area served.

MSD Plant Ceremony Set Today

Ground will be broken today at 11 a.m. at the Hanover Park water reclamation plant for an addition which will triple the capacity of the Metropolitan Sanitary District plant from two million gallons per day to six million.

The plant was visited by President Nixon last year with Sanitary District Pres. John E. Egan. President Nixon was impressed with the operation of the microstrainer which produces an effluent 99 per cent pure. This is the major tertiary treatment facility in the nation.

Northwest suburban officials have been invited to attend the groundbreaking, including the mayors of Hanover Park, Schaumburg and Bartlett.

Pres. Egan, who recently acquired the actual shovel used for turning the last dirt to reverse the flow of the Chicago River, on Jan. 16, 1900, will use that shovel for the symbolic groundbreaking. He plans to affix another metal plate to the handle recording the occasion.

THE $2,783,000 CONTRACT was awarded to the E. J. Albrecht Co. It calls for completion of the work in 475 days.

The project includes adding two 50-foot-diameter primary settling tanks; two 4-step aeration tanks, 13 feet deep, 25 feet wide, two-pass system at 105 feet long; an operating gallery 153 feet long and 10 feet wide; two 60-foot-diameter final settling tanks, with a peripheral influent and effluent arrangement; two digestion tanks, each 40 feet in diameter and 19 feet six inches average depth; digestion control chamber, abutting the existing control chamber; one sludge-concentration tank, and revisions of the pump and blower building and tertiary building, including the replacement of pumps, piping, blowers, valves and air filters.

Most of the construction will be below ground level, with limited additions to existing buildings.

Tripling the capacity of the plant was planned to provide for the projected growth of the area served.

Drug Ed Training Grant Approved

Application for a $7,530 grant from the Cook County Commission on Criminal Justice, to be used for teacher training in drug education, was approved by the School Dist. 54 board last Thursday night.

The drug education program was explained by Frank Tavano, principal of Thomas Dooley School, who said it would cost the district $12,150 to start a program of its own. Under state law, school districts must provide drug education.

The district also is committed to teacher training through the Northwest Educational Cooperative, but Tavano said the cooperative cannot accommodate all district teachers.

The application results from Tavano's request the commission give the school teaching materials. The commission told him to qualify for the materials, the district must provide in-service training. Use of both programs will accommodate all district teachers.

THE COOPERATIVE'S program may not be held, depending on enrollment, said Tavano. If it is not, and if the grant application is denied, he will return to the board with a request for the $12,150.

In other board business: A contract for folding walls in Everett M. Dirksen School and an addition to Jane Addams Junior High School was awarded to Hufcor of Chicago for $23,659.

District Supt. Wayne Schaible reported the opening of Edwin Aldrin School likely will be delayed until after March 1, because of difficulty in getting heat service.

The board approved use of Harper College's computer department in setting up student schedules. The service will be free as part of the district's membership in the Northwest Educational Cooperative. Last year the district paid Lewis College $2,000 for the same service.

Business Mgr. Marvin Lopicola reported preliminary soil tests have been completed at a school site donated by Miller Builders, a developer, and results showed the site suitable for a school building.

The board approved a request from the Hoffman Estates Park District for flooding an area north of Armstrong School for a skating pond. It also approved a request from local Pathfinder Scout group for use of six classrooms at MacArthur School two Saturdays.

Children's Books Bought

The Hanover Park Public Library Association used its largest single cash donation of $100 received from Larwin Illinois Inc., builders, to purchase children's books.

Association member Mrs. Alice Cox said a recent membership drive and donations from Friends of the Library netted the library $750.

Library memberships were sold for $1 per family and others like the Larwin building firm, developers of "Greenbrook Country" in DuPage County gave $5 or larger donations as friends of the library.

The association felt purchase of juvenile books held priority over other purchases because young people of the community have easy accessibility to the library located in the Christ United Presbyterian Church at 6800 Pine Tree Street.

"Books are an important part of childhood," said Mrs. Cox. She added that older children and adults are able to travel to Gail Borden Library in Elgin and the Schaumburg Township Library.

THE LIBRARY is entirely staffed by volunteers and operates strictly through donations.

Its members are accepting donations of hard cover or paperback books now for a summer book sale.

Donations of volumes also are solicited for library circulation.

Any resident who would donate volumes to the library may drop these off at the library or at the home of Mrs. Cox at 7381 Gladiola Ave., or the home of Mrs. Elaine Robidner, 6857 Longmeadow Lane.

The library has started a section of black studies and find that junior high school and high school students are extremely interested in this field.

Man Charged In Four-Car Crash

One person was injured in a four-car accident at 10:15 p.m. last Wednesday at the intersection of Higgins and Roselle roads, Hoffman Estates.

Kathleen Elizabeth Peterson, 22, of 225 Valley, Hoffman Estates, driver of one car, reported pains in one arm, but refused medical treatment.

Charged with failure to stop for a red light was Howard Lynwood Dunlap, 30, of 29 LaFayette Ln., Hoffman Estates, driver of another car. He is to answer the charge Feb. 26 in Schaumburg Court.

Other drivers were Sheryl Denise Fry, 16, of 108 Arlington Ct., Hoffman Estates, and John Peter Koziol, 23, of 412 Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Dunlap was driving northbound on Roselle Road, and the other three autos were westbound on Higgins. Dunlap told Hoffman Estates Police that as he approached the intersection he saw the red light and applied his brakes but was unable to stop. He said he slid into the intersection, striking the three other cars.

"SYLVESTER AND THE Magic Pebble" a children's book by William Steig, has been criticized by an official of the Illinois Police Association because policemen are portrayed as pigs in the book. Educators have defended the book, pointing out that other characters, including one pictured above, also are pigs. The educators point out that all the characters in the book are animals, that the policemen appear only once and that police are not criticized in the text. The book is copyrighted by Steig and published by Windmill Books/Simon and Schuster. "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble" won the 1969 Caldecott Medal of the American Library Association for the best illustrations in a children's book.

'Sylvester And The Magic Pebble'

Librarian: Book Should Be Shelved

"Sylvester and the Magic Pebble," a controversial, award winning children's book, should stay on the shelves of the Schaumburg Township Public Library, according to Michael Madden, librarian.

The book has been criticized by the Illinois Police Association because it pictures police as pigs.

The Schaumburg Township Library has six copies of the book, written by William Steig, but no special interest has been shown in the book since the criticism by the IPA, Madden said.

The book is not available in Dist. 54 elementary school libraries, but is on order for next year.

The picture book, designed for children in primary grades, is about a young donkey boy named Sylvester Duncan who lives in the town of Oatsdale in a non-existent country where lions roam the woods.

The boy finds a magic pebble which will grant all his wishes. One day in the forest, Sylvester is frightened by a lion and wishes to become a rock. After he becomes a rock, it is impossible for him to make any more wishes.

SYLVESTER'S PARENTS, neighbors, friends and police all look for the donkey-boy, but no one can find him. A year passes and Sylvester is still a rock in the woods.

One day his parents come to the forest for a picnic and select the "Sylvester rock" for their table. The father finds the magic pebble and places it on the rock. Sylvester then makes a wish to be a donkey again. The story ends with the Duncan family happily reunited.

Madden points out that though the police are portrayed as pigs, the Duncan's neighbor and Sylvester's little friend are also pigs. The police are most helpful to the Duncans and show concern about the missing Sylvester.

Another aspect some have objected to, is portraying the American people as jackasses. "True the donkeys are the main characters, but there is nothing in the book to indicate that the story takes place in the United States, nor any known nation," Madden said.

He added, "The story is basically a delightful tale using personified animals as have most picture books written for small children. It could be said that this story is even moralistic."

"IT AFFIRMS the idea that nothing magical is as valuable as having near you, the ones that you love. At the end of the story, the Duncans look up the magic stone because they find no use for it. Having Sylvester well and safe is what brings them the most happiness."

The one illustration showing police as pigs is objectionable only if taken out of context, since in the story the police are seen as truly concerned animal friends, Madden said.

The book is the 1970 winner of the Caldecott Award of the children's services division of the American Library Association, as the most outstanding picture book published in the United States in 1969.

"It won because of the sensitivity of the book's illustrations, and the skill in which the illustrator so movingly depicted changing seasons and animals who appear so alive and sensitive," Madden said.

"Because of the beauty of the story and the skill of the illustrations, it is the recommendation of the library staff that this book not be removed from the collection of the Schaumburg Township Public Library," Madden concluded.

His recommendation will come before the board of trustees at the Wednesday, Feb. 3 meeting.

Doctor's Hearing Scheduled Today

Dr. James Middleton, a Des Plaines area physician charged by Cook County Sheriff's Police with deviate sexual assault, is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court this morning in a pre-trial hearing.

Middleton's attorney, Warren Carey, was granted a continuance Jan. 12 until today after Judge George Zimmerman ordered State's Attorney Daniel Miroballi to supply Carey with a list of witnesses for the prosecution.

Zimmerman also ordered that the state let Carey examine physical evidence seized by the sheriff's police at the time of the doctor's arrest in his office.

Dr. Middleton was arrested in a raid on his office at 969 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines last Dec. 1 by sheriff's police. They found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photographs, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation.

THE RAID came after a two month investigation by sheriff's police in which a number of his women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Dr. Middleton was also charged by police with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education has also charged Middleton with unethical practice and deception in applying for his Illinois medical license.

According to the department's attorney, Edward Price, Dr. Middleton has filed an answer denying all three charges placed against him.

He is charged with three violations of the Illinois Medical Practice Act. They are: the charge that Dr. Middleton's medical license was revoked in a sister state; and the charge that Dr. Middleton engaged in the employment of fraud and deception in applying for or securing a license certificate for practicing the treatment of human ailments in the State of Illinois.

THE THIRD violation, according to Price, is that Dr. Middleton "engaged in dishonorable, unethical and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Dr. Middleton has been scheduled to appear before a medical examining committee Feb. 4 in the State of Illinois Building to respond to the state's allegations.

Dr. Middleton could be granted a continuance on the hearing by the committee according to Price. "If his attorney asks for a continuance," Price said, "I would think the committee would grant it."

"If found guilty of the violations," Price added, "Dr. Middleton's Illinois license would be revoked. Until that time he can continue to practice medicine here."

Gail Parker, 115 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates, was one of 110 students of Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa, contacting prospective students during her Christmas vacation. She spoke with interested high school seniors in the area who plan to enroll in college next fall, but have not yet made their choice.

Czech Cagers To Play

The Elgin Community College Spartan basketball team will meet a Czechoslovakian basketball team tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Larkin High School, Elgin.

The Czech team is on tour in the United States in an effort to develop better relations between the Americans and people of other countries. An Australian team is making a similar goodwill tour among the Big Ten schools.

The game against the Spartans will be the first appearance of the Czechs in Illinois. Before the game, the players of each team will present each other with a memento of remembrance.

To accommodate the differences in the rules of the two countries a few rule changes have been made. There will be no back court or 10 second violation; the one-and-one freethrow shot has been eliminated; and, the teams will play according to the American quarter system rather than the 30 second clock used by the Czechoslovakians.

CZECHOSLOVAKIAN basketball celebrated its golden anniversary in 1969. The first exhibition game was played in 1897 under the rules written by a Prague gymnastic teacher, Josef Klinka. It was not until 1919 that the first real match was held. Finally the Independent Basketball Union was created out of the Czech Volleyball and Basketball Union.

In addition to its foundations at home, the Czechs have done much to propagate the foundation of European basketball. They were instrumental in founding the Federation of International Basketball Association (FIBA) and were present at the first official world tournament, the European Championship, in 1935. They were also present to open the first Olympic Basketball Tournament in Berlin and assisted in forming the Cup of European Countries Championship.

Basketball struck its firmest roots during World War II when people were looking for recreational escape from the atmosphere of war. They found it primarily under a basketball hoop. The fifties reflect this avid following and can be termed the golden, silver and bronze years when the Czechs swept across tournaments.

The age of the team in the U.S. ranges from 18-32 and some Olympic hopefuls are listed among those on the roster.

Adult tickets will cost $2.00, students with an I.D. will be charged $1.50 and children under 12 will be admitted free. Season passes will not be honored at this game.

WEPS will broadcast the game at 90.4 on your FM dial.

FISH Volunteers Attend Coffee

The 174 volunteers of the FISH group of Hanover Park, Bartlett and Streamwood attended a coffee held last week in the Fellowship Hall of the Immanuel United Church of Christ in Bartlett. The coffee was intended as an opportunity to become acquainted with each other.

The volunteers, who have been working together as an emergency help team in the three villages, have kept a close working relationship, but many have never met.

They have offered emergency help to over 100 cases since their volunteer group formed in October, 1970.

"Mutual problems, disappointments and joys were openly shared in a question-answer session. Volunteers left better informed about their FISH chapter and vowed to work even harder toward their mutual goal, to help a neighbor in need," said Mrs. Ernest Bickers, steering committee member.

The FISH volunteers work without pay, and offer round-the-clock service to anyone within the Hanover Park, Streamwood and Bartlett area. They work with over 80 professional agencies.

Hurt In Gun Mishap

Charles Dieringer, 28, of 2380 Monterey Ln., Hanover Park, was treated at St. hand.

a gun shot wound to the heel of his left Alexius Hospital, last Thursday night, for Dieringer told Schaumburg Police he was preparing to clean his .45-calibre automatic pistol when the accident occurred.

Dieringer was released from the hospital after treatment.

Volunteers offer their services for one day a month if they are needed.

A TELEPHONE ANSWERING service coordinates the emergency group. The FISH phone number is 387-8833.

Anyone needing help with housework, child care for a hospitalized mother or a ride to a doctor or hospital, or help in finding legal assistance is urged to call.

The FISH volunteers on duty will respond and if they are unable to help, will refer the caller to an agency that can.

FISH volunteers are recruited by phone and organized by the steering committee and do not hold meetings. Last week's meeting was a social gathering.

Area churches obtained the volunteers who are "simply people who are interested in helping one another," said Mrs. Bickers.

"And, that is the goal of the FISH organization," said Mrs. Bickers.

The group uses the early Christian symbol of a fish as the sign for their help group, but members are of all denominations and beliefs.

2 Youths Charged

A 17-year-old Hanover Park youth and a 16-year-old Schaumburg boy were arrested by Schaumburg Police Saturday night as they drove through the intersection of Weathersfield Way and Carver Lane.

Arthur J. Repeta Jr., 1511 Hillcrest, Hanover Park, was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor and possession of marijuana. The younger boy, whose name was withheld by police because of his age, was charged with driving an auto with no rear license plate.

Officer Terry McGraw saw the car and stopped it for the license plate violation, he said. He saw an unopened 6-pack of beer under a floor mat, he said, and ordered the youths to headquarters. On searching the car, police found a black water pipe and a container of crushed material alleged to be marijuana, they said.

Repeta is to appear March 3 in Schaumburg Court.

'Religion Fair' Set By Parochial School

The children of the St. John the Evangelist Parochial School in Streamwood have planned a "Religion Fair," Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school at 513 Parkside Cir.

Projects, murals, mobiles and a variety of other pieces of work will be displayed in the classrooms and corridors of the school depicting the areas of concentration of each class.

Explanation of the projects will be given by the children.

A short lecture, "Change Without Losing the Essentials," will be given by guest speaker Sister Dorothea of the Bartlett convent.

According to Sister Anita Marie, principal of St. John the Evangelist School, Sister Dorothea is presently engaged as Religion Education Consultant for several of the Chicago and Suburban parish schools and Confraternity of Christian Doctrine consultant at St. Catherine's School in Dundee.

Principal Marie, said the Fair has been planned "for all people interested in spending an inspiring, educational and enjoyable evening" and added that the fair and refreshments have been planned for all area residents as well as parents of school children.

Suggest Moving Village Account

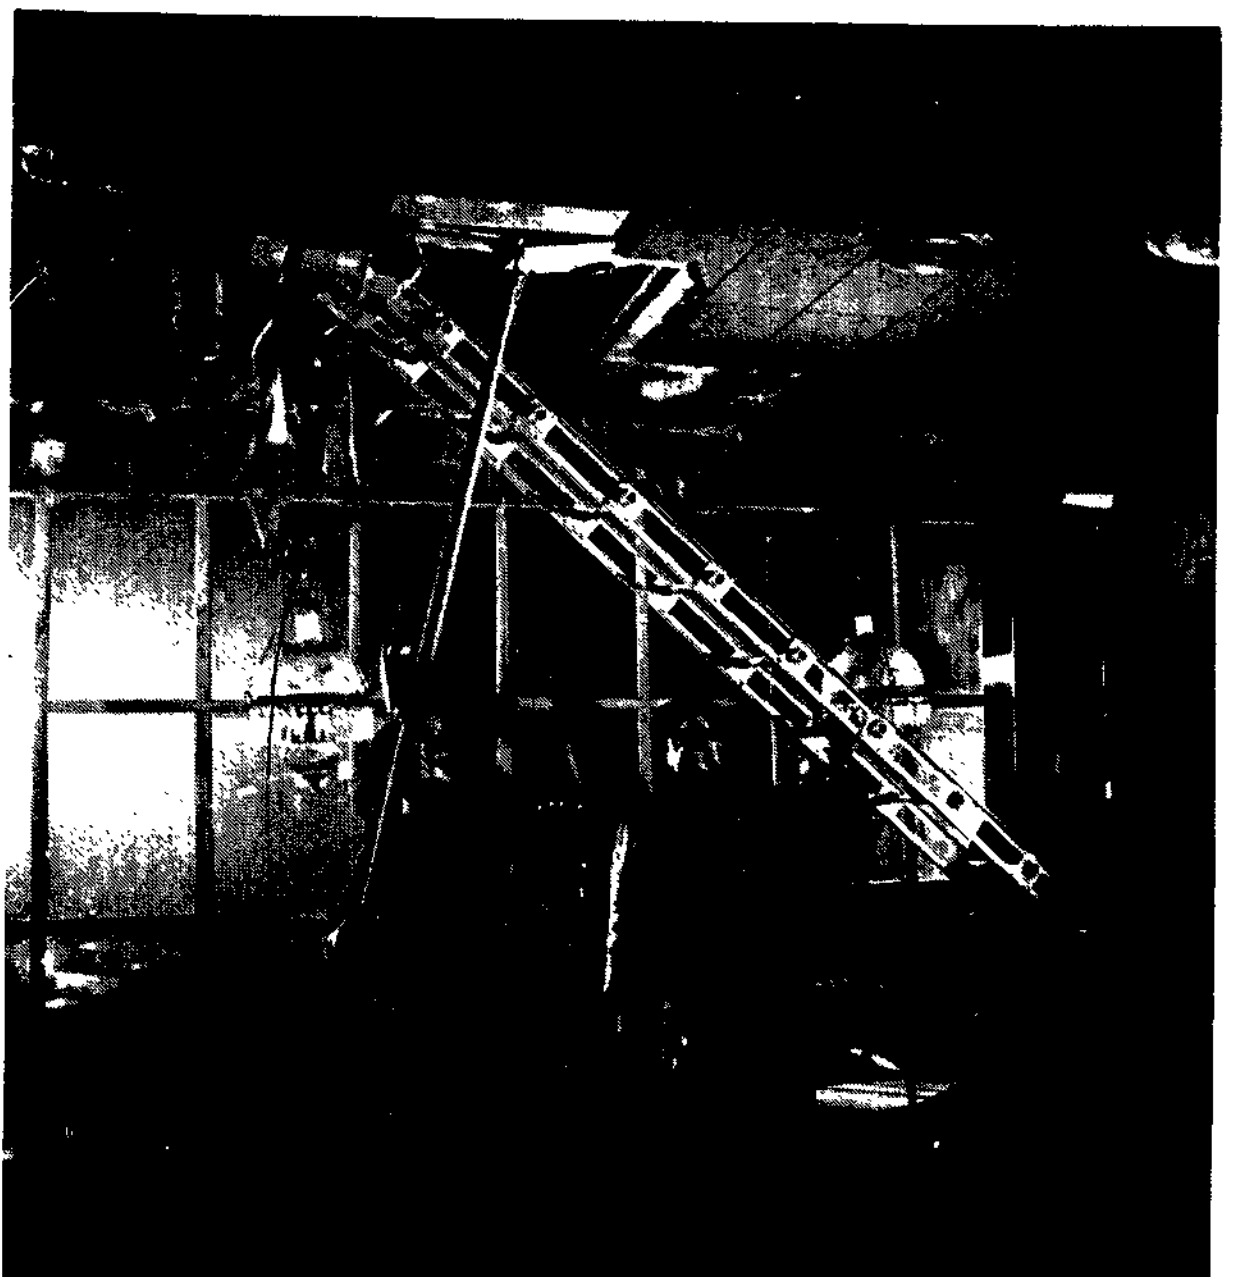

Jim Scheuber, Hanover Park trustee and chairman of the water and sewer department has requested the village consider using another bank to handle its present water accounts with the Oak Park National Bank.

Scheuber told members of the finance committee he is having difficulty obtaining cooperation from the Oak Park bank. The present accounting system is being changed to a combined water sewer account since the water and sewer departments have merged due to a recent village action.

The trustee said the bank has had over six weeks to change the billing system in time for the next village billing in March but has failed to do so.

He has requested the finance committee investigate the delay and notify the bank if cooperation is not received the account will be withdrawn.

Members of the finance committee will talk to representatives of the First National Bank of Elgin and the First State Bank and Trust Company of Hanover Park to see what they can suggest.

True Fishermen: They Never Quit

"And so if I might be judge, God never did make a more calm, quiet, innocent recreation than Angling."

So wrote Izaak Walton in his classic treatise on fishing some 315 years ago.

To the fisherman, the truth of those words still endures today, and none pays more obedience to the thought than the ice fisherman.

He pursues his noble art undeterred by the coming of winter, and undeterred by more slings and arrows than heaped on any other sportman.

The ice fisherman is subjected to slurs like "Arctic-thyologist," "Mr. Frosty-toes," "fool" and worse. But, to his credit, he quietly goes about his enjoyment, and occasionally has his day.

One such day is pictured here, the annual Ice Fishing Derby of the Northern Illinois Conservation Club on Lake Catherine. Sort of a World Series of ice fishing, it annually draws hundreds of anglers to Lake County to pursue prizes and the fellowship of the fraternity.

But any other day, you'll find him out on the ice as well. Because he believes, as Walton did, that there is only one way to live: "I have laid aside business, and gone a-fishing."

Neither snow, nor ice, nor cold shall stay them from their task.

Opinions Please On Metro Government: 'Good, Bad'

Metropolitan government is an idea that brings puzzled expressions and a variety of answers from Herald readers in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

This week "Opinions, Please" asked readers whether they think the Northwest suburbs should be consolidated under one government, instead of the confusion of municipal governments, and school, sanitary and fire districts which now cover the area.

Some liked the idea of a single government, others disliked it, but all said they could see both good and bad points in the proposal.

"The idea in itself is good," said MRS. GILBERT LEE of 193 Cottonwood in Buffalo Grove. "But I can't really see the governments getting together. Each village is set up so differently.

"Of course we haven't tried it so we can't know for sure."

Mrs. Lee said that a key problem would be taxes. "Taxes are so different," she said. "Some suburbs are more expensive to live in than others, and people might not want to have their taxes raised if they live in a village with lower taxes."

MRS. PETER RYNE, of 418 E. Mors, Wheeling, saw more problems than taxes involved in metropolitan government. A former Chicagoan, Mrs. Ryne dislikes big government.

"Small governments can handle our problems better," she said. "There isn't so much red tape. Each village has its own problems and I think they would be too much for one government."

"In Wheeling," Mrs. Ryne said, "Government is more person-to-person, more personal. You feel they know you're here. You are not lost in a maze of politics and politicians."

MRS. THOMAS J. LALLY, 185 Mohawk, Buffalo Grove, had some more down-to-earth objections to metropolitan government, and she saw some benefits coming from a single government.

"There might be a problem in getting police around such a large area," she said. "There might be a logistics problem of finding centrally located places for police and fire stations."

But, Mrs. Lally said, "The idea sounds good — working together and cooperating with each other. And if you combine things like schools and police and fire departments you usually get stronger groups."

"There would be less fragmentation and perhaps salary levels could be raised."

A different viewpoint came from MRS. HENRY KANE, of 617 Raupp, Buffalo Grove, who has lived in a big city, a "real small town" and now in Buffalo Grove.

"I came here from a small town and I enjoyed living there," Mrs. Kane said. "Living here feels almost like living in a big city, with all the suburbs jammed together."

"I think we're headed for metropolitan government because these suburbs are growing so fast. However, if government were larger it would be difficult for an individual or a small group to get recognition from government."

MRS. ROY LEO, 1321 Anthony, Wheeling, said she likes small villages because "you're closer to public officials and can influence government."

A LIVE RABBIT came to school with his master last week, when first graders at Mark Twain School in Wheeling brought their pets to school and set up a "pet store." The store was set up as part of a project to help youngsters learn by teaching them about various occupations. The students learned firsthand how a pet store is operated from an employee of a local pet shop, who talked to them earlier in the week.

Police Department Issues Report For '70

Crimes, Traffic Accidents Show Increases

Crimes were up 11 per cent and traffic accidents were up 19 per cent in 1970, a Wheeling Police department report indicates.

Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that he has not yet been able to study how increases in Wheeling crime and traffic accidents compare to increases nationally.

Horcher said, however, that he estimates that accidents in Wheeling in 1970 cost $700,000 in property damage, injuries, and deaths. He based the estimate on National Safety Council statistics.

"I haven't had a chance to study the figures to see if crime is increasing more here than elsewhere, but an 11 per cent crime increase seems better me," Horcher said.

THE REPORT, WHICH IS issued monthly, shows an overall increase in police calls of 14 per cent (from 8,558 to 9,725) in 1970 over 1969.

Although the crime rate is up, increases are seen mostly in minor crimes such as disorderly conduct and assaults.

While those minor crimes increased by 16 per cent in 1970, major crimes increased by only 3 per cent overall.

Major crimes which did increase were burglaries and breaking and enterings which were up 27 per cent, and larceny over $50 which increased by 53 per cent.

But only 21 cases of drunkenness were reported in 1970 as compared to 58 in 1969.

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS resulted in almost identical statistics on deaths and injuries in 1970 as in 1969.

However, there was a 26 per cent increase in the number of accidents involving property damage during 1970.

Also increased were service calls to police which went up by 14 per cent from 6,202 to 7,076.

Crimes by juvenile offenders increased by 34 per cent in the village during 1970, but minor offenses were responsible for much of the increase.

Notable increases include 18 burglaries involving juveniles compared to three in 1969, while thefts by juveniles decreased.

ALL MAJOR CRIMES by juveniles declined by 19 per cent but less serious crimes increased by 60 per cent.

There were 14 instances of juvenile drunkenness in 1970 compared to 4 in 1969 and 17 cases of weapons offenses compared to two in 1969.

Of the juvenile crimes reported, crimes involving elementary and junior high school students increased by 127 per cent from 44 in 1969 to 100 in 1970, according to school liaison officer reports.

Horcher said he thought the increase in grade school and junior high crime would probably be a combination of increased enforcement and increased incidents.

In Dist. 21 schools there were 25 cases of juvenile burglary in 1970 as compared to two cases in 1969.

Similar increases were shown in cases of disorderly conduct and criminal trespass by children.

In contrast crimes by Wheeling High School students declined by 23 per cent, from 279 in 1969 to 216 in 1970.

Fassbender Case Still In The Air

A suit over the 125-year-old building on the southeast corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue is apparently going to court without a settlement, Village Atty. Paul Hamer told the village board recently.

The village had agreed in September to consider a settlement of the suit filed by the village to force demolition of the building which belongs to Arthur Fassbender Sr.

The plan called for Fassbender's attorney to apply for village permission to replace the existing building with an office building connected to other buildings in the block.

Village approval would be needed because the new building could not comply with village setback requirements and other building regulations.

BUT HAMER said Monday that Fassbender's attorney had not filed for a zoning board hearing yet and that the demolition case was scheduled to come up in court on Jan. 28.

"He was to have applied for the zoning variation long before this," Hamer told the village board.

The village attorney said that the case would probably come to court as originally planned because the zoning variation had not been sought.

The village filed the suit last year to have the building demolished, claiming it is an eyesore and a safety hazard.

The village had denied requests from Fassbender to allow the building to be remodeled as an office building.

A portion of the building was torn down when the State Highway Division widened the corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue in 1968.

Fassbender maintains that the building should not be torn down because it has historical merit. He was born in the building 76 years ago. The building and the portion which was torn down have housed a variety of businesses over the years including a restaurant, a hardware store, a post office, and a bank. It is the oldest building in the village.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee called for a federal investigation into the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad's purchase of insurance to protect its directors against charges of wrong doing.

The Justice Department Monday charged and Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Temperatures around the country:

Airplane Central Feature Of Suburb

TWO AIRLINE PILOTS Don Taylor and Don DeBolt are secretary and president respectively of DNT, Inc., a company developing a subdivision built around an airstrip. Both examine plans for the project, which will be built near Hampshire, a small community in Kane County, west of Elgin.

Alcoholism Unit Offers Program

The Lake County Council on Alcoholism has offered to help businesses organize programs to rehabilitate employees who are alcoholics.

James A. Panzer, executive director of the council, said that the National Council on Alcoholism estimates that one in 13 workers is an alcoholic and that these employees cause businesses to lose $6 billion each year. Absenteeism, accidents and unwise decisions caused by alcoholism are some of the reasons for the financial loss, said Panzer.

In spite of these figures, Panzer said, few companies have programs to rehabilitate employees and "arrest the disease of alcoholism itself."

Panzer said that companies interested in starting such a program to contact him at 244-4434. The council's office is at 223 Washington St., Waukegan.

While current suburbs are built around the automobile, a new suburb being planned by a Palatine corporation will be built around the airplane.

DNT, Inc., 537 Echo Ln., Palatine is planning to develop a new subdivision near Hampshire, 12 miles west of Elgin.

President of DNT, Don DeBolt, said the subdivision will be like most new communities being built today, except that the center of the community will be an airstrip.

DNT is selling lots along the airstrip, which the company is building. When buying a lot, the owner will build his own house. In all, DNT will be selling 45 lots ranging from three-quarters to one acre each, DeBolt said. They will sell from $12,000 to $14,000 each.

All lots will be next to the landing strip, DeBolt explained. When a person builds his home on the lot he buys, he can attach an air hangar to his house like most suburbanites do with garages for their car.

In buying a lot, DeBolt said, a person also buys stock in Casa de Aero, Inc., a company DNT set up to own the airstrip. This makes the resident partial owner of the airstrip.

DeBolt EXPLAINED that this type of land development project is not for everybody. While the company will sell lots to people who do not own airplanes, he said the property will appeal mainly to air enthusiasts.

DNT selected the location for the subdivision because it was suited for this kind of development. In building a new airstrip, one must consider O'Hare Airport. The developers had to consider the inverted pyramid where most of the O'Hare traffic will congregate. The Hampshire site is many miles away from this busy zone, even at 5,000 feet up.

51 Donors Sign Up For Blood Program

A total of 51 blood donors signed up for the cooperative Blood Replacement Plan in a program offered Saturday at Wheeling High School by the Wheeling Jaycees.

The plan, which allows an individual and his family free blood replacement in exchange for a pint donation of blood was part of the activities for Jaycee Week in Wheeling.

The Jaycees worked through the Beverly Blood Bank in Glenview to provide the blood bank program to local residents.

An extension of the program to cover the entire village in a free blood replacement plan is proposed for the future by the Jaycees.

Chairman of the blood bank, Marty Murphy, said yesterday that in addition to the donors, five or six persons signed up for the plan by giving a monetary contribution because they were unable to give blood.

DNT also had to get a special use permit to build the airstrip, DeBolt said. In Kane County, where the strip is located, one has the land zoned for farming and then applies for a special use permit.

DeBolt feels that there is a need for such a subdivision among airplane enthusiasts. Flying, as a hobby, is time consuming, he said. After a person comes home from work and wants to work on his hobby, he has to travel many miles to a country airport.

In recent years, the number of private airstrips in the Chicago metropolitan area have been decreasing. By buying a lot and building a home in the DNT development, a person can work on his hobby right in his own backyard. After spending a day in the office, a commuter can drive home and go flying for an hour, he said.

WHEN DeBOLT IS NOT working for DNT, he is an airline pilot for American Airlines. He flies on Monday and Tuesday and spends the rest of the weekdays working on DNT.

Other executives with DNT are also airline pilots. Vice president Ed Nunby works for American and Don Taylor, DNT's secretary is employed by United Airlines.

Taylor is also vice president of the Experimental Aircraft Association.

When setting up DNT, the company located its headquarters in DeBolt's home in Palatine. DeBolt points out that DNT stands for the first initials of the three head executives of the corporation.

DeBolt said that a subdivision built around an airstrip is nothing new. There are similar developments in California, Ohio, and Pennsylvania. In the Chicago area, such subdivisions exist near Downers Grove and Naperville.

Hampshire's subdivision may be one of a kind for DNT, DeBolt said. However, DNT may build another depending on how the Hampshire project goes.

MONEY TALKS

There are rewards for smart money management

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus.

Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical married family in this country, whether it is in the low, middle, or high income bracket, most frequently quarrels about money.

Disregard of ability to pay for what the family terms its needs is often at the root of the problem. "Young people today," says San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Alfred Auerback, "assume they should have a car, a television set, nice clothes, and the other luxuries merely for the asking."

In predicating their happiness upon such possessions, they ironically set the stage for unhappiness. People who count their pleasures in purchases are only too eager, Time Magazine has noted, to adopt the ingenious forms of credit that have been invented.

"The Good Time Charities and other merchants of debt do not talk too freely about the true cost of all this credit," Time points out, "and too many borrowers have no idea what they are really getting into."

There is widespread concern among families that they are guilty of loose spending habits and that their financial brinkmanship may be getting them into trouble.

For them we have four common-sense recommendations of qualified counselors that will be presented in succeeding articles.

Drainage Woes Could Be Over

A proposal for a solution to drainage problems in the area north of Dundee Road on Milwaukee Avenue will be presented to the Illinois Division of Highways for approval, Wheeling Trustee Roger Stricker said.

Stricker said after a meeting last Tuesday night involving bank trust representatives, the village and representatives of the Jewel-Osco stores, the parties involved "have finally made some headway" in solving the drainage problem.

The drainage problems in the area began when a parking lot was built for the Jewel Food Store, Stricker has said.

The water from the Jewel complex drains through a sewer under Milwaukee Avenue and through an existing sewer into the Des Plaines River.

WHEN THE VILLAGE granted Jewel permits for construction, the grocery and drug firm agreed to rebuild the sewer from the east side of Milwaukee Ave., halfway to the river because of needed repairs.

However, no formal written easement for the existing sewer could be found. The village has been acting as an intermediary between the Jewel and the current owner of the property where the sewer lies to negotiate a compromise on sewer placement.

The property the sewer crosses is a proposed site of an office building tentatively named Milbrook Plaza. It lies behind the service station on the northeast corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road. It is owned through a bank trust represented by the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

THE PLAZA BUILDING has been named as a possible expansion site for the bank itself. The property owners were concerned that the new sewer should be adequate to service other properties along Milwaukee Avenue, not just the Jewel property.

Also, they were concerned about the location of the sewer in relation to the proposed office building. Meetings to resolve the problem have been held for more than a year.

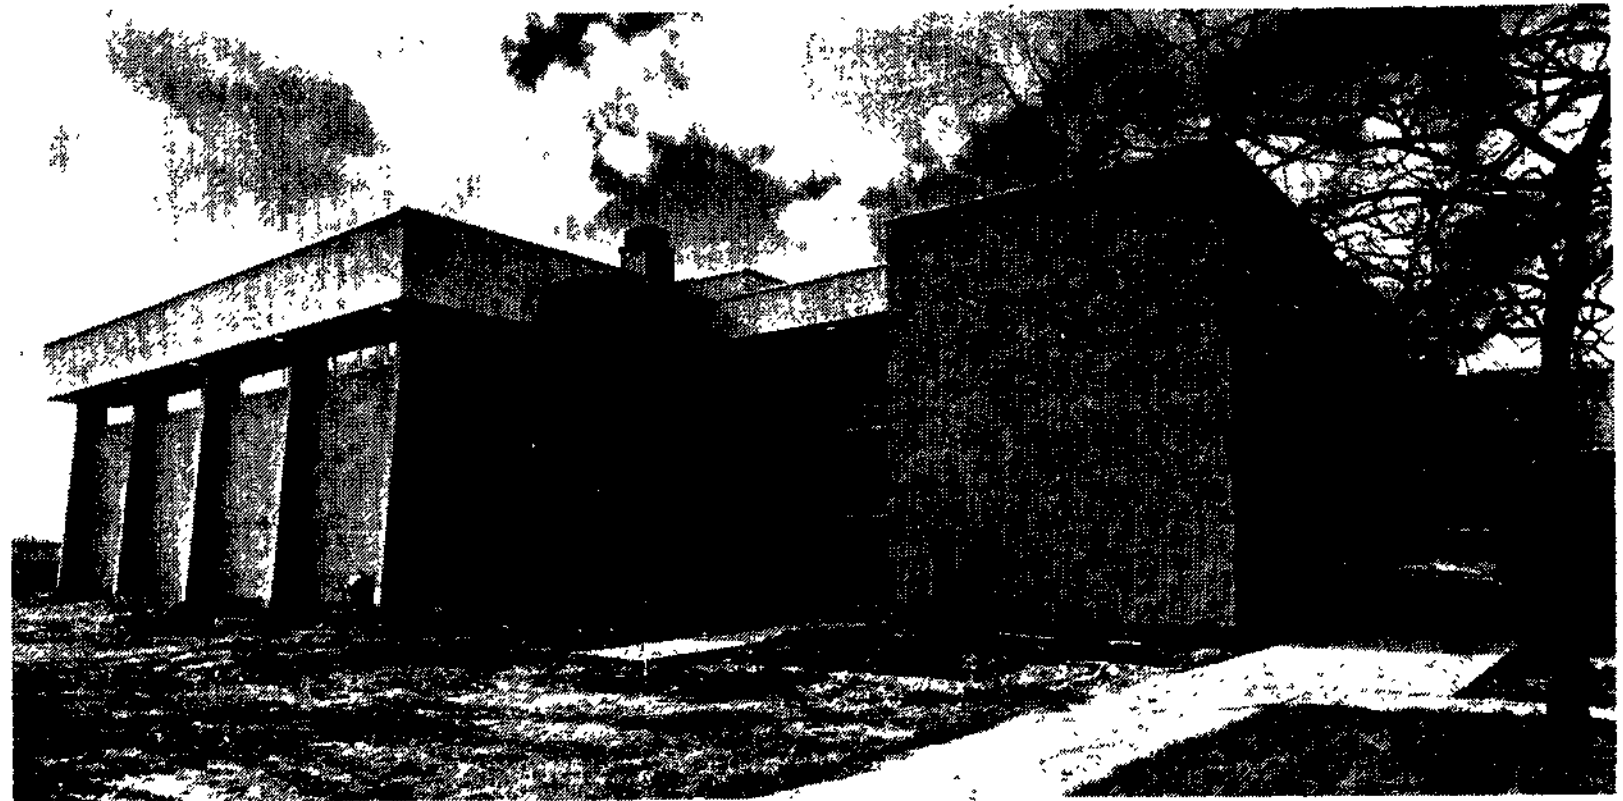

Stricker said Wednesday that the proposal now agreed upon involves draining the water into a state sewer under Milwaukee Avenue rather than crossing the plaza property with a sewer.

One problem may be that the state usually reserves the use of its sewers for water which would normally drain onto the road, he said.

Stricker said, however, that bank representatives would propose the new plan to the state on the grounds that the water would normally drain onto state highways.

The construction would not involve state funds but would come from a bond put up by the Jewel as part of its agreement with the village.

Other property owners in the area including Algot I. Runeman who owns Dirigo Fine Table Appointments at 170 N. Milwaukee Ave., have also been concerned about drainage problems in the area.

THE NEW INDOOR swimming pool at Wheeling High School will be featured on the cover of the 1971 telephone books for Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. The phone books will be issued on May 18, an Illinois Bell Telephone spokesman said. The pool, which is owned by the Wheeling Park District, opened last November.

Zoning Code Changes Urged

A proposal for a variety of changes to the Wheeling zoning code has been referred to the village attorney for preparation as an ordinance.

The changes proposed include amending the fee schedule to increase the required cost deposit for rezoning and all other variations from $90 to $100.

No change will be made in fees for requests for a variation for remodeling or construction of garages or fences on any property zoned for a single family residence.

Another change will eliminate a requirement for a 25-foot-wide buffer strip along a residential property line adjoining a shopping center.

INSTEAD OF THE 25 foot requirement

the ordinances will now give determination of the size of the buffer strip to the village plan commission for a decision on each individual development.

Discussion of the buffer strip requirement first came up during a rezoning case concerning the Wheeling Shopping Center.

A third change proposed in the ordinance would allow coin operated car washes to be built in areas zoned for general business use. Current ordinances allow car washes in both general business districts and service business districts but ban coin operated car washes.

Another change will correct an error in the municipal code where items which should be listed under flood plain regulations are included in the performance standards for industrial districts.

THE ORDINANCE will also amend the recreational vehicle ordinance to eliminate a regulation that no one may live in a trailer or mobile home in the village. Living in recreational trailers will be prohibited, however.

A final change in the ordinance will allow taxicab and bus terminals in the general industrial district with a special use permit. The change was made to provide a zoning classification which will allow the Ritzenthaler Bus lines to build a school bus terminal in the village.

Once Hamer completes the ordinance the village board will vote on the changes proposed.

Jaycees Honor Two Award Winners

The Wheeling Jaycees honored their selections for the Outstanding Young Educator and the Distinguished Service Award at the 13th annual Bosses Night banquet last Wednesday night.

Sister Rose Trahey, a teacher at St. Mary's Catholic School in Buffalo Grove, received the educator award and Richard Stanowski, guidance director at Forest View High School, received the service award.

Stanowski thanked the Jaycees for his award and agreed to accept it "only if you'll allow me to accept it for the many men and women who deserve it more."

He told the Jaycees "the really deserving people are those behind the scenes who neither seek nor need public acclaim, the people who work for little recognition but much in personal satisfaction."

SISTER ROSE said she was pleased the Jaycees had chosen to honor a teacher of the arts. "Something so useless as the arts is often passed over, but education in the arts is important, as important as not being indifferent to a child's capacity to wonder and to create beauty," she said.

Donald Russ, the main speaker for the evening, urged the Jaycees to live their lives with enthusiasm.

"Many employers rate enthusiasm even above professional skill. Enthusiasm is the dynamic motivation working toward that professional ability that we all strive for," Russ told the Jaycees.

Other activities of the bosses night included short speeches by various Jaycees explaining the local, state and national Jaycee organization and introduction of the various nominees for the two awards.

Two Community Ed Classes Still Open

Many openings remain in two classes being offered this winter in the community education program at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove.

The openings are in the "Magic for Fun" workshop for children in grades one through three and the adult class in "Understanding Your Child's New Math."

Mrs. Irene Sanderson, director of the community education program, said that six more children can be enrolled in the magic class. Only two adults have signed up to take the new math class, she said.

The magic workshop is offered from 3:40 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesdays at the school. It will run for seven more weeks.

The new math class is offered from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursdays at the school. It also will run for seven additional weeks.

Enrollment in the rest of the community education programs is near or at capacity, Mrs. Sanderson said.

She said that total enrollment in all the programs is about 150.

Further information on the programs may be obtained from Mrs. Sanderson at Longfellow, 541-1260.

Coroner's Inquest Set In Girl's Death

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl.

Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today; however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on par district property since the district was formed in 1966, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss. However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill." At the time of the accident, several park district supervisors, park board members and district administrators were at the nearby Woodland Trails Park. The district personnel were attending the annual district "Ice Carnival."

The sled hill is not visible from the ice rinks, bath house and swimming pool at Woodland Trails. According to Weiss, a child ran over to Woodland Trails to tell them an accident had occurred. "I sent over four boys to the sled hill, but by the time they got there the injured child had been taken to the hospital."

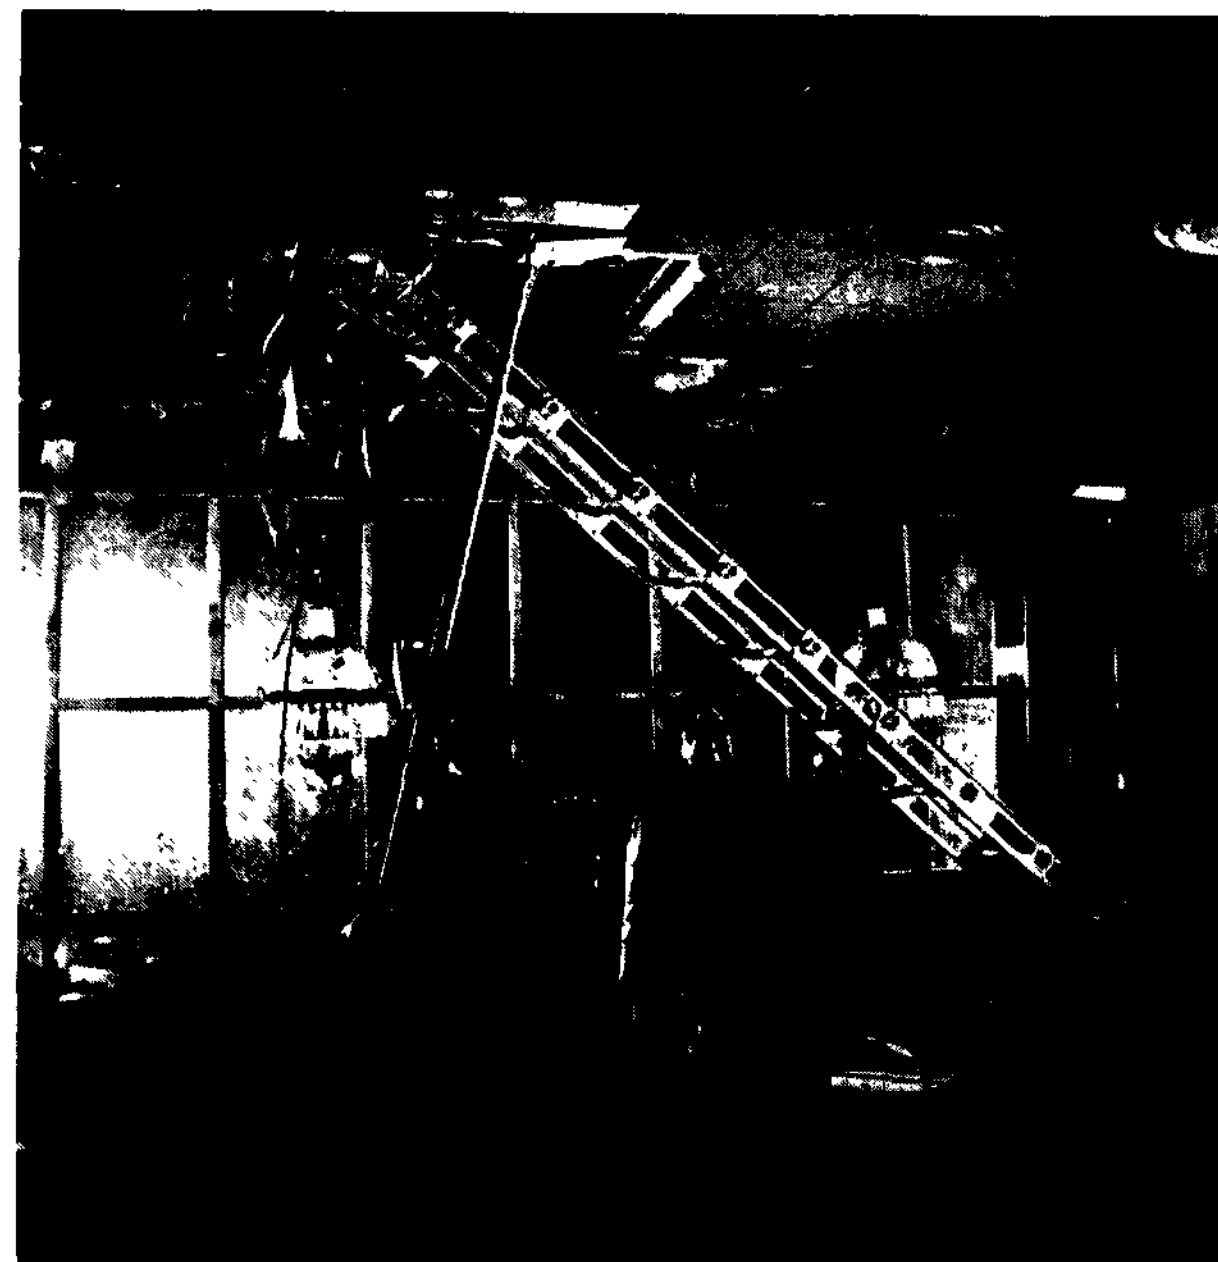

The district policy in the case of accident is to administer first aid and then call the parents, said Weiss. "In the case of a more serious accident we take the injured person directly to the hospital."

Police Auxiliary Schedules Dance

The Buffalo Grove Police Auxiliary will hold its third annual dance in St. Mary's Church hall on Feb. 27.

The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. Donations are $1 and the money raised at the event will be used to purchase equipment for the Buffalo Grove Police Department.

Information about the dance can be obtained by calling Diane Schiller at 537-2392.

FIREMEN PROBE ceiling of the Elk Grove Bowl, Rte. 72 and Arlington Heights Road, where a fire Sunday in the lounge caused $40,000 in damage. Firemen reported the fire resulted from a hot metal chimney duct from a fireplace which ignited a wooden joist in a false ceiling.

Decide On Horses Today

The Village of Wheeling will take William Simpson of Mykroy Inc. to court today concerning four horses Simpson keeps at 645 S. Wheeling Rd.

The village has charged that Simpson violated village zoning ordinances by keeping the horses on his industrially zoned property. Horses and other farm animals are only allowed in the village on commercial farms of more than 10 acres.

Simpson argues that the village has no right to order the horses off his property now because he has been keeping and selling horses and ponies on the property for approximately 20 years.

He says that the horses are legal under a provision of village ordinances called a "grandfather clause" which allows existing uses on a property to remain if they existed before the zoning laws.

SINCE THE VILLAGE first told him to remove the horses Simpson and his attorney have written several letters pointing out that horses have been on the property for 20 years and that none of the adjoining property owners object to the horses.

In his most recent letter, Simpson asked village officials to amend Mykroy's business license to include the sale of horses.

Village attorney Paul Hamer told village board members that the horses are illegal because horses have not been kept continually on the property.

Hamer also noted that Simpson's business license does not mention horses.

A citation for the violation of village ordinances has been issued to Simpson and he is to appear in Arlington Heights District Court at 1:30 p.m. today.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

Opinions Please On Metro Government: 'Good, Bad'

Metropolitan government is an idea that brings puzzled expressions and a variety of answers from Herald readers in Buffalo Grove and Wheeling.

This week "Opinions, Please" asked readers whether they think the Northwest suburbs should be consolidated under one government, instead of the confusion of municipal governments, and school, sanitary and fire districts which now cover the area.

Some liked the idea of a single government, others disliked it, but all said they could see both good and bad points in the proposal.

"The idea in itself is good," said MRS. GILBERT LEE of 193 Cottonwood in Buffalo Grove. "But I can't really see the governments getting together. Each village is set up so differently.

"Of course we haven't tried it so we can't know for sure."

Mrs. Lee said that a key problem would be taxes. "Taxes are so different," she said. "Some suburbs are more expensive to live in than others, and people might not want to have their taxes raised if they live in a village with lower taxes."

MRS. PETER RYNE, of 418 E. Mors, Wheeling, saw more problems than taxes involved in metropolitan government. A former Chicagoan, Mrs. Ryne dislikes big government.

"Small governments can handle our problems better," she said. "There isn't so much red tape. Each village has its own problems and I think they would be too much for one government."

"In Wheeling," Mrs. Ryne said, "Government is more person-to-person, more personal. You feel they know you're here. You are not lost in a maze of politics and politicians."

MRS. THOMAS J. LALLY, 185 Mohawk, Buffalo Grove, had some more down-to-earth objections to metropolitan government, and she saw some benefits coming from a single government.

"There might be a problem in getting police around such a large area," she said. "There might be a logistics problem of finding centrally located places for police and fire stations."

But, Mrs. Lally said, "The idea sounds good — working together and cooperating with each other. And if you combine things like schools and police and fire departments you usually get stronger groups."

"There would be less fragmentation and perhaps salary levels could be raised."

A different viewpoint came from MRS. HENRY KANE, of 617 Raupp, Buffalo Grove, who has lived in a big city, a "real small town" and now in Buffalo Grove.

"I came here from a small town and I enjoyed living there," Mrs. Kane said. "Living here feels almost like living in a big city, with all the suburbs jammed together."

"I think we're headed for metropolitan government because these suburbs are growing so fast. However, if government were larger it would be difficult for an individual or a small group to get recognition from government."

MRS. ROY LEO, 1321 Anthony, Wheeling, said she likes small villages because "you're closer to public officials and can influence government."

A LIVE RABBIT came to school with his master last week, when first graders at Mark Twain School in Wheeling brought their pets to school and set up a

"pet store." The store was set up as part of a project to help youngsters learn by teaching them about various occupations. The students learned firsthand how a pet store is operated from an employee of a local pet shop, who talked to them earlier in the week.

To Meet Its Next Payroll

Park District May Issue Warrants

The Buffalo Grove Park District is considering a proposal to issue tax anticipation warrants in order to meet its next payroll.

Park Commissioner Dede Armstrong said yesterday, "I can tell you right now unless we get tax anticipation warrants, we are not going to be able to meet the payroll."

She said a special meeting was held last Wednesday to consider the possibility of using the tax warrants to pay the outstanding bills. It was agreed that the warrants should be issued and the amount will be determined at the district's regular board meeting Thursday night.

A tax anticipation warrant is a loan to a municipal agency. Warrants are sold and repaid when the agency receives tax money from its annual levy. The procedure allows the agency to borrow on its anticipated revenues.

Mrs. Armstrong said the loans would probably be in two categories. One series of warrants would be sold in order to meet operating expenses such as the payroll. The money from another series would be used for capital improvements which would include making repairs and purchasing new equipment.

YOU CAN'T do anything unless you've got the money. It's time we quit dragging our feet on this and offer the programs the people expect from a park district," she said.

Until now the park district has been operating on money received from registration fees from the various park programs. However, there is about $1,000 in bills outstanding and only about $1,600 in the district's bank account. The park district was formed by referendum 16 months ago and will receive money from its first tax levy in May or June.

The question of tax warrants first arose at the district's Jan. 14 meeting. At that meeting, Comm. John Bell, chairman of the finance committee, reported on the district's financial plight and urged that tax warrants be issued.

It is estimated that the district will receive about $60,000 in tax money when the money is distributed this spring.

IN OTHER PARK news, Mrs. Armstrong announced that the district's preschool building will be dedicated Feb. 6. The building, at the south end of the Emmerich Park parking lot, formerly housed the village police department. It was remodeled by a developer and given to the park district last fall.

Police said her car collided with an auto driven by Mathew Pryor, 66, of 402 W. Evergreen St., Mount Prospect. Pryor, who is executive secretary of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce, was also taken to Northwest Community Hospital, where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

No charges have been filed by police.

Woman Injured In Automobile Crash

A 29-year-old Buffalo Grove woman was listed in good condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, where she is being treated for injuries she sustained in a two-car collision Saturday in Mount Prospect.

Martha Shomaker, of 620 Checker Dr., sustained minor head injuries when her car collided with another auto at the intersection of Henry Street and Rand Road.

Police said her car collided with an auto driven by Mathew Pryor, 66, of 402 W. Evergreen St., Mount Prospect. Pryor, who is executive secretary of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce, was also taken to Northwest Community Hospital, where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

Incumbent Files For Election

Trustee Kenneth Felten yesterday became the first incumbent candidate in the April 20 village election.

Felten, who lives at 189 Raupp Blvd., returned his candidate petition to the village clerk's office at 12:30 p.m. yesterday. He was elected in 1967 for a four-year term as an independent candidate. This year he will also seek election as an independent and is not part of a slate or party ticket.

He is the third person to enter the campaign. Wallace "Bud" Berth, chairman of the village plan commission, and Gordon Tierney are also independent candidates.

"I FEEL WITH the experience I have gained in the governmental affairs of the village, I should run for reelection," Felten told the Herald. "I consider that I have the best interest of Buffalo Grove at heart," added the 12-year resident of the village.

Felten pointed out some of the progress made in the village during his term of office and said it was accomplished because of the "commitment of the past administration."

"Four years ago we had one full-time employee and now we have 29 full-time employees and 14 part-timers," he said.

Felten was a trustee when the village purchased the privately-owned Buffalo Utility Co. "All the trustees were involved in that. Now that we own it, I want to see the whole thing through," he added.

Felten also listed some of the personal projects he undertook as trustee. "I initiated the health department and am serving as a member of the health commission. As chairman of the public relations committee I published a monthly village newsletter and held grievance hearings and initiated a complaint system for residents," he said.

FELTEN SAID HE worked on the sidewalk replacement program and was instrumental in the establishment of a village fire prevention code.

He was co-chairman of Buffalo Grove Days last year and is on the organizing committee this year.

The final date for filing a candidate petition is Feb. 15. There are six village posts open for election. They are: village president, village clerk, and four trustee posts. There is one park commissioner post open for election, but no one had filed for that position as of yesterday.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee called for a federal investigation into the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad's purchase of insurance to protect its directors against charges of wrong doing.

The Justice Department Monday charged and Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash board he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Temperatures around the country:

Drainage Woes Could Be Over

A proposal for a solution to drainage problems in the area north of Dundee Road on Milwaukee Avenue will be presented to the Illinois Division of Highways for approval, Wheeling Trustee Roger Stricker said.

Stricker said after a meeting last Tuesday night involving bank trust representatives, the village and representatives of the Jewel-Osco stores, the parties involved "have finally made some headway" in solving the drainage problem.

The drainage problems in the area began when a parking lot was built for the Jewel Food Store, Stricker has said.

The water from the Jewel complex drains through a sewer under Milwaukee Avenue and through an existing sewer into the Des Plaines River.

WHEN THE VILLAGE granted Jewel permits for construction, the grocery and drug firm agreed to rebuild the sewer from the east side of Milwaukee Ave., halfway to the river because of needed repairs.

However, no formal written easement for the existing sewer could be found. The village has been acting as an intermediary between the Jewel and the current owner of the property where the sewer lies to negotiate a compromise on sewer placement.

The property the sewer crosses is a proposed site of an office building tentatively named Milbrook Plaza. It lies behind the service station on the northeast corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road. It is owned through a bank trust represented by the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

THE PLAZA BUILDING has been named as a possible expansion site for the bank itself. The property owners were concerned that the new sewer should be adequate to service other properties along Milwaukee Avenue, not just the Jewel property.

Also, they were concerned about the location of the sewer in relation to the proposed office building. Meetings to resolve the problem have been held for more than a year.

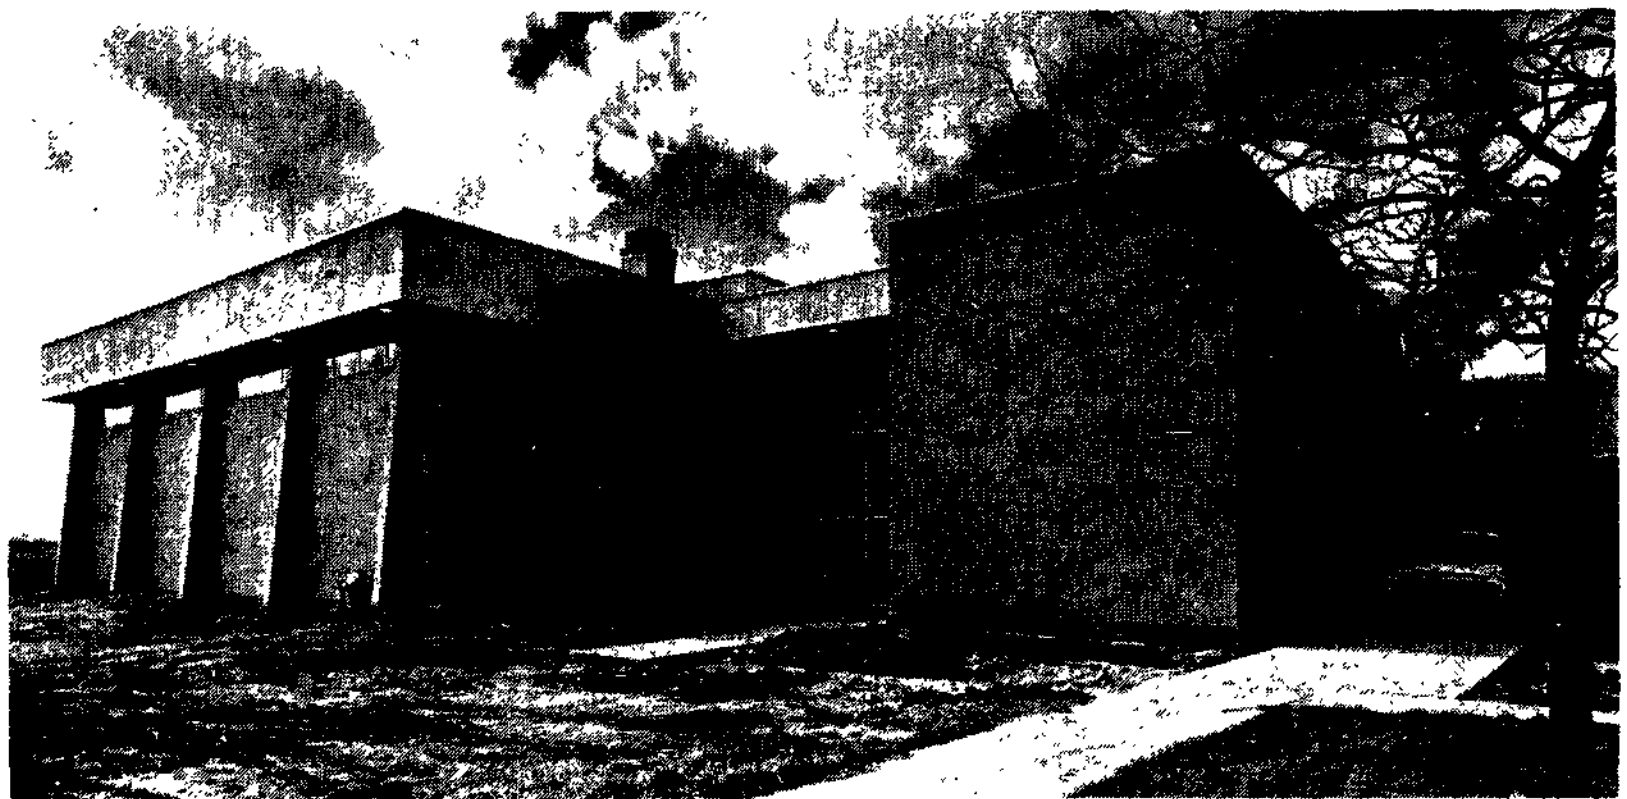

Stricker said Wednesday that the proposal now agreed upon involves draining the water into a state sewer under Milwaukee Avenue rather than crossing the plaza property with a sewer.

One problem may be that the state usually reserves the use of its sewers for water which would normally drain onto the road, he said.

Stricker said, however, that bank representatives would propose the new plan to the state on the grounds that the water would normally drain onto state highways.

The construction would not involve state funds but would come from a bond put up by the Jewel as part of its agreement with the village.

Other property owners in the area including Algot I. Runeman who owns Dirigo Fine Table Appointments at 170 N. Milwaukee Ave., have also been concerned about drainage problems in the area.

Jaycees Honor Two Award Winners

The Wheeling Jaycees honored their selections for the Outstanding Young Educator and the Distinguished Service Award at the 13th annual Bosses Night banquet last Wednesday night.

Sister Rose Trahey, a teacher at St. Mary's Catholic School in Buffalo Grove, received the educator award and Richard Stanoski, guidance director at Forest View High School, received the service award.

Stanoski thanked the Jaycees for his award and agreed to accept it "only if you'll allow me to accept it for the many men and women who deserve it more."

He told the Jaycees "the really deserving people are those behind the scenes who neither seek nor need public acclaim, the people who work for little recognition but much in personal satisfaction." SISTER ROSE said she was pleased the Jaycees had chosen to honor a teacher of the arts. "Something so useless as the arts is often passed over, but education in the arts is important, as important as not being indifferent to a child's capacity to wonder and to create beauty," she said.

Donald Russ, the main speaker for the evening, urged the Jaycees to live their lives with enthusiasm.

"Many employers rate enthusiasm even above professional skill. Enthusiasm is the dynamic motivation working toward that professional ability that we all strive for," Russ told the Jaycees.

Other activities of the bosses night included short speeches by various Jaycees explaining the local, state and national Jaycee organization and introduction of the various nominees for the two awards.

Zoning Code Changes Urged

A proposal for a variety of changes to the Wheeling zoning code has been referred to the village attorney for preparation as an ordinance.

The changes proposed include amending the fee schedule to increase the required cost deposit for rezoning and all other variations from $90 to $100.

No change will be made in fees for requests for a variation for remodeling or construction of garages or fences on any property zoned for a single family residence.

Another change will eliminate a requirement for a 25-foot-wide buffer strip along a residential property line adjoining a shopping center.

INSTEAD OF THE 25 foot requirement

the ordinances will now give determination of the size of the buffer strip to the village plan commission for a decision on each individual development.

Discussion of the buffer strip requirement first came up during a rezoning case concerning the Wheeling Shopping Center.

A third change proposed in the ordinance would allow coin operated car washes to be built in areas zoned for general business use. Current ordinances allow car washes in both general business districts and service business districts but ban coin operated car washes.

Another change will correct an error in the municipal code where items which should be listed under flood plain regulations are included in the performance standards for industrial districts.

THE ORDINANCE will also amend the recreational vehicle ordinance to eliminate a regulation that no one may live in a trailer or mobile home in the village. Living in recreational trailers will be prohibited, however.

A final change in the ordinance will allow taxicab and bus terminals in the general industrial district with a special use permit. The change was made to provide a zoning classification which will allow the Ritzenthaler Bus lines to build a school bus terminal in the village.

Once Hamer completes the ordinance the village board will vote on the changes proposed.

Two Community Ed Classes Still Open

Many openings remain in two classes being offered this winter in the community education program at Henry Wadsworth Longfellow School in Buffalo Grove.

The openings are in the "Magic for Fun" workshop for children in grades one through three and the adult class in "Understanding Your Child's New Math."

Mrs. Irene Sanderson, director of the community education program, said that six more children can be enrolled in the magic class. Only two adults have signed up to take the new math class, she said.

The magic workshop is offered from 3:40 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Wednesdays at the school. It will run for seven more weeks.

The new math class is offered from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Thursdays at the school. It also will run for seven additional weeks.

Enrollment in the rest of the community education programs is near or at capacity, Mrs. Sanderson said.

She said that total enrollment in all the programs is about 150.

Further information on the programs may be obtained from Mrs. Sanderson at Longfellow, 541-1260.

Coroner's Inquest Set In Girl's Death

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl.

Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today; however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried in Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on park district property since the district was formed in 1966, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss.

However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill."

At the time of the accident, several park district supervisors, park board members and district administrators were at the nearby Woodland Trails Park. The district personnel were attending the annual district "Ice Carnival."

The sled hill is not visible from the ice rinks, bath house and swimming pool at Woodland Trails. According to Weiss, a child ran over to Woodland Trails to tell them an accident had occurred. "I sent over four boys to the sled hill, but by the time they got there the injured child had been taken to the hospital."

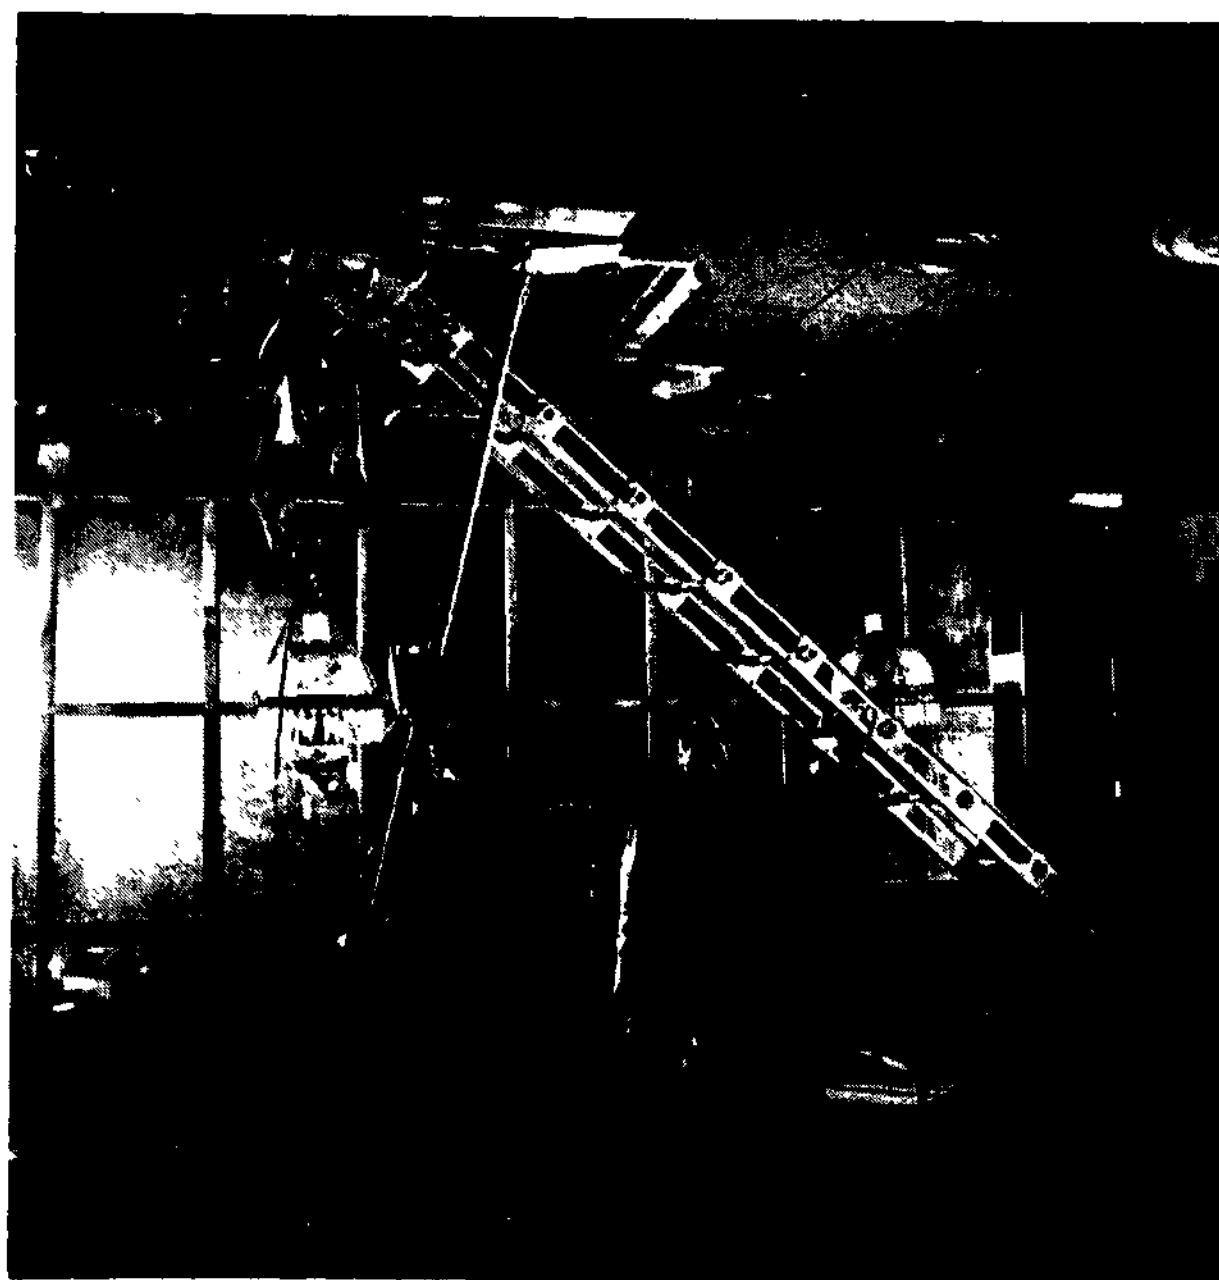

The district policy in the case of accident is to administer first aid and then call the parents, said Weiss. "In the case of a more serious accident we take the injured person directly to the hospital."

Police Auxiliary Schedules Dance

The Buffalo Grove Police Auxiliary will hold its third annual dance in St. Mary's Church hall on Feb. 27.

The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m. Donations are $1 and the money raised at the event will be used to purchase equipment for the Buffalo Grove Police Department.

Information about the dance can be obtained by calling Diane Schiller at 537-2392.

fire resulted from a hot metal chimney duct from a fireplace which ignited a wooden joist in a false ceiling.

Decide On Horses Today

The Village of Wheeling will take William Simpson of Mykroy Inc. to court today concerning four horses Simpson keeps at 645 S. Wheeling Rd.

The village has charged that Simpson violated village zoning ordinances by keeping the horses on his industrially zoned property. Horses and other farm animals are only allowed in the village on commercial farms of more than 10 acres.

Simpson argues that the village has no right to order the horses off his property now because he has been keeping and selling horses and ponies on the property for approximately 20 years.

He says that the horses are legal under a provision of village ordinances called a "grandfather clause" which allows existing uses on a property to remain if they existed before the zoning laws.

SINCE THE VILLAGE first told him to remove the horses Simpson and his attorney have written several letters pointing out that horses have been on the property for 20 years and that none of the adjoining property owners object to the horses.

In his most recent letter, Simpson asked village officials to amend Mykroy's business license to include the sale of horses.

Village attorney Paul Hamer told village board members that the horses are illegal because horses have not been kept continually on the property.

Hamer also noted that Simpson's business license does not mention horses.

A citation for the violation of village ordinances has been issued to Simpson and he is to appear in Arlington Heights District Court at 1:30 p.m. today.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington Heights High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

A TRAILER, normally used as an office at construction sites, is being used at Maple Park as a warming house for ice skaters this year. The Palatine Park Dist. has rented trailers from a Chicago firm and has placed them near ice rinks at Maple, Willow Wood, and Birchwood Parks so skaters can warm up before going home. Previously, skaters either had to use buildings far from the ice or walk home in order to warm up.

Parks Warming Houses Up

For the first time, skaters have warming houses to use at three local parks in Palatine that have ice rinks.

Trailers have been rented by the Palatine Park District to be used as warming houses at Maple, Willow Wood and Birchwood parks. Skaters previously had to walk long distances or home to warm up.

According to the park district's director of recreation, Bruce Beiner, the trailers are usually used as offices at construction sites. Since construction is not as wide spread in winter as in the other seasons, Mobile Office Inc., of Chicago is renting the trailers to the park district as warming houses.

At Maple Park, there is a heated building, but there is little room for skaters to warm up, Beiner said. Since the building is a state-approved pre-school building and is in constant use, the park district decided a trailer would be a better warming house.

"There was no way we could have used the Maple Park building for classes and a warming house at the same time," Beiner said.

At Willow Wood Park, there is a pool building, but it isn't heated. There is no building to use at Birchwood Park either, Beiner said. Thus, the trailers were the first warming houses in use at those two parks, he said.

Being placed next to the ice has made the trailers more convenient than any building the park district has ever used as a makeshift warming house, he added.

Ice rinks are now open at four Palatine parks, Beiner said. Willow Wood and Birchwood ice were the last to become ready, opening last Saturday. Maple Park's ice was ready on Jan. 6 while the two rinks at Community Park have been facilitating skaters since Dec. 27.

Guards are on duty at all four rinks during skating hours, Beiner said. Skating hours are 3 to 10 p.m. on school days and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Beiner said the ice at all four parks is excellent for skating.

4-H Meeting Set

Boys and girls who attend Paddock, Marion Jordan, Joel Wood and St. Theresa schools are invited to attend a special 4-H Club meeting tonight.

The meeting will be held in the Paddock School cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. Its purpose will be to organize more 4-H Clubs in the Palatine area.

Parents of the children are also invited to attend the meeting to learn more about the local 4-H program.

Those who would like to attend this meeting but do not attend the four schools invited are requested to wait for the announcement of a meeting involving their school.

Park District Considers Site On South Side

Another major park site may be in the offing as the Palatine Park District begins to plot its future course.

The new site could be located in the south of Palatine, according to park board president Norman Gaare. However, it could be located elsewhere.

Other future routes to be taken by the park board will be the development of vacant sites already owned by the park district, rethinking the makeup of Community Park and possible acquisition of other new park sites.

When plans concerning park expansion and development are finally drawn up, a referendum will be held to finance them. A referendum however, is not planned in the near future, according to Gaare.

Gaare told the board every meeting they do not act on these matters, the farther behind the district will get toward meeting the recreational needs of Palatine.

A NEW MAJOR SITE, when built, would have to contain a new swimming pool, board member Ralph Wiehrdt recommended. Other board members recommended the site have baseball diamonds, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

Gaare agreed that another pool is needed in the district and another major park site would be the place to locate it.

Vacant sites to be developed include sites at Hunting Ridge and Lake Louise. Future board meetings will decide what is to be located on these sites.

Park district attorney Roger Bjorvik suggested that the board get scale maps of these sites and work from them in deciding where to locate new baseball diamonds, playgrounds and tennis courts.

STUDIES WOULD BE made of public need in certain areas to help the board decide where new sites are needed or where certain recreational facilities are needed.

Board members expressed some regret that the park district would be part of a 14-acre school/park site that won't be included in the Sellergren, Inc., development. They agreed that the buffer zone idea wasn't a good idea since it would provide no recreational area.

"These buffer zones will be a misuse of public land. After they build homes on the site, residents will complain to us that we didn't locate a park near there," one board member said.

Gaare said the Sellergren buffer zones, 200 yards wide surrounding the site, would not become a park district responsibility.

The Sellergren development will be located near Baldwin and Hicks roads.

Rethinking the layout at Community Park will also be worked on by the board.

GAARE SAID IN the past, whenever the board decided to build something in Community Park, it was built. Now, the facilities are there in no particular order and the park district isn't getting maximum use of the land.

Rethinking will put the facilities into an order that will allow maximum use of park land.

One problem facing the board will be the loss of some land to the widening of the Northwest Highway. The board will be paying close attention to the Illinois Division of Highway's plan to see if the widened highway will end up too close to the Community Park pool.

After all situations are examined and plans are drawn up, the park district will hold a referendum. Gaare said the referendum is not in the near future and could come up to a year from now.

Eye End To Flood Problem

A promising response from state officials to solve flooding problems in Winston Park has been followed up by an even more promising response from Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Ogilvie, in a letter dated Jan. 22, told John Snowdon, president of the Winston Park Homeowners' Association, that he is fully aware of flooding problems in Winston Park and that he is attempting to speed up relief work planned for this spring.

The letter came in response to 317 residents who recently signed petitions and asked Ogilvie to intervene with the Illinois Division of Waterways and expedite work on a new culvert for Salt Creek under the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks.

"THE DIVISION OF Waterways presently plans to have the construction work under contract by early spring of 1971 and it would appear that some opportunity exists for flood relief improvements during that construction period," Ogilvie stated in his letter.

The project calls for a new 10 by 13-foot culvert to replace the smaller and existing structure which has been blamed for nearly 90 per cent of Winston Park flood problems by state and local officials.

It will be funded by a $500,000 state appropriation which was made following the introduction of a flood relief bill by Sen. John Graham last year.

BECAUSE THE MONEY was not spent during that session of the legislature, the appropriation expired and another bill has been introduced to reappropriate the funds.

That bill for continued improvements to control flooding along Salt Creek in Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights will be introduced in the Illinois Senate today by Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington.

The total creek improvement project may cost less than originally expected, Graham said, because the improvements under the railroad tracks are not expected to force a rerouting of the tracks. Previous plans called for rerouting but engineers now believe that will not be necessary.

GRAHAM ALSO SAID he plans to meet with John Guillou, director of the state's Division of Waterways, and members of the Bureau of the Budget to discuss proposed cuts in flood control revenue.

Graham said fund cuts probably would be impossible in the Third District.

Ogilvie said he was aware of this delay in the construction of the culvert, which has irritated homeowners, but that downstream improvements in Rolling Meadows had to be completed first, or else it "would have involved the state in the possibility of considerable flood damage litigation."

Ogilvie's message is a prelude to a public meeting slated for this Thursday night at which John Guillou, head of the Illinois Division of Waterways will discuss plans for the culvert with flood victims.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the basement of St. Thomas of Villanova School, located at Anderson and Williams Drive.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The Justice Department Monday charged an Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The World

At least 25 persons were reported dead in the crash of a Venezuelan plane in the Andes Mountains. The plane was carrying 47 persons when it went down.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Inquest Set In Nine-Year-Old's Death

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl.

Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today; however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 3:30 p.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on park district property since the district was formed in 1966, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss.

However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill."

At the time of the accident, several park district supervisors, park board members and district administrators were at the nearby Woodland Trails Park. The district personnel were attending the annual district "Ice Carnival."

The sled hill is not visible from the ice rinks, bath house and swimming pool at Woodland Trails. According to Weiss, a child ran over to Woodland Trails to tell them an accident had occurred. "I sent over four boys to the sled hill, but by the time they got there the injured child had been taken to the hospital."

The district policy in the case of accident is to administer first aid and then call the parents, said Weiss. "In the case of a more serious accident we take the injured person directly to the hospital."

Newspaper Drive Planned Feb. 27

The Youth Fellowship Organization of the Rolling Meadows Community Church will sponsor a newspaper drive from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Feb. 27.

Papers can be dropped off at the church at Kirchoff Road and Meadow Drive during the day. If residents cannot deliver the papers themselves, arrangements should be made with the Rev. William Herman, pastor of the Community Church, so that the papers can be picked up by sponsors of the drive.

The Youth Fellowship group of the church sponsors a paper drive every three months. Funds collected during the last drive were distributed to Nigeria to be used in missionary work there.

MONEY TALKS

There are rewards for smart money management

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus.

Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical married family in this country, whether it is in the low, middle, or high income bracket, most frequently quarrels about money.

Disregard of ability to pay for what the family terms its needs is often at the root of the problem. "Young people today," says San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Alfred Auerback, "assume they should have a car, a television set, nice clothes, and the other luxuries merely for the asking."

In predicating their happiness upon such possessions, they ironically set the stage for unhappiness. People who count their pleasures in purchases are only too eager, Time Magazine has noted, to adopt the ingenious forms of credit that have been invented.

"The Good Time Charlies and other merchants of debt do not talk too freely about the true cost of all this credit," Time points out, "and too many borrowers have no idea what they are really getting into."

There is widespread concern among families that they are guilty of loose spending habits and that their financial brinkmanship may be getting them into trouble.

For them we have four common-sense recommendations of qualified counselors that will be presented in succeeding articles.

Church Opens Fund Crusade

During the next two weeks, the First United Methodist Church, 123 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, will be engaged in a crusade to raise funds for operation and debt reduction.

Between 350 and 400 people will be participating in the crusade, informing church membership of the spiritual and financial needs of the church and its total mission. The theme of the crusade is "To Do His Work."

The goal of the crusade is to obtain pledges of $120,000 for the 1971 operating budget and $150,000 over a three year period for capital funds and debt reduction.

Assisting with the crusade is Dr. Floyd L. Hinshaw, of the Department of Finance and Field Service of the United Methodist Board of Missions. He will serve as guest director.

For the last 30 years, Hinshaw has been serving churches in northern Iowa. Most recently, he served at the First United Methodist Church in Waterloo Iowa.

Morton Hayley, Spiritual Emphasis; Donald Reed, Publicity; Mrs. Charles Simons, Fellowship; and Donald Lewis, Finance Committee.

Charles Swingle will serve as chairman of the Stewardship Commission.

Funds for the First United Methodist church program will be used to finance the church's administrative board, the Council of Ministries, the administrative staff, the church school and various adult Bible study or fellowship groups. Also supported will be the Women's Society of Christian Service, the Wesleyan Service Guild, the Methodist Men's Club, the United Methodist Youth Fellowship and the church's three choirs.

Financial aid will also pay for upkeep to the church building and for the two Sunday worship services.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

Named Director Of Group

Palatine Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun was recently appointed a director of the Metropolitan Section of the Illinois City Management Association.

Braun, 38, assumed his new post for the first time on the board of directors for the professional city manager's group last week.

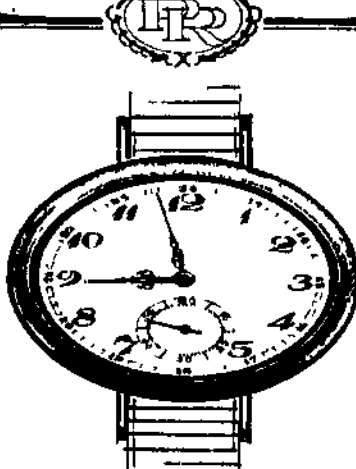

Since December of 1966, Braun has served as Palatine's village manager. Before that he served as the city manager for West St. Paul, Minn., for two years; administrative assistant to the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., for five years, and as the city manager for the same community for two years.

IMMEDIATELY BEFORE coming to Palatine, Braun was a research associate in urban affairs and an assistant professor of government at the Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville campus.

In addition, he has worked as a budget analyst for the U.S. Public Health Service.

He currently resides with his wife and two children at 304 N. Schiller St., Palatine.

Gibbs Candidate For Board Seat

Leland "Bud" Gibbs, currently a member of the Elementary School Dist. 15 board of education, has announced he will seek election to the board April 10.

Four seats of the seven-man board will be up for election, three of which will be for full three-year terms.

The fourth seat, currently occupied by Gibbs, will also be open to complete the two years remaining on the term of Russell E. Thome of Palatine who resigned from the board last year. Gibbs, who previously served on the board from 1967 to 1970 was appointed by the board to fill Thome's vacancy.

A Rolling Meadows resident, Gibbs was first elected to the Dist. 15 board of education in 1967. He was unseated by Thome in the 1970 election and then appointed to replace him later that year.

GIBBS CURRENTLY serves as chairman of the new buildings committee of the Dist. 15 board, which investigates possible acquisition of school sites for the district.

Leland "Bud" Gibbs

Other seats up for election are those of Mrs. Patricia Oakley, J. Leshe Ehringer and Howard Meadows.

The first day for filing petitions for candidacy in the Dist. 15 election is Feb. 24. Petitions will be accepted at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., through March 19. Blank petition forms are available at the office.

Parks Plan Trip To Bulls Game

A trip to see the Chicago Bulls play the Seattle SuperSonics at the Chicago Stadium has been planned by the Palatine Park District.

Tickets for the Feb. 2 game will cost $3 per person. Bus transportation is included in the price of the ticket. The bus will leave for the Stadium at 6:15 p.m. from the park district office in Community Park on the day of the game.

People interested in attending this basketball game are asked to purchase their tickets before Jan. 30. More information about the trip may be obtained by calling the park district at 359-0333.

For Those Away From Home

This is a summary of the week's events in Palatine:

AFTER FOUR YEARS of debate it was decided that the Pebble Creek Golf Course will be annexed to Palatine. James Sellegren, vice president of Sellegren, Inc., owner and developer of the 66-acre site at Hicks and Baldwin Roads, agreed to reduce the height and density of the proposed high-rise apartment complex and accepted the Palatine Village Board annexation terms. Sellegren said he has agreed to build only a 1,000-unit apartment complex that would be only 13 stories high. The Village Board moved to annex the property at their Monday meeting.

IN THE PRESENCE of a standing-room-only crowd, the Village Board agreed to defer action on a special assessment project designed to alleviate flooding conditions in the southeastern section of Palatine. In the meantime, the board will explore all avenues of financing the project and will take a postcard survey of the area in question to see if residents are in favor of the project.

ON FEB. 1, the Palatine Township Board of Auditors will vote whether they will hold the proposed mental health referendum on Feb. 27 with other townships involved in the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council. The board voted 3 to 1 at a special meeting to draw up a resolution to hold the referendum on the proposed date. To date, Wheeling and Schaumburg townships have agreed on the Feb. 27 date. Elk Grove and Palatine townships will vote on the date on Feb. 1.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP'S mental health board also voted to hold the mental health referendum on Feb. 27. In a 3 to 2 vote, the board voted approval of the date while defeating a motion by board member Don MacLeod to postpone the referendum until the board has more time to examine what the Northwest Council is proposing.

A COUNTRYSIDE YMCA organizer, Dave Clifford was named Palatine's Man of the Year at a dinner Jan. 15. Mrs. Norma Jung, a church worker, was named Woman of the Year. Sponsor of the awards was the Palatine Jaycees.

A PRANK AT Arlington High School resulted in serious injuries to three students. Two youths placed a piece of plywood between the handles of the boy's washroom doors. When boys inside the bathroom couldn't push the doors open, they wedged themselves against a wall to apply force. The wall collapsed, taking part of the ceiling with it, injuring the three boys.

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS confronted Palatine residents directly for the first time with a plan for the major reconstruction of Palatine Road between Rte. 53 and U.S. 14. Residents voiced their opinions on the project saying it was a waste of the taxpayer's money and a safety hazard.

ICE RINKS WERE open at all four Palatine Park District sites for the first Community, Maple, Willow Wood and Birchwood Parks and the warming houses located near each rink.

Weekend School Vandalism Told

Local schools were plagued by vandals and pranksters this past weekend, according to Palatine police reports.

The worst of the trouble came early yesterday morning when an employee of Palatine High School received a phone call in which the caller said bombs would explode in the high school and the nearby Sanborn Elementary School at 11:30 a.m.

Police were notified of the threat and firemen assisted school officials in searching the building, but the threat proved to be false.

Palatine High School did not evacuate students but Sanborn School did at about 11:15 a.m. Police said the only reason the grade school was cleared was because it had been burglarized previously last weekend and a bomb could have been planted then.

School officials reported to police that entry had been forcibly gained to a second floor music room. Two instruments were found on the school's roof, but nothing else had been taken.

Another breaking and entering was reported this weekend at Paddock School, located in Washington Court. Police found a window broken in the building and evidence that illegal entry had been gained on or before Saturday. School officials said nothing was stolen or destroyed, however.

Mental Health Program Praised

Martin Pratt, Palatine Township mental health board member recently praised the program proposed by the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council.

"I cannot see where township residents can get a better mental health program for the money," Pratt said.

Voters will get to vote on the program through a referendum planned for Feb. 27. The Palatine Township Board of Auditors is expected to pass a resolution setting Feb. 27 as the referendum date next Monday.

If passed, a tax will be levied to support a mental health program covering Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Residents will be taxed 10 cents per $100 assessed property value.

PRATT POINTED out that the program proposed by the Northwest Council will be a bargain. A $20,000 home will be taxed $20, which will be cheap compared to the program in mental health the residents will get, he said.

Pratt, who is also the township representative to the four-township mental health executive council, answered a few of the criticisms levied against the program so far.

He pointed out that while the mental health agencies outnumber the township representatives on the executive council 12 to 8, the agencies will be the force that will put the program together.

He added that the townships will retain the ultimate power in the program through the tax money they will put into it.

CUB SCOUTS FROM Pack 182 cheer on their favorites at the Pinewood Derby, held recently in the basement of the Presbyterian Church of Palatine. Model cars zip down the derby track to a soft landing in a towel at the end of the track when John Lowecki would determine which car finished first. The cars were made by the scouts and their fathers to race in this annual event, which appeared to raise more excitement than the Indianapolis 500.

'Innovator' Ends Racing Dynasty

by JAMES HODL

A racing dynasty came to an end Thursday night in the basement of the Presbyterian Church of Palatine.

Defending champion Doug Hayes, who entered the same car he won with last year, was defeated by an innovator, Jom Plimpton.

Plimpton had finished second behind Hayes last year. This year, he built a revolutionary new car with an aerodynamic wing running down the center of the vehicle and no place for a driver to sit.

Plimpton's car, of course, was a wooden model entered in Cub Scout Pack 182's Pinewood Derby.

Each year, Scouts in the pack build scale model wooden cars out of pine. Then, they race them at a pack meeting to see whose car is the fastest. The winners get trophies.

CARS IN THE DERBY are run down a long track set up in the church's basement. The dropping of metal bars starts the derby vehicles down the track until they come to rest in a towel which serves as a backdrop.

Cub Scout Paul Sheedy explained the making of his car, which his father helped him with.

"First, you carve it to the shape you want and then you sand it," Sheedy said. "To make it go fast, you put weights on the bottom."

"Then, I put four coats of paint on the car and filed those things (plastic stubs) off the wheels."

Sheedy's mother said this was the first time he had ever made a Pinewood Derby car. She said it took him seven hours to make with his father's help.

MAKING A CAR is a father-son project, according to the pack.

In building a car, certain specifications must be met. The car cannot be over seven and three-eighths inches long or two and three-quarters inches wide. It cannot weigh over five ounces. The specifications are checked by the scoutmasters at the registration.

There were all sorts of cars in the race this year. A total of 28 cars were entered by four dens and the Webelos.

A popular type of car was the red, white and blue painted variety. There were four cars like this, three of which had stars and stripes, (ala Easy Rider) incorporated in the design.

One car even resembled a motorcycle's banana seat.

While all cars were painted, one car was colored with various crayons and covered with decals. One orange and white car had chrome exhausts that would blow into the face of the driver if it were a real race car.

A FEW CARS EVEN had names. One salmon-colored vehicle was titled "Unlucky 13." A blue car was called "The Bug Bomb."

Then came the race.

First, the scouts in each den competed against each other and a den champ was crowned. Then, the den champs competed and a pack champ was crowned.

Scouts and their brothers and sisters crowded around the track, rooting for favorites. At times, scoutmaster Fred Hayes would have to caution the crowd from getting too close to the track. When they did, Hayes took out his level and reset the track.

"If the track isn't level, the race isn't fair," he said.

By the time the den champs were deep in competition, the crowd had worked itself into a frenzy. The fans seemed wilder and more excited than the crowds at the Indianapolis 500.

"This is the exciting part of the race," one father explained. "The kids really get excited over this because each has a stake in who wins, whether it is the scout's own car or the den's favorite."

HAYES WAS THE favorite of the crowd throughout the evening. Between him and his brother Steve, they have won the derby each year for the past four years. Steve won in 1967-1969. Hayes won last year.

Up to the final pairings, Hayes was getting the majority of the cheers. The final pairing was narrowed down to Hayes' purple car and Plimpton's gold car with the wing.

To the surprise of many present, Plimpton was victorious.

As champ, Plimpton was a man of few words. When asked how it felt to win, Plimpton said, "Pretty good." When asked if he expected to win when he came to the pack meeting, he said, "Yes."

In receiving his trophies, Plimpton was asked by scoutmaster Hayes if he would let him in on the secret of winning the race. Plimpton replied "No."

Plimpton's father Richard Plimpton explained that they built the car by whittling it to the proper shape, and then filling the space for the cockpit with balsa wood they got the car to the correct weight of five ounces by weighing it on a candy scale at a local store.

PLIMPTON IS A student at Winston Churchill School in Palatine. His hobby is building models, which his father explained was why he built a new car this year, despite having a second place finisher last year.

Winning trophies at the Pinewood Derby were the den speed champs Dave Laymon of Den 1, Bill Wolverton of Den 3, Dave Schuring of Den 5, Plimpton of Den 7 and Hayes of the Webelos. Plimpton also received trophies for winning the final competition and for building the most unusual car. Tom Zymal won a trophy for building the best designed car.

Village Purchases 8 Police Cars

Last week the Palatine Village Board approved the purchase of eight new police cars for $26,632.

Each of the marked and unmarked vehicles costs $3,329. They are 1971 Fords and will be purchased from Schmerler Ford, Inc., in Elk Grove Village.

Prior to authorizing the purchase, the board looked into the possibility of joining the state in bidding for squad cars, which is allowed under the new Illinois purchasing law.

Although Palatine bought cars in this manner last year, Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said major auto manufacturers have discontinued bid assistance to their dealers, and the state of Illinois has experienced a substantial increase in bid prices as a result.

THE LOW BID received by the state was $3,471 for each of the seven marked police cars and $3,446 for the one unmarked car, Braun said.

Police Chief Robert Centner said the eight new cars will replace six vehicles now in use — bringing the department's fleet up to a total of 11 cars and vans.

He said squad cars are usually replaced every year in an effort to cut back on maintenance costs. Maintenance costs about one cent per mile during the first year car is in operation. After that, the cost soars to five cents per mile.

The cars which will be traded in have between 150,000 and 175,000 motor hours each, which accounts for both actual road mileage and idle time.

The road mileage for each vehicle is more than 50,000 miles, Centner said.

And in one year, the department's patrol fleet exceeds 300,000 miles on the roads, he added.

Accident Victim Succumbs

A Palatine woman who was involved in a three-car accident at Roselle and Algonquin Roads on Jan. 17 died at Northwest Community Hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Doris Tenglin, 38 S. Walnut St., Palatine, died from head injuries she suffered in the collision, a hospital spokesman said. She was 54 years old.

The spokesman said her husband, Herbert, 60, is still in serious condition. He was the driver of one of the cars involved.

Others involved in the accident were treated for minor injuries and released.

They were Arthur M. Wallace, 29, of 361 Fremont St., Woodstock, who was driving a second car; and John VanderVer, 54, of 309 Warwick Road, Tower Lake; and his passenger, Violet Hood, Rte. 1, Wauconda, in a third car.

State police said the accident was caused by VanderVer, who was ticketed for failing to obey a traffic signal and gaily transporting liquor in his car. He is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect Branch of the Cook County Circuit Court on March 9.

A Cook County Coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Tenglin was held yesterday but continued until Feb. 22 in Chicago.

Huddleston Won't Seek Reelection

Rolling Meadows Alderman James Huddleston will not seek re-election to his post as alderman from Ward 4 in the April 20 election, the Herald learned recently.

"I'm not going to run for personal and private reasons," Huddleston said. He said that he plans to spend more time in a business activity in the area after the elections.

He also said that he will spend more time with his family. "The family suffers a lot when a man is a city official," he said.

Huddleston, chairman of the Rolling Meadows ordinance and judiciary committee, is finishing his first term as alderman. He is the third incumbent city official that will not be a candidate for office this year.

James

Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth announced that she will not seek election as city clerk. Donald Winn said he will not seek re-election as ward three alderman.

A full slate of nine candidates, headed by Mayor Roland Meyer, will be filed by the Citizens Action Party. They are expected to register petitions at city hall today.

No independent candidates have filed for office, but a number have picked up petitions, according to the city clerk. Deadline for filing for the nine city offices open in April election is Feb. 15.

The mayor, city treasurer and city clerk position face election. Also six aldermen positions are open, including one position from wards two, three, four and five. Both aldermen face election in ward one.

ARCHERS FROM Rolling Meadows, Paul Schroeder, left, and Robben Mueller took part in a different kind of shoot Sunday. The Alaskan Trails Shoot is a novelty event testing archers' skill as they wind through a path with 28 animal targets spaced on it.

Ice Rink Receipts For First Month: $18,656

The first month of operation of the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex ice rink brought in a total of $18,656 in receipts for the Rolling Meadows Park District.

The largest intake came from the sale of season passes to city residents. The complex sold 111 family passes for a total of $3,330, 148 student passes for $1,480, eight adult passes and one husband and wife pass.

Season pass sales were much less for non-residents than residents. Only 12 passes were purchased from persons not living in Rolling Meadows.

Almost 200 resident identification passes were also sold for $2 each. These passes allow cardholders to a 50 per cent reduction on daily skating fees.

ICE RENTAL ALSO was a major contributor toward the total intake, gathering over $3,100. Over 1,000 pairs of skates were also rented at 50 cents a pair.

Daily admission for public skating for 1,736 persons not holding resident ID passes brought in a total of $1,835.

The concession area at the complex collected $1,065 for the month while equipment sales totaled $455 at the pre shop and $221 at the skate shop.

The figures on the first month's activity at the ice rink were presented to commissioners on the park district board Thursday night at their regular monthly meeting. Most commissioners were pleased with the first month's intake and satisfied the use of the complex would continue to grow.

ACCORDING TO William Billings, park board president, some $87,000 worth of payouts remain on construction of the sports complex, the majority of which will be made during the coming park fiscal year. Items awaiting billing primarily are construction of the parking areas near the complex and landscaping.

The park board of commissioners also endorsed a proposal to support legislation that would expand park boards from the present five members to seven members.

The proposal came as a result of a joint meeting of Northwest suburban park board representatives that was held earlier in the week. The seven-member board proposal was one of four that were made at the joint meeting. Each park representative was instructed to take the four proposals back to their own park boards for individual endorsement.

The proposed change to seven-member boards would be discretionary, allowing a park board to decide by a two-thirds vote whether to expand the board.

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Park District asked representatives of the other park districts for endorsement of the four proposals before sending them to the Illinois Association of Park Districts which would, in turn, present them to legislators to introduce the necessary bills.

The Rolling Meadows park board, however, gave its endorsement only to the first proposal calling for expansion of the board. It rejected proposals for changing existing laws on definition of the park district's powers of annexation, the park district's power to request police protection for the municipality and the election code for park board members.

Board members agreed to participate with other park districts in joint purchasing of some common items including fertilizer, paper supplies, ball diamond fill and swimming pool chemicals.

The board also heard a request from three coordinators of the Rolling Meadows Boys Football program that the park district co-sponsor two boys football teams for entry in the Northern Illinois Junior Football League.

BOB MILLER, one of the team coordinators, estimated the park district would pay between $2,400 and $3,000 for co-sponsorship of the teams. Miller said his group had already collected half the money needed for entry into the league of businesses and residents in the community.

A heavy and lightweight team would be involved in the league representing Rolling Meadows youth. Open to boys eight years old to high school, the teams would travel throughout the Northwest area for their games.

A three-week training period would precede a general try-out for positions on the teams. Each team would be composed of 30 players, Miller said "and every boy on the team would play."

Park officials told Miller they would contact him early this week on their decision of co-sponsorship.

Road Work Is Discontinued

Cold weather has caused a delay in construction of Barker Avenue south of Central Road in Rolling Meadows. The work won't be continued until spring.

Anthony Tiberi, of Alcan United Concrete, Inc., the firm doing the road construction, said sewer work for the road was completed in November when work began on the project. Actual paving of the road and installation of curbs will not be done until spring.

Barker Avenue will provide access to both Rolling Meadows High School and Willow Bend Elementary School off Central Road when the schools open in September.

"There won't be any problem in getting the road finished in time for the schools' openings," Tiberi said.

When completed, the road will extend 1,230 feet south of Central Road but will not quite reach Algonquin Road. Total cost of the project is $76,000, which was contracted last fall by the city council.

Plans for the Barker Avenue project had been going on for nearly two years before final approval was given by the city council. Representatives of Elementary School Dist. 15 had been in contact with city and state officials for planning construction of the road.

by DOUGLAS RAY

"Eighteen years of my sweat in the basement of that building," said Mrs. Mary Lambides, a member of one of the 23 families left homeless by the apartment building fire at the Meadow Trace complex in Rolling Meadows Saturday.

Mrs. Lambides, who had been a resident of Meadow Trace for four years, said, "I just want to move back to the city of Chicago."

The American Red Cross provided temporary housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows for all of the persons who had formerly lived in the fire gutted building. Yesterday was the last day for the 3-day disaster emergency housing and other agencies have stepped in to help the victims of the fire.

Since many of the children living in the complex attend Twinbrook Elementary School, the school's administration is providing help for the youth.

Principal Darrell Little has given clothing left at the school for emergencies to the children. The school's Parent Teacher Association will conduct a collection of used furniture, to give to the families who lost many of their belongings. Clothing, footstuffs, furnishings and any other items that may be used by the victims are being sought.

THERE IS A SPECIAL need for baby furniture and clothing, said Mrs. Margaret Ciganek, a resident of the complex who is collecting many items for the homeless. Mrs. Ciganek said that two infants and two expectant mothers were without a home today. Eight of the children are under five years of age, she said.

John Blyth, Meadow Trace manager, said that housing will be provided for all the victims of the fire at other apartments in the area. Many of the homeless will be moved into other apartments at Meadow Trace, Blyth said.

Walter Jakobowski said that he had been told that an apartment for his family would be provided at Meadow Trace for 60 days. Jakobowski, who had been shopping when the fire began Saturday, said he didn't manage to salvage much from the fire. "We only got the television set out," he said.

"I WON'T MOVE back to Meadow

Trace," said Miss Susan Elkins, who called herself one of the "lucky ones." "They will have to show me the next building is better," she said.

Miss Elkins said that she had urged management to improve the building that was destroyed by fire.

Most of Miss Elkins' belongings were salvaged when she returned to her apartment Sunday before demolition of the apartment began. "I lost pots and pans, but not much else," she said.

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser, felt differently about Meadow Trace. "I think it would be nice to move back," she said. She had been out of town at the time of the fire, "I'm not afraid to move back to another apartment in the complex," she said.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Kraehnke were one of the families hit hardest by the fire. They had recently purchased furniture for their apartment. "We had no insurance," said Mrs. Kraehnke.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Persons wishing to help the victims of the fire may contact Mrs. Ciganek at 397-8768 or Twinbrook School at 894-3309.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

The Justice Department Monday charged an Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The World

At least 25 persons were reported dead in the crash of a Venezuelan plane in the Andes Mountains. The plane was carrying 47 persons when it went down.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Gibbs Candidate For Board Seat

Leland "Bud" Gibbs, currently a member of the Elementary School Dist. 15 board of education, has announced he will seek election to the board April 10.

Four seats of the seven-man board will be up for election, three of which will be for full three-year terms.

The fourth seat, currently occupied by Gibbs, will also be open to complete the two years remaining on the term of Russell E. Thome of Palatine who resigned from the board last year. Gibbs, who previously served on the board from 1967 to 1970 was appointed by the board to fill Thome's vacancy.

A Rolling Meadows resident, Gibbs was first elected to the Dist. 15 board of education in 1967. He was unseated by Thome in the 1970 election and then appointed to replace him later that year.

GIBBS CURRENTLY serves as chairman of the new buildings committee of the Dist. 15 board, which investigates possible acquisition of school sites for the district.

Leland "Bud" Gibbs

Other seats up for election are those of Mrs. Patricia Oakley, J. Leslie Ehringer and Howard Meadows.

Parks Plan Trip To Bulls Game

A trip to see the Chicago Bulls play the Seattle SuperSonics at the Chicago Stadium has been planned by the Palatine Park District.

Tickets for the Feb. 2 game will cost $3 per person. Bus transportation is included in the price of the ticket. The bus will leave for the Stadium at 6:15 p.m. from the park district office in Community Park on the day of the game.

People interested in attending this basketball game are asked to purchase their tickets before Jan. 30. More information about the trip may be obtained by calling the park district at 359-0333.

CUB SCOUTS FROM Pack 182 cheer on their favorites at the Pinewood Derby, held recently in the basement of the Presbyterian Church of Palatine. Model cars zip down the derby track to a soft landing in a towel at the end of the track when John Lowecki would determine which car finished first. The cars were made by the scouts and their fathers to race in this annual event, which appeared to raise more excitement than the Indianapolis 500.

Keeping Up

A summary of Rolling Meadows news from last week:

FIREMEN FROM 10 suburban communities battled for more than four hours Saturday to bring a fire under control at a Meadow Trace apartment building in Rolling Meadows. No injuries were reported from the fire, but residents of 28 apartments in the building were left homeless. Fire broke out at noon and fire officials believe the fire started in the basement area. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Homeless residents were given temporary housing at other apartments in the area. The American Red Cross provided 3-day disaster housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows.

The building received extensive damage, and about two-thirds of the structure was demolished Monday.

THE TWO-LANE SECTION of Hicks Road that runs near Industrial Park in the northwest section of Rolling Meadows will be made four lanes, the Illinois Division of Highways announced. It will be widened as part of a road expansion and improvement program being conducted locally.

FORMER MAYOR of Rolling Meadows John J. Woods was elected chairman of the Palatine Township mental health board by other board members. He will preside over all meetings and will vote only to break a tie.

ON FEB. 1, the Palatine Township Board of Auditors will vote whether or not they will hold the proposed mental health referendum on Feb. 27 with other townships involved in the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council.

The board voted 3 to 1 to draw up a resolution to hold the referendum on the proposed date. To date, Wheeling and Schaumburg townships have agreed on the Feb. 27 date. Elk Grove and Palatine townships will vote on the date on Feb. 1.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP'S mental health board also voted to hold the mental health referendum on Feb. 27. In a 3 to 2 vote, the board voted approval of the date while defeating a motion by board member Don MacLeod to postpone the referendum until the board has more time to examine what the Northwest Council is proposing.

ROLLING MEADOWS City Clerk Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth announced that she will not seek reelection to her post. Mrs. Houldsworth was appointed to the position in 1969 while keeping up with her duties as city secretary. After the April 20 election, she could not hold both positions, so she will not seek a full term as clerk. She was the third city official to announce she would not seek reelection.

MR. STEAK, a restaurant chain, was given preliminary approval to locate on Algonquin Road in Rolling Meadows. The city plan commission will recommend to the city council that the area be subdivided into two lots to allow the restaurant to be built.

A PRANK AT Arlington High School resulted in serious injuries for three students. Two youths placed a piece of plywood between the handles of the boy's washroom doors. When the boys inside the bathroom couldn't push the doors open, they wedged themselves against a wall to force the doors open. The wall collapsed, taking part of the ceiling with it, injuring three boys.

'Innovator' Ends Racing Dynasty

by JAMES HODL

A racing dynasty came to an end Thursday night in the basement of the Presbyterian Church of Palatine.

Defending champion Doug Hayes, who entered the same car he won with last year, was defeated by an innovator, Jim Plimpton.

Plimpton had finished second behind Hayes last year. This year, he built a revolutionary new car with an aerodynamic wing running down the center of the vehicle and no place for a driver to sit.

Plimpton's car, of course, was a wooden model entered in Cub Scout Pack 182's Pinewood Derby.

Each year, Scouts in the pack build scale model wooden cars out of pine. Then, they race them at a pack meeting to see whose car is the fastest. The winners get trophies.

CARS IN THE DERBY are run down a long track set up in the church's basement. The dropping of metal bars starts the derby vehicles down the track until they come to rest in a towel which serves as a backdrop.

Cub Scout Paul Sheedy explained the making of his car, which his father helped him with.

"First, you carve it to the shape you want and then you sand it," Sheedy said. "To make it go fast, you put weights on the bottom."

"Then, I put four coats of paint on the car and filed those things (plastic stubs) off the wheels."

Sheedy's mother said this was the first time he had ever made a Pinewood Derby car. She said it took him seven hours to make with his father's help.

MAKING A CAR is a father-son project, according to the pack.

In building a car, certain specifications must be met. The car cannot be over seven and three-eighths inches long or two and three-quarters inches wide. It cannot weigh over five ounces. The specifications are checked by the scoutmasters at the registration.

There were all sorts of cars in the race this year. A total of 28 cars were entered by four dens and the Webelos.

A popular type of car was the red, white and blue painted variety. There were four cars like this, three of which had stars and stripes, (ala Easy Rider) incorporated in the design.

One car even resembled a motorcycle's banana seat.

While all cars were painted, one car was colored with various crayons and covered with decals. One orange and white car had chrome exhausts that would blow into the face of the driver if it were a real race car.

A FEW CARS EVEN had names. One salmon-colored vehicle was titled "Unlucky 13." A blue car was called "The Bug Bomb."

Then came the race.

First, the scouts in each den competed against each other and a den champ was crowned. Then, the den champs competed and a pack champ was crowned.

Scouts and their brothers and sisters crowded around the track, rooting for favorites. At times, scoutmaster Fred Hayes would have to caution the crowd from getting too close to the track. When they did, Hayes took out his level and reset the track.

"If the track isn't level, the race isn't fair," he said.

By the time the den champs were deep in competition, the crowd had worked itself into a frenzy. The fans seemed wilder and more excited than the crowds at the Indianapolis 500.

"This is the exciting part of the race," one father explained. "The kids really get excited over this because each has a stake in who wins, whether it is the scout's own car or the den's favorite."

HAYES WAS THE favorite of the crowd throughout the evening. Between him and his brother Steve, they have won the derby each year for the past four years. Steve won in 1967-1969. Hayes won last year.

Up to the final pairings, Hayes was getting the majority of the cheers. The final pairing was narrowed down to Hayes' purple car and Plimpton's gold car with the wing.

To the surprise of many present, Plimpton was victorious.

As champ, Plimpton was a man of few words. When asked how it felt to win, Plimpton said, "Pretty good." When asked if he expected to win when he came to the pack meeting, he said, "Yes."

In receiving his trophies, Plimpton was asked by scoutmaster Hayes if he would let him in on the secret of winning the race. Plimpton replied "No."

Plimpton's father Richard Plimpton explained that they built the car by whittling it to the proper shape, and then filling the space for the cockpit with balsa wood they got the car to the correct weight of five ounces by weighing it on a candy scale at a local store.

PLIMPTON IS A student at Winston Churchill School in Palatine. His hobby is building models, which his father explained was why he built a new car this year, despite having a second place finisher last year.

Winning trophies at the Pinewood Derby were the den speed champs Dave Laymon of Den 1, Bill Wolverson of Den 3, Dave Schuering of Den 5, Plimpton of Den 7 and Hayes of the Webelos. Plimpton also received trophies for winning the final competition and for building the most unusual car. Tom Zymali won a trophy for building the best designed car.

Weekend School Vandalism Told

Local schools were plagued by vandals and pranksters this past weekend, according to Palatine police reports.

The worst of the trouble came early yesterday morning when an employee of Palatine High School received a phone call in which the caller said bombs would explode in the high school and the nearby Sanborn Elementary School at 11:30 a.m.

Police were notified of the threat and firemen assisted school officials in searching the building, but the threat proved to be false.

Palatine High School did not evacuate students but Sanborn School did at about 11:15 a.m. Police said the only reason the grade school was cleared was because it had been burglarized previously last weekend and a bomb could have been planted then.

School officials reported to police that entry had been forcibly gained to a second floor music room. Two instruments were found on the school's roof, but nothing else had been taken.

Another breaking and entering was reported this weekend at Paddock School, located in Washington Court. Police found a window broken in the building and evidence that illegal entry had been gained on or before Saturday. School officials said nothing was stolen or destroyed, however.

Last week the Palatine Village Board approved the purchase of eight new police cars for $28,632.

Each of the marked and unmarked vehicles costs $3,329. They are 1971 Fords and will be purchased from Schmerler Ford, Inc., in Elk Grove Village.

Prior to authorizing the purchase, the board looked into the possibility of joining the state in bidding for squad cars, which is allowed under the new Illinois purchasing law.

Although Palatine bought cars in this manner last year, Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said major auto manufacturers have discontinued bid assistance to their dealers, and the state of Illinois has experienced a substantial increase in bid prices as a result.

THE LOW BID received by the state was $3,471 for each of the seven marked police cars and $3,446 for the one unmarked car, Braun said.

Police Chief Robert Centner said the eight new cars will replace six vehicles now in use — bringing the department's fleet up to a total of 11 cars and vans.

He said squad cars are usually replaced every year in an effort to cut back on maintenance costs. Maintenance costs about one cent per mile during the first year car is in operation. After that, the cost soars to five cents per mile.

The cars which will be traded in have between 150,000 and 175,000 motor hours each, which accounts for both actual road mileage and idle time.

The road mileage for each vehicle is more than 50,000 miles, Centner said.

And in one year, the department's patrol fleet exceeds 300,000 miles on the roads, he added.

Village Purchases 8 Police Cars

Accident Victim Succumbs

A Palatine woman who was involved in a three-car accident at Roselle and Algonquin Roads on Jan. 17 died at Northwest Community Hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Doris Tenglin, 38 S. Walnut St., Palatine, died from head injuries she suffered in the collision, a hospital spokesman said. She was 54 years old.

The spokesman said her husband, Herbert, 60, is still in serious condition. He was the driver of one of the cars involved.

Others involved in the accident were treated for minor injuries and released.

They were Arthur M. Wallace, 29, of 561 Fremont St., Woodstock, who was driving a second car; and John VanderVer, 54, of 309 Warwick Road, Tower Lake; and his passenger, Violet Hood, Rte. 1, Wauconda, in a third car.

State police said the accident was caused by VanderVer, who was ticketed for failing to obey a traffic signal and gally transporting liquor in his car. He is scheduled to appear in the Mount Prospect Branch of the Cook County Circuit Court on March 9.

A Cook County Coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Tenglin was held yesterday but continued until Feb. 22 in Chicago.

Mental Health Program Praised

Martin Pratt, Palatine Township mental health board member recently praised the program proposed by the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council.

"I cannot see where township residents can get a better mental health program for the money," Pratt said.

Voters will get to vote on the program through a referendum planned for Feb. 27. The Palatine Township Board of Auditors is expected to pass a resolution setting Feb. 27 as the referendum date next Monday.

If passed, a tax will be levied to support a mental health program covering Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Residents will be taxed 10 cents per $100 assessed property value.

PRATT POINTED out that the program proposed by the Northwest Council will be a bargain. A $20,000 home will be taxed $20, which will be cheap compared to the program in mental health the residents will get, he said.

Pratt, who is also the township representative to the four-township mental health executive council, answered a few of the criticisms levied against the program so far.

He pointed out that while the mental health agencies outnumber the township representatives on the executive council 12 to 8, the agencies will be the force that will put the program together.

He added that the townships will retain the ultimate power in the program through the tax money they will put into it.

"IF THIS WERE any other way, the program would become a political thing," Pratt said.

Pratt also argued that the size of the proposed administrative staff of the Northwest Council would be just the right size.

He said the staff will not have to create its own work because there will already be enough to keep them busy.

Pratt added that it would be a tremendous accomplishment if all the work the administrative staff will have to do was performed by only three people or a small staff.

So far, only three positions are definitely called for in the Northwest Council's proposed program.

At a recent meeting of the township mental health board, Pratt voted with two other board members to defeat a motion that would have delayed the referendum date. He said that while it was charged that the Rev. James Kehoe would have voted with the group wanting to postpone the referendum, Rev. Kehoe would not have, keeping the vote with the majority.

IF REV. KEHOE, Pratt said, had voted to postpone causing a tie Chairman Joe Woods would have voted to hold the referendum on Feb. 27 anyway.

Pratt said the board will study the proposed program in more detail at the next board meeting on Feb. 6. Guests at the meeting will include Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer and Northwest Council chairman Dr. Bernard Powell. Township Supervisor Howard Olsen has also been invited.

Inquest Slated For Girl Killed In Sled Crash

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl. Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today; however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on park district property since the district was formed in 1968, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss.

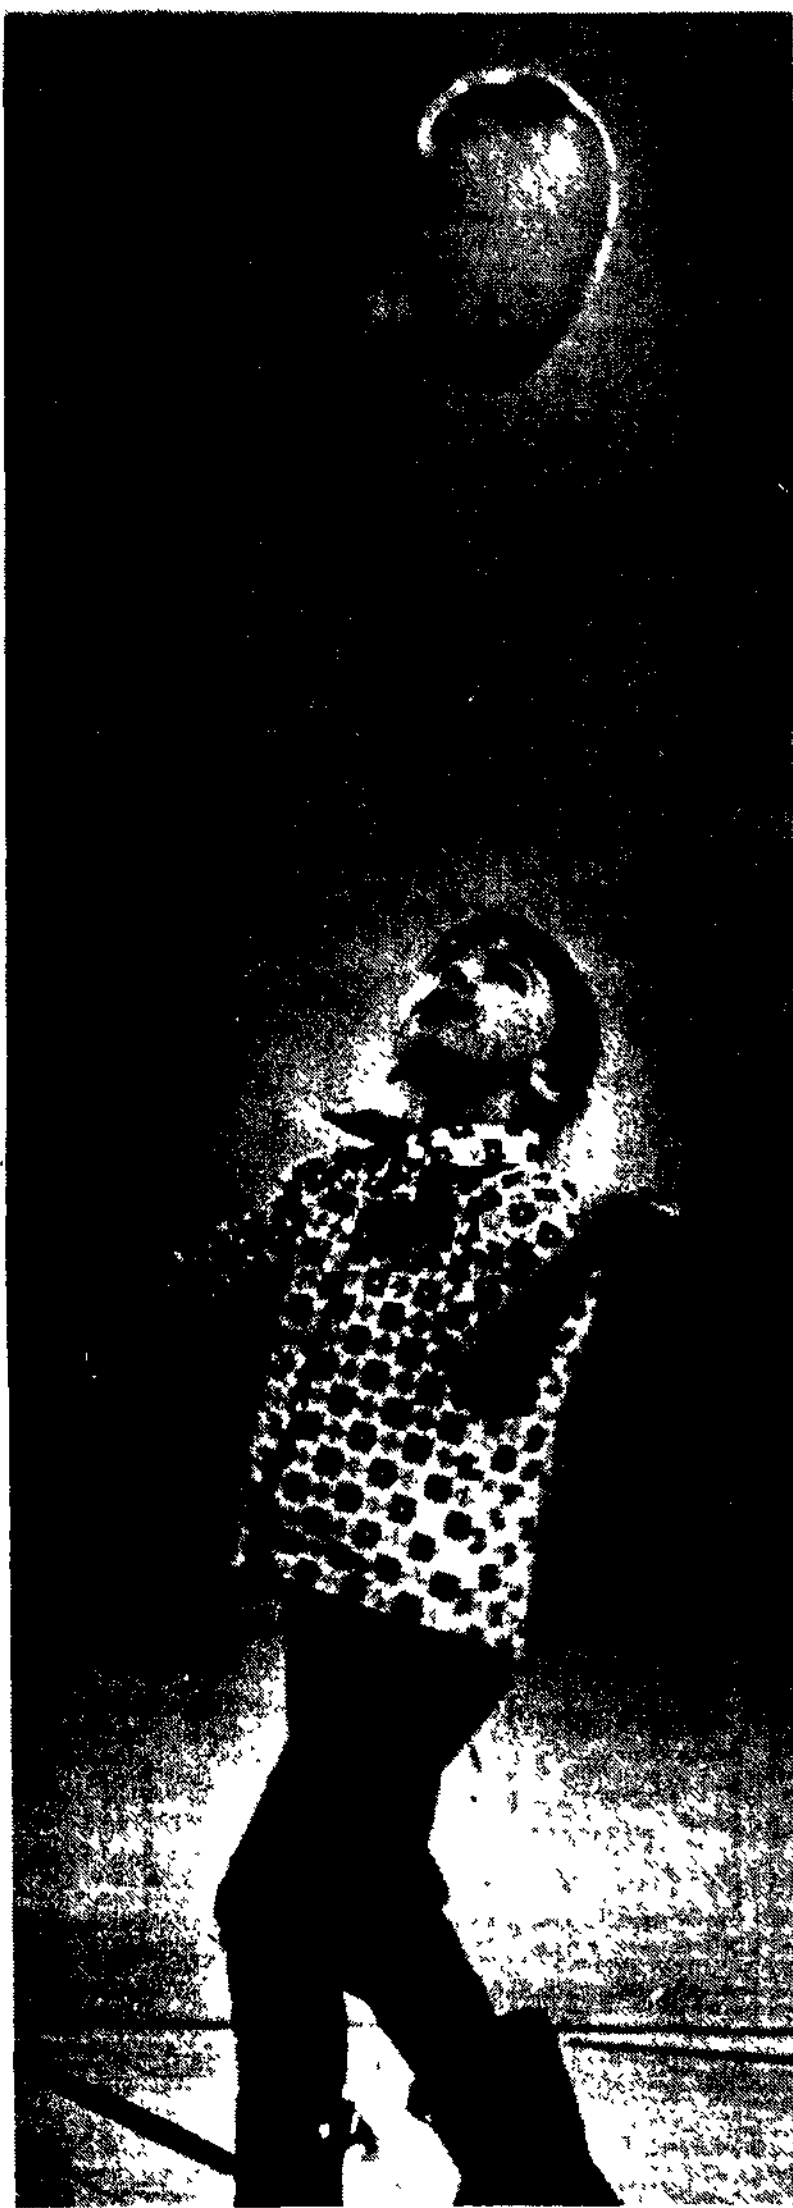

However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill."

At the time of the accident, several park district supervisors, park board members and district administrators were at the nearby Woodland Trails Park. The district personnel were attending the annual district "Ice Carnival."

The sled hill is not visible from the ice rinks, both house and swimming pool at Woodland Trails. According to Weiss, a child ran over to Woodland Trails to tell them an accident had occurred. "I sent over four boys to the sled hill, but by the time they got there the injured child had been taken to the hospital."

SANDY JOHNSON concentrated on keeping her balloon in the air while her mother shopped at the Ross-Sullivan PTA flea market Friday. The market was held in the Douglas MacArthur Junior High School in Prospect Heights.

3 Candidates Seek School Board Seats

Dist. 26 Interviews Scheduled By Caucus

Three prospective school board candidates will be interviewed next Monday by the River Trails School Dist. 26 caucus. The three are Alan Wallskog, 3 E. Leon Ln., Prospect Heights; Juanita Jacobs, 312 Peartree Ln., Prospect Heights; and Theodore Wattenberg, 1407 Orchard, Prospect Heights.

Mrs. Jacobs is a housewife and has lived in Prospect Heights seven years. Wallskog, a mechanical engineer, has lived in the community 4½ years. Wattenberg, who is a lawyer, has lived in Prospect Heights six years.

The announcement that the three would be interviewed was made yesterday by a caucus spokesman. The caucus will hold its next meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the River Trails Park District offices on Lee Street in Prospect Heights. The interviews will be held at that time.

VOTERS WILL CHOOSE two new school board members in the elections that will be held in April. The two incumbents, Ray Johnston and Hubert Stubbs, have both announced they will not seek reelection.

Johnston, president of the First National Bank of Mount Prospect, has been a school board member eight years. Stubbs, has been a member for nine years. He is a credit collection manager for Moore Business Forms Inc.

According to a spokesman for the caucus, the group this year will endorse only as many candidates as there are openings on the board.

Caucus endorsements will be made after interviews are conducted with each school board candidate who chooses to appear before the caucus.

The caucus is made up of representatives from each of the six PTA groups in Dist. 26. Other delegates come from the various civic associations in the school district.

Ray Inman, chairman of this year's caucus said endorsements would probably be announced by the end of February.

HE REPEATED A PLEA made earlier that "anyone who is interested in running can contact me, so we can set up an interview." Inman's phone number is 827-0375.

Inman noted school board candidates are not required to appear before the caucus for an interview and possible endorsement. If a candidate wants to, "he can bypass the caucus. He is perfectly free to do so," he said.

Two school board posts were filled in last year's Dist. 26 school board election. The two new board members who were elected last year were Clarke C. Robinson and Neil LeFebvre. Both won caucus support, and both ran uncontested.

Fiedler Conducts At Hersey Tonight

The doors at John Hersey High School will open at 6:30 tonight for the annual Pops Concert. Directing the school's bands in the performance will be Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. at the school, located at 1900 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights. School officials said Friday a small number of tickets would be on sale at the door tonight. Most tickets have already been sold. There are no reserved seats for the performance.

Tonight's concert will open with the stage band playing jazz and rock tunes. Other selections to be played include "Festive Overture" by Dimitri Shostakovich; "American Salute" by Morton Gould; and the finale from the "New World Symphony" by Antonin Dvorak. The symphonic winds will also play "America the Beautiful" and "Hello Dolly."

Leroy Anderson's "Serenata" will be played by the concert band. Other selections to be performed by the concert band include "California Dreamin'" Monday, "Manday," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "West Side Story."

FIEDLER WAS scheduled to arrive for the performance yesterday afternoon. A rehearsal with the school's concert and symphonic bands was set for last night. Following this a reception for Fiedler and band members was to be held.

At noon today a luncheon will be held in Fiedler's honor at the Arlington Park Towers where he is staying. During the luncheon, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights village president, is scheduled to present a fire hat to Fiedler, making him an honorary member of the Arlington Heights Fire Department.

This afternoon the final rehearsal with the band members will be held. Following tonight's concert a small reception for Fiedler will be held, with a limited number of invited guests.

School Walls Appear Safe

Walls similar to the ones that collapsed under the weight of three Arlington High School students last week are apparently safe under normal conditions, High School Dist. 214 learned Monday.

The district received the report on a study of the walls in the wake of an incident that seriously injured three students.

The district's school board, meeting last night in regular session, was scheduled to receive a written copy of the report, which had been made verbally to district officials earlier in the day.

Before the report was made, Supt. Edward Gilbert remarked that he had been concerned by "rumors" during the weekend. He added that the boys' medical condition is improving.

Robert Griesmeyer, supervisor of buildings and grounds for the district, surveyed the school last Thursday with two architects and a structural engineer. They examined six walls at Prospect High School and three at Arlington High School and reported no cracks in the walls or errors in installation.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS reported that all of the washrooms at Forest View High School had similar retaining walls, but they were not added to a completed building as were the walls at Arlington and Prospect.

The wall that collapsed last Wednesday was installed in 1965, Griesmeyer said, and since then had passed a Life Safety Code inspection required by county school officials.

Griesmeyer said that on the basis of verbal information he had received from the architects and engineer that there was no reason to change the walls at this time.

He added that it appeared to be only a

"freak" accident, and that students could exert considerable damaging pressure if they braced themselves against a retaining wall and pushed a stationary object.

A TOTAL OF 13 students were in the restroom during the break between classes when the accident occurred. Five students were injured, two of whom suffered only superficial injuries.

District officials said that the boys, with their backs to it, pushed themselves through the retaining wall. The remaining portions of the wall then fell forward.

One district official said that more than three students may have been involved in pushing against the door, which was blocked on the outside by a board. However, John Rowe, assistant principal at Arlington, reported only three students had pushed the door while the other two boys injured were hit by flying debris.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee called for a federal investigation into the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad's purchase of insurance to protect its directors against charges of wrong doing.

The Justice Department Monday charged and Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The Weather

The national map was sprinkled with diverse weather systems, including heavy snow in the Northwest, bitter cold in the Northern Plains and upper Great Lakes, and continued balmy conditions along the Gulf Coast. The nation's low was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Doctor's Hearing Scheduled Today

Dr. James Middleton, a Des Plaines area physician charged by Cook County Sheriff's Police with deviate sexual assault, is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court this morning in a pre-trial hearing.

Middleton's attorney, Warren Carey, was granted a continuance Jan. 12 until today after Judge George Zimmerman ordered State's Attorney Daniel Miroballi to supply Carey with a list of witnesses for the prosecution.

Zimmerman also ordered that the state let Carey examine physical evidence seized by the sheriff's police at the time of the doctor's arrest in his office.

Dr. Middleton was arrested in a raid on his office at 909 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines last Dec. 1 by sheriff's police. They found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photographs, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation.

THE RAID came after a two month investigation by sheriff's police in which a number of his women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Dr. Middleton was also charged by police with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education has also charged Middleton with unethical practice and deception in applying for his Illinois medical license.

According to the department's attorney, Edward Price, Dr. Middleton has filed an answer denying all three charges placed against him.

He is charged with three violations of the Illinois Medical Practice Act. They are: the charge that Dr. Middleton's medical license was revoked in a sister state; and the charge that Dr. Middleton engaged in the employment of fraud and deception in applying for or securing a license certificate for practicing the treatment of human ailments in the State of Illinois.

THE THIRD violation, according to Price, is that Dr. Middleton "engaged in dishonorable, unethical and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Dr. Middleton has been scheduled to appear before a medical examining committee Feb. 4 in the State of Illinois Building to respond to the state's allegations.

Dr. Middleton could be granted a continuance on the hearing by the committee according to Price. "If his attorney asks for a continuance," Price said, "I would think the committee would grant it."

"If found guilty of the violations," Price added, "Dr. Middleton's Illinois license would be revoked. Until that time he can continue to practice medicine here."

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus.

Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

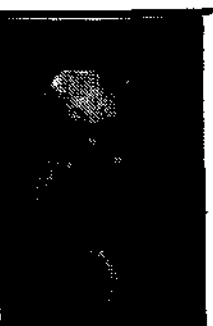

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical

Prospect High Jazz Band In City Festival

The Prospect High School award winning jazz band will participate in the Chicago Stage Band Festival Feb. 6 at Oak Lawn.

Morgan Jones, high school band director at Prospect, said the event is "the biggest high school stage band festival in the country."

Jones said over 90 bands from throughout the state will be participating in the event, which Prospect High School won last year.

The jazz band at Prospect is made up of youngsters in the symphonic band and consists of about 25 high school musicians.

LAST WEEKEND the jazz, or stage band as it is also called, performed at the Illinois Music Educators Conference at Peoria. Jones referred to the invitation as "the highest honor a high school band in the state could get."

"You cannot apply for and get selected to this event," said Jones. "You have to have an excellent reputation, which we have."

On March 23 the stage band will travel to Cincinnati, Ohio to perform at the National Music Educators Conference. Prospect is the only high school stage band invited to attend.

Nursery School Now Taking Registrations

The Prospect Heights Nursery School is now accepting registrations for its 1971-72 school year.

The school is a non-profit, non-sectarian, state-licensed organization meeting in the Prospect Heights Community Church, at Willow and Elmhurst roads in Prospect Heights.

The school offers children experience in nature study, film strips, painting, rhythm band, story time, singing and field trips.

Three sessions, each meeting for 2½ hours, three times a week, will be held during the school year. Enrollment is limited to 25 children per session. To be eligible children should be between the ages of three and five.

Anyone wishing to register should call Mrs. Howard Gallay at 299-1274 or the Prospect Heights Nursery School at 392-6171.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

Groups To Ponder Future

Two homeowner associations in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect will meet tonight to discuss whether they want to have the area annexed to a neighboring municipality or create a new municipality.

Both of the associations, Castle Heights and Parkview, are located in the "new town" area of the unincorporated community, east of Wolf Road.

The associations are holding the general meetings at the request of the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which represents all of the homeowner organizations in Prospect Heights and a portion of unincorporated Mount Prospect.

THE COUNCIL has asked each member association to poll its members on the annexation-incorporated issue before Feb. 15. The council plans to take action toward the alternative chosen by a plurality of residents. This action will involve petitioning to hold a referendum. The final decision will be made by the voters in the referendum.

The Castle Heights Association will meet at 8 p.m. in the Robert Frost School gym. The association represents the area north of Camp McDonald and west of Mandel Lane.

The area south of Euclid Avenue and west of River Road is represented by the Parkview Association. It will meet at 8 p.m. in Parkview School.

Next Monday the Woodview Association will meet at 8 p.m. in the Forest River Fire Station. The Woodview Association represents a portion of the "new town" area north of Camp McDonald Road and west of River Road.

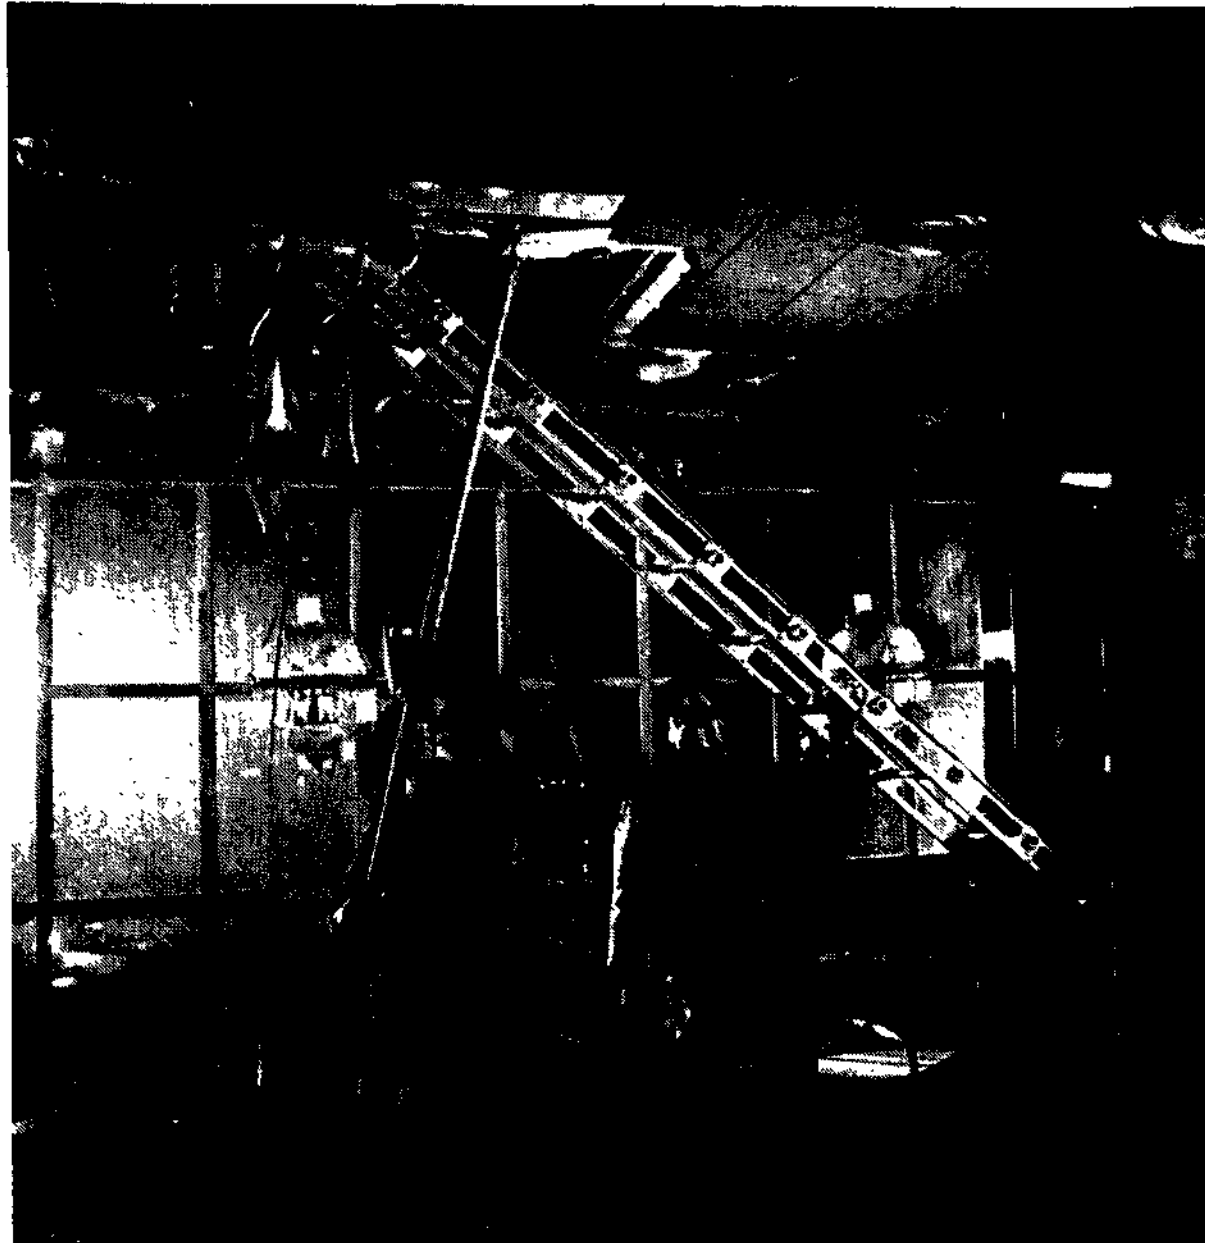

The Rainbow Ridge Association has slated a meeting for 8 p.m. Feb. 4 at the Indian Grove School library. Originally Dale Chapman, association president, had planned to not hold a meeting. However, the association block captains voted unanimously to hold a meeting. The association represents that part of the "new town" area north of Orchard Drive and east of Lee Street.

THE WOLF MANDEL Association has tentatively set a meeting for the week of Feb. 8. According to an association board member, the exact date will depend on when facilities at Frost School are available. The association represents a portion of the "new town" area just east of Wolf Road and north of Camp McDonald Road.

On Feb. 15, the River Trails Association will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. in the River Trails Junior High School. The association represents the "new town" area south of Euclid Avenue and east of the Village of Mount Prospect boundary.

Two associations have already held general meetings. The Prospect Heights Improvement Association, which represents the "old town" area west of Wolf Road, met last week. At that meeting residents voted 57 to 43 to move toward incorporation.

Residents attending a meeting of the Euclid-Lake Association, voted 49 to 1 for annexation to Mount Prospect. The Euclid-Lake Association represents the "new town" area north of Euclid Ave. and west of Wolf Road.

FIREMEN PROBE ceiling of the Elk Grove Bowl, Rte. 72 and Arlington Heights Road, where a fire Sunday in the lounge caused $40,000 in damage. Firemen reported the fire resulted from a hot metal chimney duct from a fireplace which ignited a wooden joist in a false ceiling.

GOOD NEWS department: Four-year-old Cathy Kuhn has recovered from a rare and often fatal kidney disease. After contacting hemolytic uremia in 1968, she was given a 50-50 chance to live. She underwent extensive treatment at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago and since then returned for periodic tests.

According to Cathy's parents, "On her most recent visit doctors were extremely pleased and amazed at Cathy's miraculous recovery. . . . Cathy will be 5 years old next month and is a healthy, active child, thanks to a lot of prayers and a lot of people."

Cathy's fifth birthday should be an especially happy one for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Kuhn, 110 S. Hi-Lusi.

A SPECIAL WOMEN'S forum is being held each Wednesday morning at St. Paul Lutheran Church, with Pastor E. A. Zeile conducting the sessions. Subjects for discussion will range from "Making God Real" to contemporary novels. The weekly forums will continue until Easter.

Three Thefts Reported

Three thefts of stereo equipment were reported to Mount Prospect police last weekend.

A stereo tape deck and 15 tapes, valued at about $200, were reportedly stolen Saturday afternoon from an auto parked in the lot at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads. The owner of the car, Delores Wood of Chicago, told police burglars gained entry to her car by breaking a vent window.

Richard Rogowski, of 2630 Windsor Dr., Arlington Heights, also told police burglars broke into his car while it was parked in the lot at Randhurst Shopping Center Saturday night. Rogowski told police a stereo tape deck and tachometer, valued at about $150, were missing from his car.

Police said burglars also gained entry to Rogowski's car by breaking a vent window on the passenger's side of the auto.

A stereo tape deck and tapes, valued at about $125, were stolen Saturday night from an auto parked in the lot at the Mount Prospect Cinema, Rand and Central roads. Roy William of Chicago told police burglars gained entry to his car by breaking a vent window.

CHA Has Power To Build Low-Cost Housing Here

The Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) can build public housing for low-income families outside of the city as a result of a recent federal court decision, said C. E. Humphrey, executive director of the CHA.

Humphrey said that the court has ruled that for every one unit the authority builds in a black neighborhood, it is required to build three units in white areas.

One-third of the units to be built in white neighborhoods can be built outside the city in the suburbs, he said.

Humphrey on Tuesday addressed the Elk Grove Village Housing Commission which is studying the need for low or moderate-income housing in the community.

HE SAID HE thought the reason behind the court's decision was to encourage white suburbanites to stay where they are while public housing is built in both the city and the suburbs.

Humphrey said the CHA fought the court case for three years and lost. He said public housing is still needed in the inner city but that the court has now set the priorities for the CHA to build in white neighborhoods.

Humphrey has been with the housing authority for 18 years.

The CHA manages 40,000 housing units in the city, 2,400 of which are under a leasing program.

While many of the units are in high rises, he said the authority has 10,000 single-family homes it manages in the city.

Humphrey said if the CHA were to build in Elk Grove Village it would build single-family homes or row houses. However, there is no precedent for the CHA building in the suburbs, he said.

BUILDINGS WOULD not be over three stories and would not contain more than 120 persons at a location, he said.

Persons already living in the area would have priority in becoming residents of the public housing, followed by those who currently live in public housing and those on a waiting list to get into public housing, he said.

"If you want to provide low-income housing you have to go to public housing," he said.

Humphrey said the people who would live in public housing in Elk Grove Village would be those who work in the industrial park or on a highway construction crew.

Public housing will be built where the jobs are and where the people want to live, he said.

Public housing is supported by both a federal and local subsidy, Humphrey said. Rent is determined by the ability to pay with the average rent $68 a month. Rent ranges from $60 a month for a one-bedroom unit to $90 a month for four bedrooms.

In other business, 300 questionnaires for a housing survey will be distributed this week to two plants in the village as part of a testing program of the survey.

The survey is being made of non-residents who work in the village. Questionnaires are expected to be distributed to 85 organizations of varying size once the testing program is completed.

Harper College in Palatine has agreed to act as a consultant for the survey which may determine future housing needs.

4-Town Data Processing Unit Eyed

A feasibility study which could pave the way for a data processing center to be shared by four suburban communities was endorsed by the Mount Prospect Village Board last week.

The data processing center would be shared by Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge.

The board voted unanimously to spend not more than $3,800, the village's share of the estimated cost of determining whether a data processing center could service the four suburban communities.

The total cost of conducting the feasibility study is estimated between $13,800 and $14,300. The cost will be shared equally by the four communities.

Finance Director Richard Jesse told the board the feasibility study will be conducted by Touche, Ross and Co. of Chicago, the lowest bidder on the project. Touche, Ross and Co. is also the auditing firm hired by the village.

The auditing firms of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. and Ernst and Ernst also submitted bids on the project. Jesse said Touche Ross and Co. was selected by the finance officers of the four communities because of "the scope of the feasibility study."

Jesse said the records of the finance, police and public works departments could be processed by computer. Water and sewer billing, financial data such as accounts payable and receivable, police records and public works information could be computerized.

"DATA PROCESSING is here, and I think it's here to stay. It's the only way we can operate efficiently. The amount of time saved by data processing will allow departments to utilize personnel in other ways. The savings will be in time, energy and efficiency," Jesse explained.

Jesse said the auditing firm will determine whether it's possible for four communities to share one data processing center. The study will determine if the needs of the four communities will be compatible to data processing on a shared arrangement.

"If it isn't feasible, then Touche, Ross and Co. — at our request — will recommend ways in which each community could benefit from data processing on an individual basis. If the center is feasible, then they'll recommend ways in which to implement a program," he explained.

Jesse said the feasibility study will be conducted pending final approval by the city councils or village boards of the four communities. Jesse said the study could be completed in about 10 weeks.

23 Families 'Evicted' By Fire

by DOUGLAS RAY

"Eighteen years of my sweat is in the basement of that building," said Mrs. Mary Lambides, a member of one of the 23 families left homeless by the apartment building fire at the Meadow Trace complex in Rolling Meadows Saturday.

Mrs. Lambides, who had been a resident of Meadow Trace for four years, said, "I just want to move back to the city of Chicago."

The American Red Cross provided temporary housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows for all of the persons who had formerly lived in the fire gutted building. Yesterday was the last day for the 3-day disaster emergency housing and other agencies have stepped in to help the victims of the fire.

Since many of the children living in the complex attend Twinbrook Elementary School, the school's administration is providing help for the youth.

Principal Darrell Little has given clothing left at the school for emergencies to the children. The school's Parent Teacher Association will conduct a collection of used furniture, to give to the families who lost many of their belongings. Clothing, footstuff, furnishings and any other items that may be used by the victims are being sought.

THERE IS A SPECIAL need for baby furniture and clothing, said Mrs. Margaret Ciganek, a resident of the complex who is collecting many items for the homeless. Mrs. Ciganek said that two infants and two expectant mothers were without a home today. Eight of the children are under five years of age, she said.

John Blyth, Meadow Trace manager, said that housing will be provided for all the victims of the fire at other apartments in the area. Many of the homeless will be moved into other apartments at Meadow Trace, Blyth said.

Walter Jakobowski said that he had been told that an apartment for his family would be provided at Meadow Trace for 60 days. Jakobowski, who had been shopping when the fire began Saturday, said he didn't manage to salvage much from the fire. "We only got the television set out," he said.

"I WON'T MOVE back to Meadow Trace," said Miss Susan Elkins, who called herself one of the "lucky ones." "They will have to show me the next building is better," she said.

Miss Elkins said that she had urged management to improve the building that was destroyed by fire.

Most of Miss Elkins' belongings were salvaged when she returned to her apartment Sunday before demolition of the apartment began. "I lost pots and pans, but not much else," she said.

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser, data processing, the project could be extended to include other communities in the Northwest suburban area. "For all practical purposes, a feasibility study conducted with four communities will be representative of how a data processing center could function with several members," Jesse said.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Kraehnke were one of the families hit hardest by the fire. They had recently purchased furniture for their apartment. "We had no insurance," said Mrs. Kraehnke.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Persons wishing to help the victims of the fire may contact Mrs. Ciganek at 397-8788 or Twinbrook School at 894-3309.

School Play Slated

This Week At Hersey

The John Hersey High School drama department will present "You Can't Take It With You," a Pulitzer-Prize winning comedy, at the school this Thursday and Friday.

The performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the high school "little theater." Seats may be reserved by calling the school. Tickets cost $1.50 each.

Two separate casts have been directed by Jerry Lowe to perform in the comedy. The assistant director is Joan Sandberg, and Mimi Davis is the technical director. The comedy is about two families.

Plan Indoor Tennis Site 'In The Area'

If the Arlington-Des Plaines Partnership can't build its indoor tennis courts on a portion of the Rob Roy Driving Range in Prospect Heights, the developers will go south.

Harry Young, an attorney and member of the partnership, told the Herald yesterday the partnership is seeking rezoning of a seven acre site at Algonquin and Linneman roads, south of Mount Prospect, to assure construction of an indoor tennis club "at least somewhere in the area."

A public hearing on rezoning of the site was held yesterday afternoon by the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals. The partnership is seeking rezoning from restricted manufacturing to general commercial.

"IF THE TENNIS club can't be built on a portion of the Rob Roy Driving Range, which the River Trails Park District intends to purchase from Kenroy Builders Inc. this year, then the tennis club will be built on this site in the county," Young explained following the public hearing yesterday.

"Kenroy Builders has already contracted to sell 3.3 acres of the driving range to the partnership. But in the meantime, the River Trails Park District announced it will acquire the site by purchase or condemnation. Due to the unresolved threat of condemnation, we think we have no choice except to proceed with plans for an alternate site in order to meet our construction schedule," he said.

The Arlington-Des Plaines Partnership intends to open an indoor tennis center Sept. 1. The building plans for both sites call for the construction of a center with six courts, sauna, whirlpool bath, exercise and sun rooms, a lounge, locker rooms and a pro shop.

Young said the seven-acre site in the county is also owned by Kenroy Builders.

"WE'VE BEEN negotiating with park district officials in an effort to have the site for the tennis center excluded from any condemnation proceedings. They've indicated they'll consider the idea, but I think they're worried about the legal implications. The condemnation suit would be filed on all the land zoned commercial, and park district officials seem concerned about asking for an exclusion in the suit," Young explained.

Young said the partnership prefers to build its tennis center on the Rob Roy site because of the park setting, direct exposure to main roads and the population of the area. He also said park district officials have indicated the tennis center would be an asset to the community.

Rezoning of the second site is necessary for construction of the tennis center. If zoning is approved and the tennis center is built in the county, it will be located just west of a multimillion-dollar office, apartment and recreation center proposed by Alter Realty Co. of Chicago.

Alter is currently seeking annexation and rezoning in Mount Prospect. Young also indicated annexation of the tennis center by Mount Prospect "could be a favorable possibility."

No objections to the rezoning were filed by Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village or Arlington Heights at the hearing yesterday.

Plan, Zone Boards To Meet

Hearing Tonight On Multi-Complex

A public hearing on the proposed annexation and rezoning of a 56-acre site at Algonquin and Elmhurst roads for the development of a multi-million dollar office, apartment and recreation center will be held at 8 tonight in Mount Prospect.

The hearing will be held before a joint session of the Mount Prospect Plan Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

According to Robert Teichert, Mount Prospect village president, "This is an ambitious plan, with the magnitude of New York's Rockefeller Center."

Village officials and William Alter, of Alter Realty Co. of Chicago, have been negotiating for more than a year over annexation, zoning and development of the site.

THE 56-ACRE PARCEL is now in the county and zoned for commercial and multiple-family residential development. Zoning was approved by the Cook County Board in December.

Plans call for the construction of several office buildings ranging from eight to 16 stories; three 10-story apartment buildings with approximately 1,200 units; theaters, restaurants; and an 80-acre, double-deck, underground parking lot.

The plans also call for the development of summer recreation areas with the preservation of open space.

Teichert said the complex will be basically an office park designed to accommodate big companies with enough space for regional or national offices. "Alter isn't primarily interested in apartments except as an adjunct to an office park. Although incidental, the apartment buildings will fit in very well with the complex, and I estimate they'll account for about 30 per cent of the project," Teichert explained.

Teichert said the village board has asked for a joint pre-annexation and re-zoning hearing in an effort to avoid delays in considering the project.

"THE BOARD HAS already seen the plans for the property and we know the site will be developed in the county. Zoning has already been approved by the Cook County Board. The point is then whether we want this site developed in the county or in Mount Prospect.

"This area south of the village is surrounded by all commercial and industrial properties, so this plan would be compatible with the area as well as with the village plan," Teichert explained.

Teichert said the village board has asked the plan commission and zoning board of appeals for a final recommendation on the proposal within one month following the public hearing tonight. He estimated a public hearing before the village board would probably be held in March.

School Walls Appear Safe

Walls similar to the ones that collapsed under the weight of three Arlington High School students last week are apparently safe under normal conditions, High School Dist. 214 learned Monday.

The district received the report on a study of the walls in the wake of an incident that seriously injured three students.

The district's school board, meeting last night in a joint session, was scheduled to receive a written copy of the report, which had been made verbally to district officials earlier in the day.

Before the report was made, Supt. Edward Gilbert remarked that he had been concerned by "rumors" during the week-end. He added that the boys' medical condition is improving.

Robert Griesmeyer, supervisor of buildings and grounds for the district, surveyed the school last Thursday with two architects and a structural engineer. They examined six walls at Prospect High School and three at Arlington High School and reported no cracks in the walls or errors in installation.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS reported that all of the washrooms at Forest View High School had similar retaining walls, but they were not added to a completed building as were the walls at Arlington and Prospect.

The wall that collapsed last Wednesday was installed in 1965, Griesmeyer said, and since then had passed a Life Safety Code inspection required by county school officials.

Griesmeyer said that on the basis of verbal information he had received from the architects and engineer that there was no reason to change the walls at this time.

He added that it appeared to be only a

"freak" accident, and that students could exert considerable damaging pressure if they braced themselves against a retaining wall and pushed a stationary object.

A TOTAL OF 13 students were in the restroom during the break between classes when the accident occurred. Five students were injured, two of whom suffered only superficial injuries.

District officials said that the boys, with their backs to it, pushed themselves through the retaining wall. The remaining portions of the wall then fell forward.

One district official said that more than three students may have been involved in pushing against the door, which was blocked on the outside by a board. However, John Rowe, assistant principal at Arlington, reported only three students had pushed the door while the other two boys injured were hit by flying debris.

Two homeowner associations in Prospect Heights and unincorporated Mount Prospect will meet tonight to discuss whether they want to have the area annexed to a neighboring municipality or create a new municipality.

Both of the associations, Castle Heights and Parkview, are located in the "new town" area of the unincorporated community, east of Wolf Road.

The associations are holding the general meetings at the request of the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations, which represents all of the homeowner organizations in Prospect Heights and a portion of unincorporated Mount Prospect.

THE COUNCIL has asked each member association to poll its members on the annexation-incorporated issue before Feb. 15. The council plans to take action toward the alternative chosen by a plurality of residents. This action will involve petitioning to hold a referendum. The final decision will be made by the voters in the referendum.

The Castle Heights Association will meet at 8 p.m. in the Robert Frost School gym. The association represents the area north of Camp McDonald and west of Mandel Lane.

The area south of Euclid Avenue and west of River Road is represented by the Parkview Association. It will meet at 8 p.m. in Parkview School.

Next Monday the Woodview Association will meet at 8 p.m. in the Forest River Fire Station. The Woodview Association represents a portion of the "new town" area north of Camp McDonald Road and west of River Road.

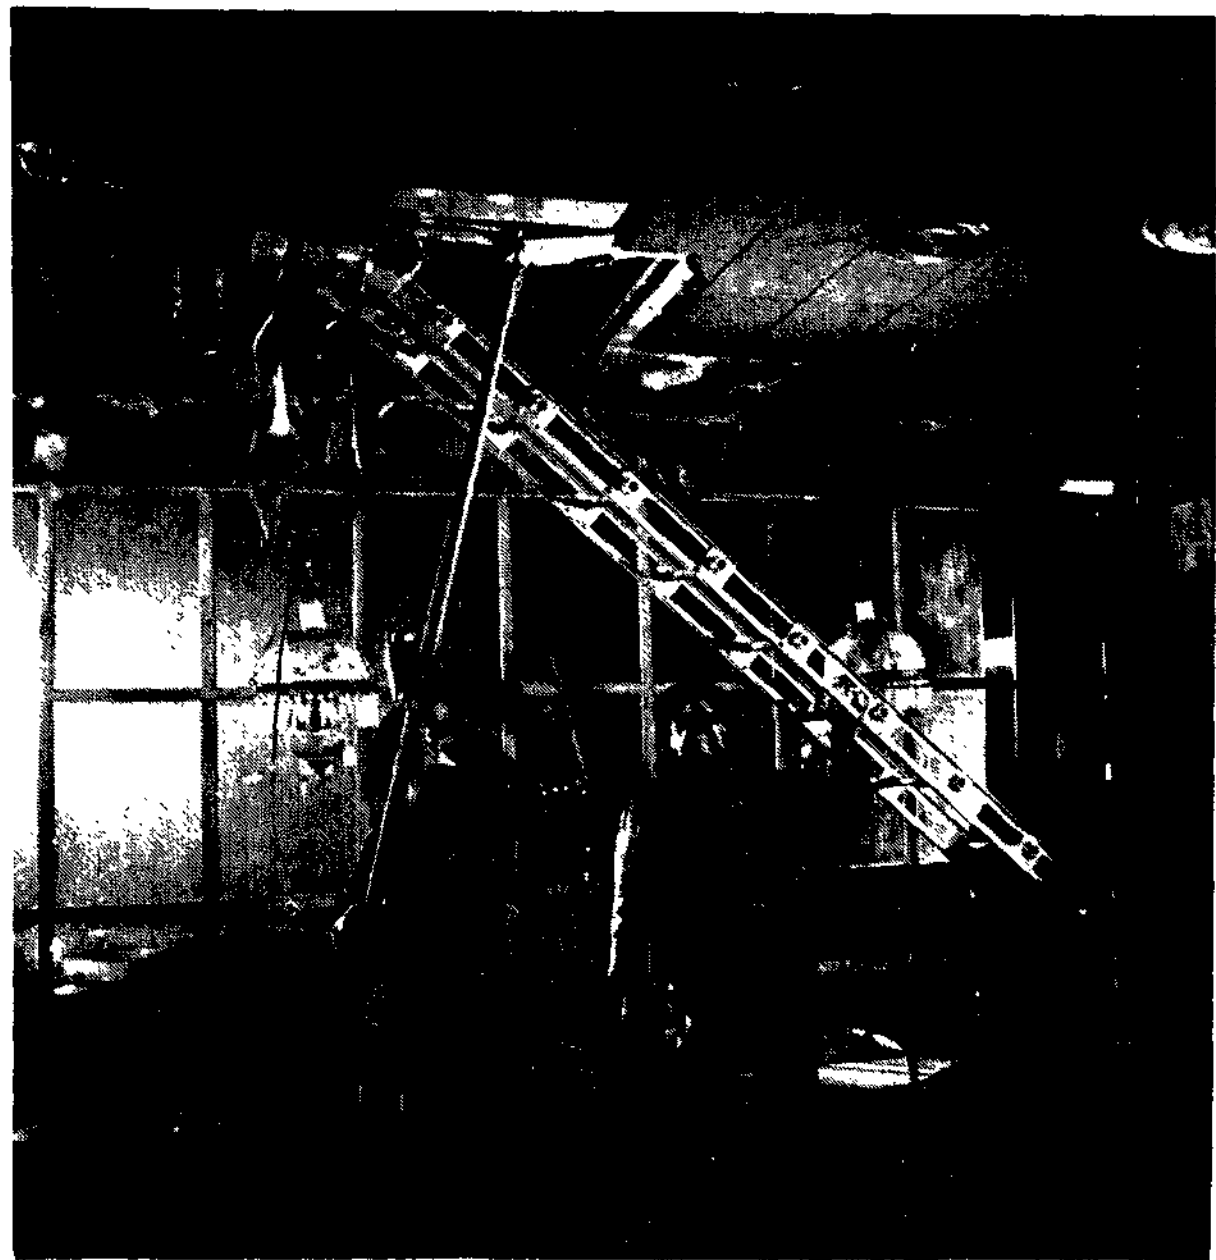

The Rainbow Ridge Association has stated a meeting for 8 p.m. Feb. 4 at the Indian Grove School library. Originally Dale Chapman, association president, had planned to not hold a meeting. However, the association block captains voted unanimously to hold a meeting. The association represents that part of the "new town" area north of Orchard Drive and east of Lee Street.

THE WOLF MANDEL Association has tentatively set a meeting for the week of Feb. 8. According to an association board member, the exact date will depend on when facilities at Frost School are available. The association represents a portion of the "new town" area just east of Wolf Road and north of Camp McDonald Road.

On Feb. 15, the River Trails Association will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. in the River Trails Junior High School. The association represents the "new town" area south of Euclid Avenue and east of the Village of Mount Prospect boundary.

Two associations have already held general meetings. The Prospect Heights Improvement Association, which represents the "old town" area west of Wolf Road, met last week. At that meeting residents voted 57 to 43 to move toward incorporation.

Residents attending a meeting of the Euclid-Lake Association, voted 49 to 1 for annexation to Mount Prospect. The Euclid-Lake Association represents the "new town" area north of Euclid Ave. and west of Wolf Road.

GOOD NEWS department: Four-year-old Cathy Kuhn has recovered from a rare and often fatal kidney disease. After contacting hemolytic uremia in 1968, she was given a 50-50 chance to live. She underwent extensive treatment at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago and since then returned for periodic tests.

According to Cathy's parents, "On her most recent visit doctors were extremely pleased and amazed at Cathy's miraculous recovery. . . . Cathy will be 5 years old next month and is a healthy, active child, thanks to a lot of prayers and a lot of people."

Cathy's fifth birthday should be an especially happy one for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Kuhn, 110 S. Hi-Lust.

A SPECIAL WOMEN'S forum is being held each Wednesday morning at St. Paul Lutheran Church, with Pastor E. A. Zeile conducting the sessions. Subjects for discussion will range from "Making God Real" to contemporary novels. The weekly forums will continue until Easter.

Three Thefts Reported

Three thefts of stereo equipment were reported to Mount Prospect police last weekend.

A stereo tape deck and 15 tapes, valued at about $200, were reportedly stolen Saturday afternoon from an auto parked in the lot at Randhurst Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads. The owner of the car, Delores Wood of Chicago, told police burglars gained entry to her car by breaking a vent window.

Richard Rogowski, of 2630 Windsor Dr., Arlington Heights, also told police burglars broke into his car while it was parked in the lot at Randhurst Shopping Center Saturday night. Rogowski told police a stereo tape deck and tachometer, valued at about $150, were missing from his car.

Police said burglars also gained entry to Rogowski's car by breaking a vent window on the passenger's side of the auto.

A stereo tape deck and tapes, valued at about $125, were stolen Saturday night from an auto parked in the lot at the Mount Prospect Cinema, Rand and Central roads. Roy William of Chicago told police burglars gained entry to his car by breaking a vent window.

An artist from the Fedelle School of Art in Chicago will be the featured artist at the February meeting of the Mount Prospect Art League.

The meeting will be held Feb. 2 in the Chestnut Room of the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 See-Gwon Ave., Mount Prospect. There will be a demonstration of the various styles used in oil and water color painting.

CHA Has Power To Build Low-Cost Housing Here

The Chicago Housing Authority (CHA) can build public housing for low-income families outside of the city as a result of a recent federal court decision, said C. F. Humphrey, executive director of the CHA.

Humphrey said that the court has ruled that for every one unit the authority builds in a black neighborhood, it is required to build three units in white areas.

One-third of the units to be built in white neighborhoods can be built outside the city in the suburbs, he said.

Humphrey on Tuesday addressed the Elk Grove Village Housing Commission which is studying the need for low or moderate-income housing in the community.

HE SAID HE thought the reason behind the court's decision was to encourage white suburbanites to stay where they are while public housing is built in both the city and the suburbs.

Humphrey said the CHA fought the court case for three years and lost. He said public housing is still needed in the inner city but that the court has now set the priorities for the CHA to build in white neighborhoods.

Humphrey has been with the housing authority for 18 years.

The CHA manages 40,000 housing units in the city, 2,400 of which are under a leasing program.

While many of the units are in high rises, he said the authority has 10,000 single-family homes it manages in the city.

Humphrey said if the CHA were to build in Elk Grove Village it would build single-family homes or row houses. However, there is no precedent for the CHA building in the suburbs, he said.

BUILDINGS WOULD not be over three stories and would not contain more than 120 persons at a location, he said.

Persons already living in the area would have priority in becoming residents of the public housing, followed by those who currently live in public housing and those on a waiting list to get into public housing, he said.

"If you want to provide low-income housing you have to go to public housing," he said.

Humphrey said the people who would live in public housing in Elk Grove Village would be those who work in the industrial park or on a highway construction crew.

Public housing will be built where the jobs are and where the people want to live, he said.

Public housing is supported by both a federal and local subsidy, Humphrey said. Rent is determined by the ability to pay with the average rent $68 a month. Rent ranges from $50 a month for a one-bedroom unit to $90 a month for four bedrooms.

In other business, 300 questionnaires for a housing survey will be distributed this week to two plants in the village as part of a testing program of the survey.

The survey is being made of non-residents who work in the village. Questionnaires are expected to be distributed to 35 organizations of varying size once the testing program is completed.

Harper College in Palatine has agreed to act as a consultant for the survey which may determine future housing needs.

4-Town Data Processing Unit Eyed

A feasibility study which could pave the way for a data processing center to be shared by four suburban communities was endorsed by the Mount Prospect Village Board last week.

The data processing center would be shared by Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge.

The board voted unanimously to spend not more than $3,800, the village's share of the estimated cost of determining whether a data processing center could service the four suburban communities.

The total cost of conducting the feasibility study is estimated between $13,800 and $14,300. The cost will be shared equally by the four communities.

Finance Director Richard Jesse told the board the feasibility study will be conducted by Touche, Ross and Co. of Chicago, the lowest bidder on the project. Touche, Ross and Co. is also the auditing firm hired by the village.

The auditing firms of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Co. and Ernst and Ernst also submitted bids on the project. Jesse said Touche Ross and Co. was selected by the finance officers of the four communities because of "the scope of the feasibility study."

Jesse said the records of the finance, police and public works departments could be processed by computer. Water and sewer billing, financial data such as accounts payable and receivable, police records and public works information could be computerized.

"DATA PROCESSING is here, and I think it's here to stay. It's the only way we can operate efficiently. The amount of time saved by data processing will allow departments to utilize personnel in other ways. The savings will be in time, energy and efficiency," Jesse explained.

Jesse said the auditing firm will determine whether it's possible for four communities to share one data processing center. The study will determine if the needs of the four communities will be compatible to data processing on a shared arrangement.

"If it isn't feasible, then Touche, Ross and Co. — at our request — will recommend ways in which each community could benefit from data processing on an individual basis. If the center is feasible, then they'll recommend ways in which to implement a program," he explained.

Jesse said the feasibility study will be conducted pending final approval by the city councils or village boards of the four communities. Jesse said the study could be completed in about 10 weeks.

23 Families 'Evicted' By Fire

by DOUGLAS RAY

"Eighteen years of my sweat is in the basement of that building," said Mrs. Mary Lambides, a member of one of the 23 families left homeless by the apartment building fire at the Meadow Trace complex in Rolling Meadows Saturday.

Mrs. Lambides, who had been a resident of Meadow Trace for four years, said, "I just want to move back to the city of Chicago."

The American Red Cross provided temporary housing at the Holiday Inn in Rolling Meadows for all of the persons who had formerly lived in the fire gutted building. Yesterday was the last day for the 3-day disaster emergency housing and other agencies have stepped in to help the victims of the fire.

Since many of the children living in the complex attend Twinbrook Elementary School, the school's administration is providing help for the youth.

Principal Darrell Little has given clothing left at the school for emergencies to the children. The school's Parent Teacher Association will conduct a collection of used furniture, to give to the families who lost many of their belongings. Clothing, footstuff, furnishings and any other items that may be used by the victims are being sought.

THERE IS A SPECIAL need for baby furniture and clothing, said Mrs. Margaret Ciganek, a resident of the complex who is collecting many items for the homeless. Mrs. Ciganek said that two infants and two expectant mothers were without a home today. Eight of the children are under five years of age, she said.

John Blyth, Meadow Trace manager, said that housing will be provided for all the victims of the fire at other apartments in the area. Many of the homeless will be moved into other apartments at Meadow Trace, Blyth said.

Walter Jakobowski said that he had been told that an apartment for his family would be provided at Meadow Trace for 60 days. Jakobowski, who had been shopping when the fire began Saturday, said he didn't manage to salvage much from the fire. "We only got the television set out," he said.

"I WON'T MOVE back to Meadow Trace," said Miss Susan Elkins, who called herself one of the "lucky ones." "They will have to show me the next building is better," she said.

Miss Elkins said that she had urged management to improve the building that was destroyed by fire.

Most of Miss Elkin's belongings were salvaged when she returned to her apartment Sunday before demolition of the apartment began. "I lost pots and pans, but not much else," she said.

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser,

data processing, the project could be extended to include other communities in the Northwest suburban area. "For all practical purposes, a feasibility study conducted with four communities will be representative of how a data processing center could function with several members," Jesse said.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Persons wishing to help the victims of the fire may contact Mrs. Ciganek at 397-8788 or Twinbrook School at 894-3309.

School Play Slated

This Week At Hersey

The John Hersey High School drama department will present "You Can't Take It With You," a Pulitzer-Prize winning comedy, at the school this Thursday and Friday.

The performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the high school "little theater." Seats may be reserved by calling the school. Tickets cost $1.50 each.

Two separate casts have been directed by Jerry Lowe to perform in the comedy. The assistant director is Joan Sandberg, and Mimi Davis is the technical director. The comedy is about two families.

A 'FOLKSY' TOUCH was added by Col. Sanders at the final meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Caucus Sunday. The tubs were used to collect the ballots which turned down two incumbent village board members and slated four candidates for the board. At the table, are, seated, from left, recording secretary, Esther Ellertson, Al Lindsey, chairman of the candidate recommendation committee, Robert Griffith, caucus secretary; Michael

Murray, caucus vice-chairman; and Harold Klingner, parliamentarian. John Woods, caucus chairman stands at the rostrum. Additional pictures and story are on page 3.

Opposition To Caucus Slate Anticipated

by SANDRA BROWNING

As the dust settled following Sunday's whirlwind meeting of the Arlington Heights Caucus, opposition to the Caucus slate began forming.

The four men selected were backed by groups which have opposed the proposal to develop low and moderate income housing on land adjacent to St. Viator High School.

The slate chosen for Caucus endorsement includes: Kenneth Banet, 2325 South Cedar Glen Dr.; John J. Collins, 1214 S. Ridge Ave.; Eugene Griffin, 603 E. Thorntree Terr.; and Theodore H. Salinsky, 2416 S. Evergreen Ave.

The Caucus candidates are notable in that their average age is 38 1/2 years and their average length of residency in the village is 3 1/2 years. Of the four people who were not slated, their average age was 42 years and average length of residency was 10 years.

A slate of opposition candidates is expected by many acquainted with village politics, with the probability of that slate including at least one if not both of the two incumbents, James T. Ryan and Charles O. Bennett.

BESIDES THE incumbents, the other two persons nominated by the Caucus screening committee were Nathaniel P. Leighton, of 746 S. Mitchell Ave. and Mary C. Schlott, 415 S. Evergreen.

Griffin said yesterday the candidates were looking for a campaign chairman. He said they had a few people in mind for the job.

Griffin called incumbent Ryan and asked him to serve as the campaign chairman, Ryan said. Ryan declined the offer.

Ryan had no comment on whether he would be running on another slate or independently.

Of the four candidates slated, two openly opposed low and moderate income housing in Arlington Heights and a third referred to "spot zoning," as one of the major issues mentioned by anti-Viatorian groups.

The statement made by Griffin, the highest vote-getter of all eight of the candidates, referred to the issue and affirmed an open door policy in the village.

Griffin, who pulled 529 votes said, "No right thinking person can be opposed to decent housing for the poor — but they are the victims of inflation, not of some conspiracy in Arlington Heights."

"IF HOUSING IS to be provided for low-income, moderate-income or high-income groups, it must meet the standards of this town. I will not be pressured by any group — be they civil rights groups, builders or politicians. But I will welcome people of any race, color or creed to Arlington Heights," Griffin said.

Banet faced the question directly and said he was opposed to low and moderate income housing such as the Kenroy proposal for the northside of the village and the Viatorian proposal. He raised questions of school overcrowding and water supply in reference to these projects.

The candidate also warned that the vil-

Her roommate, Miss Kathy Hauser, felt differently about Meadow Trace. "I think it would be nice to move back,"

she said. She had been out of town at the time of the fire. "I'm not afraid to move back to another apartment in the complex," she said.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Kraehnke were one of the families hit hardest by the fire. They had recently purchased furniture for their apartment. "We had no insurance," said Mrs. Kraehnke.

They were in Wisconsin at the time of the fire and could not salvage belongings from their apartment, when they returned. "I don't know what we're going to do," said Kraehnke.

He echoed the sentiments of many of the families that were waiting near the phones at the Holiday Inn Monday to find out where their new homes would be.

Persons wishing to help the victims of the fire may contact Mrs. Ciganek at 397-8768 or Twinbrook School at 894-3309.

Al's Bond Vote Plan -- It Was A Winner Remembered

The large and small events that make up the history of Arlington Heights and the surrounding area have been compiled in a book by longtime resident Daisy Paddock Daniels.

A prepublication sale of the book, to be printed this fall, will begin Monday. Prepublication price will be $5. The book will be sold at the First Arlington National Bank, the Bank and Trust Company of Arlington Heights, the Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and Randhurst.

The sale will continue through Saturday. All proceeds will go to the Arlington Heights Historical Society.

FOR THE REST of this week, the Herald will present a series of the small stories which help give the book the flavor of Arlington Heights past:

Schools have needed to grow almost since the first four-room building was placed on the present site of North School. After the school had been in operation for a while, a bond issue to raise $10,000 for a four-room addition was proposed to the voters.

To ensure passage of the measure, since there was opposition, Al Volk hit on a plan. While voters usually would pick up two ballots, one "yes" and one "no" and go into the voting booth to select one, Volk told everyone there was a shortage of ballots and they could only take one. Since no one wanted to pick up a "no" ballot with all the members of the school board watching, the measure passed overwhelmingly.

Heise Files For Park Race

William G. Heise filed petitions for the Arlington Heights Park Board Saturday, becoming the third candidate for the six-year post on the board.

An assistant vice president for the First National Bank of Chicago, Heise has lived in the village for about 14 years. The Heise family includes the candidate's wife, Regina, and two sons, Gordon, 18, and Wayne, 15. They live at 628 S. Walnut Ave.

Heise, 45, was graduated from the University of Illinois with a bachelor's degree in management and from the School of Banking of the University of Virginia.

The candidate said he had inspected park facilities in Arlington Heights and surrounding towns. "Our village park facilities far surpass the facilities I inspected in adjacent communities," he said.

HEISE SAID he is running for the park board because, "I believe my 18 years of financial experience would add tremendously to... sound fiscal procedures, sound management procedures, priorities in budgeting, investment procedures and income producing possibilities."

The candidate is the chairman of the credit department of the American Institute of Banking, a faculty member of the Northern Michigan Bankers Association at Northern Michigan University and a member of the legislative committee of the Illinois Bankers Association.

Heise is also an "active participant" in the Little League in Arlington Heights.

Heise will face two other men who have already filed for the six-year term on the board. They are Robert Stenzel, 310 S. Dwyer Ave., and Lewis O'Donnell, 815 Kimber Ln. The park election will be held April 6.

Only one man, William Meister of 133 N. Rammer Ave., has filed for the four-year term on the board.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

The Justice Department Monday charged an Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash hoard he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The World

At least 25 persons were reported dead in the crash of a Venezuelan plane in the Andes Mountains. The plane was carrying 47 persons when it went down.

School Walls Appear Safe

Walls similar to the ones that collapsed under the weight of three Arlington High School students last week are apparently safe under normal conditions, High School Dist. 214 learned Monday.

The district received the report on a study of the walls in the wake of an incident that seriously injured three students.

The district's school board, meeting last night in regular session, was scheduled to receive a written copy of the report, which had been made verbally to district officials earlier in the day.

Before the report was made, Supt. Edward Gilbert remarked that he had been concerned by "rumors" during the week-end. He added that the boys' medical condition is improving.

Robert Griesmeyer, supervisor of buildings and grounds for the district, surveyed the school last Thursday with two architects and a structural engineer.

They examined six walls at Prospect High School and three at Arlington High School and reported no cracks in the walls or errors in installation.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS reported that all of the washrooms at Forest View High School had similar retaining walls, but they were not added to a completed building as were the walls at Arlington and Prospect.

The wall that collapsed last Wednesday was installed in 1965, Griesmeyer said, and since then had passed a Life Safety Code inspection required by county school officials.

Griesmeyer said that on the basis of verbal information he had received from the architects and engineer that there was no reason to change the walls at this time.

He added that it appeared to be only a "freak" accident, and that students could exert considerable damaging pressure if they braced themselves against a retaining wall and pushed a stationary object.

A TOTAL OF 13 students were in the restroom during the break between classes when the accident occurred. Five students were injured, two of whom suffered only superficial injuries.

District officials said that the boys, with their backs to it, pushed themselves through the retaining wall. The remaining portions of the wall then fell forward.

One district official said that more than three students may have been involved in pushing against the door, which was blocked on the outside by a board. However, John Rowe, assistant principal at Arlington, reported only three students had pushed the door while the other two boys injured were hit by flying debris.

Student Injured In Wall Mishap 'Much Improved'

Brad Boice, the Arlington High School senior injured as a result of a prank at the school Wednesday, remained in serious condition yesterday at Northwest Community Hospital, but is said to be "much improved."

A spokesman at the hospital said Boice is being treated in the intensive care unit.

The 17-year-old student, of 814 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights received a compressed fracture of the upper spine, four broken ribs and internal injuries when a wall collapsed on him and two other students as they tried to force open a restroom door at the school.

Of the other two students injured, William Horn, 17, of 1345 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights, remained in serious condition while William Kelly, 17, of 751 S. Burton Pl., Arlington Heights remained in satisfactory condition.

Both Horn and Kelly also received compressed fractures of the upper spine in the accident. Horn, who is reported experiencing leg paralysis, at least temporarily, was transferred out of the intensive care unit over the weekend.

Two other students were charged by police with reckless conduct after the accident. Scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 12, they are believed to be responsible for locking the students in the restroom by placing a piece of wood between the door handles.

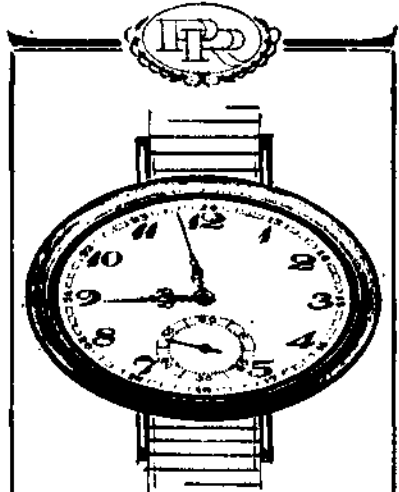

Legion Honors Former Leaders

Former leaders were honored Saturday night at the annual Past Commanders' Dinner at Merle Guilf Post 208 of the Arlington Heights American Legion.

Commander Olaf Kolari presented service awards to 16 former commanders. Among them were Phil Engolking, commander in 1926; Les Griffith, 1938; and Elmer Crane, 1940. The post is a charter post of the Legion, formed in 1919.

Other commanders honored at the dinner have all served since 1950. They included Dwight Guilf, William Griffith, Richard Ketz, Fred Hoff, Dr. Robert Balfour, Robert Bishop, Steve Bratko, and Don Wheeler, all of Arlington Heights; Don Giese, Rolling Meadows; Bill Green, Bensenville; Robert Brown, Park Ridge; Warren Powers, Wilmette; and Alex Schanmier of Palatine.

Emil Eck, commander of Des Plaines Post 690, was honorary guest. He is also commander of the 9th District, which includes 41 posts in northwest Chicago and the Northwest suburbs.

Fiedler Conducts At Hersey Tonight

The doors at John Hersey High School will open at 6:30 tonight for the annual Pope Concert. Directing the school's bands in the performance will be Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The performance begins at 8 p.m. at the school, located at 1900 E. Thomas in Arlington Heights. School officials said Friday a small number of tickets would be on sale at the door tonight. Most tickets have already been sold. There are no reserved seats for the performance.

Tonight's concert will open with the stage band playing jazz and rock tunes. Other selections to be played include "Festive Overture" by Dimitri Shostakovich; "American Salute," by Morton Gould; and the finale from the "New World Symphony," by Antonin Dvorak. The symphonic winds will also play "America the Beautiful" and "Hello Dolly."

Leroy Anderson's "Serenata" will be played by the concert band. Other selections to be performed by the concert band include "California Dreamin'," Monday, Monday," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "West Side Story."

FIEDLER WAS scheduled to arrive for the performance yesterday afternoon. A rehearsal with the school's concert and symphonic bands was set for last night. Following this a reception for Fiedler and band members was to be held.

At noon today a luncheon will be held in Fiedler's honor at the Arlington Park Towers where he is staying. During the luncheon, Jack Walsh, Arlington Heights village president, is scheduled to present a fire hat to Fiedler, making him an honorary member of the Arlington Heights Fire Department.

This afternoon the final rehearsal with the band members will be held. Following tonight's concert a small reception for Fiedler will be held, with a limited number of invited guests.

MONEY TALKS

There are rewards for smart money management

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Every family is a business. It has a product to offer, usually the services of the breadwinner. It has its officers (occasionally with shifting roles and rival authority of the partners) and its "employees," whose youthful productivity sometimes leaves much to be desired.

It has incomes and expenditures, overhead, invested and working capital, and, hopefully, surplus.

Unfortunately, however, it lacks the professional services of accountants and economic analysts, efficiency experts and investment officers.

Families therefore tend to be slovenly managed businesses. If their methods had to be as competitive as those of the business world in order to keep going, there would be a horrendous record of family bankruptcies.

We do not propose that families should adopt the rigorous standards of financial management that are synonymous with modern business. But lessons can be learned that would help families to get along better and to make their money go further.

There are mental, physical, and spiritual rewards as well as financial ones in smart money management. Money worries are most often the cause of family bickering and unhappiness. A national magazine survey shows that the typical married family in this country, whether it is in the low, middle, or high income bracket, most frequently quarrels about money.

Disregard of ability to pay for what the family terms its needs is often at the root of the problem. "Young people today," says San Francisco psychiatrist Dr. Alfred Auerback, "assume they should have a car, a television set, nice clothes, and the other luxuries merely for the asking."

In predicating their happiness upon such possessions, they ironically set the stage for unhappiness. People who count their pleasures in purchases are only too eager, Time Magazine has noted, to adopt the ingenious forms of credit that have been invented.

"The Good Time Charlies and other merchants of debt do not talk too freely about the true cost of all this credit," Time points out, "and too many borrowers have no idea what they are really getting into."

There is widespread concern among families that they are guilty of loose spending habits and that their financial brinkmanship may be getting them into trouble.

For them we have four common-sense recommendations of qualified counselors that will be presented in succeeding articles.

Opposition To Caucus Slate Anticipated

lage would have to work to prevent the single family nature changing to predominance of multi-family homes. Banet was the number two vote-getter, with a total of 483.

As his number one goal, Salinsky listed keeping Arlington Heights "primarily a residential community of single family character." The candidate received 462 votes.

Salinsky also stated that in light of his number one goal, "the proposal to build low income housing in Arlington Heights in the location presently specified, is inconsistent with the long-standing views, goals, plans and desires of the citizens of this community. This proposal is also inconsistent with the statement of purpose of this Arlington Heights Caucus." Salinsky did not make it clear which proposal, Kenroy or Viator, he was referring to.

COLLINS STATED in his presentation that the present utility tax was a "usury" tax. That candidate, who received 415 votes, said he wanted planning to help make "spot zoning" disappear from the village. He also urged the forming of short-term task forces to study problems rather than long-term committees.

Ryan said that "it would be morally wrong to pre-comment" until he had heard evidence presented on the proposals for low and moderate income housing. Ryan made the best showing of the four losing candidates, receiving 307 votes.

Incumbent Bennett, who received 245 votes, stated that he had fulfilled his past campaign promises. Bennett did not comment specifically on the low and moderate income housing proposals.

"I have invested 20 years in helping to define who we are and what we are as a community. Out of a very real concern for its future, I offer you this experience, continuity and historical perspective with which to meet the greatest challenge of change the character of our community has ever had to face," Bennett said.

PTA Notes

WESTGATE-DWYER SCHOOL — Parents will be able to present their problems to a school psychologist Wednesday afternoon at the school.

The program, the second of three workshops being sponsored by the PTA, will be held in Room 8 of Dwyer School from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Charles Smith, school psychologist, will lead the discussion.

As it began, the Arlington Heights Village Caucus seemed like a cross between a church social and college registration.

By the time it ended, just two hours later, two incumbent village board members had been turned away and the bitterness of defeat hung in the air amid the smiling enthusiasm of the winners.

As voters first arrived in the early afternoon, stepping into Grace Gym of Arlington High School out of the warm winter sun, they greeted old friends and lined up to register under signs dividing them alphabetically.

One woman, who stopped four times between the door and her registration line, shook her head and laughed. "This is the place to meet people you haven't seen for five years," she said.

Later, as the meeting broke up another woman, long active in the Caucus, shook her head grimly. "When I think of how the caucus used to think it was organized, I feel like we've been hit by a steamroller."

Between the two women was a meeting which brought basic divisions into sharp focus.

Michael Murray, vice-chairman of the Caucus and president of the Greater Eastwood Homeowners Association, a leader in the fight against low and moderate income housing on the Viatorian land, hurried around the hall, smiling, shaking hands with friends and neighbors and checking last minute details.

EUGENE BARNES, official time-keeper for the candidate speeches, showed all candidates how his wonderful podium, with green light and flashing white light could cut them off after exactly four minutes.

A row of Kentucky Fried Chicken barrels lined the stage, waiting for ballots to be collected. "It gives a folksy touch," one man remarked.

When the meeting got under way, for the first time in memory no candidates appeared from the floor. The field was limited to the eight recommended by the candidate screening committee.

And the winners' speeches focused on the issue.

Kenneth Banet, an eventual winner, said he opposed the proposed development on the Viatorian land.

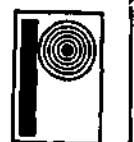

Eugene Griffin, another winner, said the village should not upset its planning to provide low-income housing, even though all persons should be welcome. "I will not be cowed by power groups — be they civil rights groups, builders or politicians," he promised the crowd.

AND INCUMBENT James Ryan told of a conversation he had overheard in the barber shop in which a man said "Jim Ryan is going to be dumped."

"I don't know if that man will vote for me today," Ryan said, "but if he doesn't I hope he knows why."

And then it was over — quickly. Two incumbents were dropped and all who

Coroner's Inquest Set In Girl's Death

A Cook County coroner's inquest will be held sometime this week into the death of a nine-year-old Wood Dale girl.

Dana Bonior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bonior, died Sunday afternoon after her sled collided with a boy standing at the base of the River Trails Park District sled hill in Prospect Heights. The hill is located just north of Woodland Trails Park near Wolf Road and Euclid Avenue.

Dana was pronounced dead at the Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines at 3:40 p.m., approximately one hour after the accident occurred. According to a hospital spokesman, Dana was attended by a team of five physicians before she died of a skull fracture and severe hemorrhaging.

The inquest had been scheduled for today; however, it was postponed until later in the week by the coroner's office. A funeral mass for the girl is set for 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Victor Catholic Church in Calumet City. She will be buried at Holy Cross Cemetery in Calumet City.

Detective J. W. Elza of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said his department was notified of the accident by personnel at Holy Family Hospital. He said Dana was driven to the hospital by private residents.

THE COUNTY police have no information about the condition of the boy who was hit by Dana's sled. Reportedly, Dana's seven-year-old brother was also on the sled. However, the police could not verify it.

This is the first death that has occurred as a result of recreational activity on park district property since the district was formed in 1966, according to Marvin Weiss, park director.

"We have a good sled hill," said Weiss, "and we have taken precautions to insure the safety of sledders." A wire fence has been installed along both sides of the sled hill. Signs are posted at the bottom of the hill which direct people to walk to the outside of the fence and out of the sled area.

Boards have been attached to the inside of the fence. And steps lead to the top of the hill along the outside of the fence, according to Weiss.

However, the park district has no set hours for supervision at the sled hill. Weiss said there were no supervisors at the sled hill at the time of the accident.

"It is our policy to supervise district recreational activities during periods of peak use," said Weiss. "We have a lot of part-time help who we shift to different activities, according to weather conditions."

"WE SUPERVISED the sled hill from 1 to 5 p.m. both Friday and Saturday last weekend," said Weiss. "However, on Sunday the snow began to melt, creating several mud spots on the hill."

At the time of the accident, several park district supervisors, park board members and district administrators were at the nearby Woodland Trails Park. The district personnel were attending the annual district "Ice Carnival."

The sled hill is not visible from the ice rinks, bath house and swimming pool at Woodland Trails. According to Weiss, a child ran over to Woodland Trails to tell them an accident had occurred. "I sent over four boys to the sled hill, but by the time they got there the injured child had been taken to the hospital."

The district policy in the case of accident is to administer first aid and then call the parents, said Weiss. "In the case of a more serious accident we take the injured person directly to the hospital."

Watch, Cash Stolen From Locker Room

A watch valued at $72 and $18 in cash were reported stolen Saturday morning from the locker room of the Des Plaines YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., according to Des Plaines police.

Steven Hoglund, 515 S. Donald, Arlington Heights, told police he locked the watch and cash in a locker about 10:30 a.m. and found them missing when he returned a short time later.

Car Totaled; Driver OK

An Arlington Heights woman escaped injury Sunday night when she got out of her car moments before it was demolished by a Chicago and North Western Railway train.

Arlington Heights police said the driver of the car, Aleda S. Kresge, 47, of 10 N. Pine St., Arlington Heights, saw the train approaching and left the vehicle before it was struck by the southeast bound train.

Mrs. Kresge reportedly told the police that she had turned onto westbound Euclid Street from Northwest Highway, left the roadway and got stuck in a ditch. The woman said she tried several times unsuccessfully to free the car before she saw the train.

Ronald Schuetz, 52, the train's engineer, said he saw the car on the tracks and applied the brakes, but could not stop in time to avoid striking the car.

The car was demolished in the accident.

Mrs. Kresge was charged by police with failure to have her vehicle under control. She is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court Feb. 24.

Park Dist. Offers Junior Life Saving

A free course in Red Cross Junior Life Saving sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District will begin Feb. 13 and continue until April 7.

Classes will meet at Olympic Park Pool, 680 N. Ridge Ave., from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturdays. All participants must be 11 years old or have completed the fifth grade and achieved the "swimmers" level in order to qualify.

All interested residents should register at the park district's administration office in Olympic Park or call the offices at 253-0820. There will be no fee charged for the class.

Another Park Referendum Is Possible

Although a $1,435,000 Des Plaines Park District bond referendum was defeated Saturday by a 7 to 1 margin there is still a possibility residents will be faced with another referendum in the near future.

According to Bob Kunkel, director of parks and recreation, he has "good ideas for a possible referendum but they're still in the talking stage."

Kunkel said there are things the park district would like to do but there is no money to do it. "Additional facilities and renovation of facilities is a possibility but that kind of money can't be programmed into a park district budget."

Kunkel said that the park district will continue with what they are doing now. "We're planning new programs for spring," he said, "but we would have done that in any case. We will re-evaluate our programs and if we find that we're short on facilities we might have to ask groups who are not 100 per cent Des Plaines residents to move next fall."

FRED ARNDT, park board president, said he wouldn't even attempt another referendum. "The public has spoken and the majority said they do not want more taxes."

Arndt added that he thinks the park district should use school facilities. "The schools have the room and I'm sure we could use it."

Arndt said that in all fairness the schools were available before the referendum for the sports complex was proposed. "But if we were in to build," he concluded, "it would not have cost much more to build other facilities along with an ice rink."

The bond referendum was for a sports complex which would have included a professional hockey-sized indoor ice-skating rink, a large multi-purpose gymnasium and four smaller meeting rooms.

Middleton Hearing Set Today

Dr. James Middleton, a Des Plaines area physician charged by Cook County Sheriff's Police with deviate sexual assault, is scheduled to appear in Niles Circuit Court this morning in a pre-trial hearing.

Middleton's attorney, Warren Carey, was granted a continuance Jan. 12 until today after Judge George Zimmerman ordered State's Attorney Daniel Miroballi to supply Carey with a list of witnesses for the prosecution.

Zimmerman also ordered that the state let Carey examine physical evidence seized by the sheriff's police at the time of the doctor's arrest in his office.

Dr. Middleton was arrested in a raid on his office at 989 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines last Dec. 1 by sheriff's police. They found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photographs, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation.

THE RAID came after a two month investigation by sheriff's police in which a number of his women patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Dr. Middleton was also charged by police with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

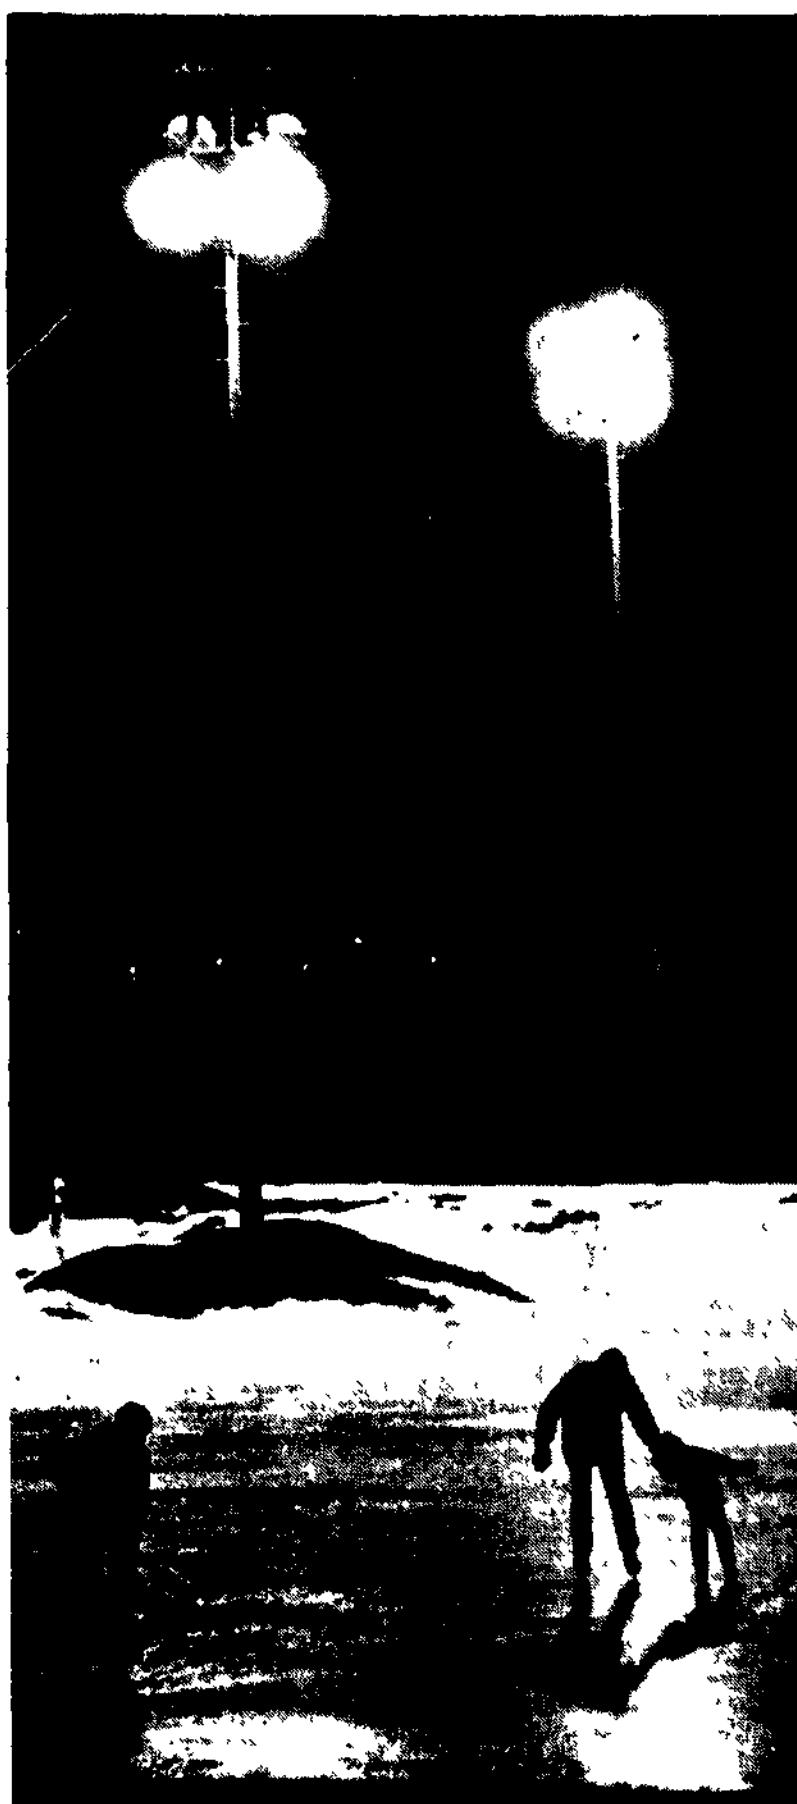

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education has also charged Middleton with unethical practice and deception in applying for his Illinois medical license.

According to the department's attorney, Edward Price, Dr. Middleton has filed an answer denying all three charges placed against him.

He is charged with three violations of the Illinois Medical Practice Act. They are: the charge that Dr. Middleton's medical license was revoked in a sister state; and the charge that Dr. Middleton engaged in the employment of fraud and deception in applying for or securing a license certificate for practicing the treatment of human ailments in the State of Illinois.

THE THIRD violation, according to Price, is that Dr. Middleton "engaged in dishonorable, unethical and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Dr. Middleton has been scheduled to appear before a medical examining committee Feb. 4 in the State of Illinois Building to respond to the state's allegations.

Budget To Allow For Environment Dept.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel yesterday said he will include some funds for a city environment department in the proposed 1971 budget.

Such a department would be responsible for enforcing the city's air pollution ordinance and possibly other sanitation or environmental laws, Behrel said. The mayor said he could not estimate how much money would be allocated for the department.

"Between now and the time the budget goes to the city council, we will ask for some figure," Behrel said at his weekly press conference.

The mayor had earlier indicated that an environment department or funds for an air pollution control officer would probably be casualties of a tight budget for fiscal 1971.

The city building department currently is responsible for enforcing air pollution laws. But because it has no one trained in the field of pollution control, the department has not been able to enforce those regulations.

BEHREL SAID he is not certain how a city environment department would be set up, although he mentioned the possibility of city sanitarians being switched from the health department to the new department when it is established.

The mayor said he plans to "do some leg work" to determine how other suburbs are fighting pollution and where pollution control officers would be placed in the city administration.

"We recognize that we're going to have to get into this problem," he said.

The city's tentative budget, given to the city council in December, has been held up by the absence of a salary agreement between city officials and unions representing police patrolmen, firefighters and public works employees.

The budget, which could run to more than $8 million compared to $7.4 million last year, did not contain any appropriation for an environment department when presented to the city council.

Chic Thief Hits Doggie Salon...

It may have been a fashionable girl friend or a kennel full of poodles that made him do it. There had to be some reason why a burglar would want 16 dog collars.

That's all that was taken one night last week, Des Plaines police reported, when the Dog Charm Beauty Salon, 1674 River Rd., was burglarized.

The owner of the canine beauty parlor told police that the dog collars came in several different pastel shades, some with rows of rhinestones, and were worth more than $50. Police said the burglar apparently used a crow bar to break into the shop's back door.

"Dog collars," which are worn around the neck by people too, became a fashionable women's clothing accessory last year.

$500 Donated To Group

The Des Plaines Military Commemorative Committee recently accepted a $500 donation from the Veterans of Foreign Wars Des Plaines Post 2992.

The money will be used to help finance a memorial to local residents who have died while in military service. The memorial, which will cost $60,000, is planned for the northwest corner of Lake Park, Howard and Lee streets, on land donated by the Des Plaines Park District.

In a statement released this week, Arthur Hockett, memorial committee chairman, said his group has collected only about one-tenth of the money needed for construction of the memorial.

HOCKETT ALSO announced formation of five subcommittees. Marshall McClure, 233 Cumberland Pkwy., will head the construction, coordination and completion subcommittee; and Carol Stehl, 455 Bellare Ave., will chair the honors, deed and qualifications subcommittee. Hockett said.

Don Vance, 1719 Azalea, Mount Prospect, was named to head the fund raising subcommittee; Alan Koch, 1866 Sycamore St., is chairman of the public relations subcommittee; and Robert Kunkel, 749 Pearson St., will direct the special activities subcommittee.

Hockett said the committee is seeking names of local residents who have given their lives in military service and asked anyone with information to contact the group at 748 Pearson, headquarters of the Des Plaines Park District.

He said the committee's next meeting will be 8 p.m. Feb. 10 in the Des Plaines American Legion Hall, Golf and E. River roads.

Three File Council Petitions

Two more incumbents and another challenger have filed nominating petitions for the April 20 aldermanic elections in Des Plaines.

Ald Robert Hinde and Ald Morgan O'Brien, both of the fourth ward, officially entered the city council race Monday for the two open seats in their ward. Arthur Kowalewski, 559 Waikiki Dr., who will challenge Ald. John Seitz (7th), filed his nominating papers late Friday.

So far, 10 men, including seven incumbents, have turned in petitions for nine of the council's 16 seats. Deadline for filing is Feb. 25.

Hinde, who is seeking his second term on the city council, is associated with a local carpeting and floor covering store. O'Brien, former president of the Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Industry and a local florist, will try for his first full term.

O'Brien was appointed to the council last summer after the death of Ald. Reuel Figard (4th), and will be running for a two-year term. Hinde is trying for a four-year term.

Kowalewski, who is opposing Seitz' bid for a second term on the council, is a business representative for a painters union local and a member of the Des Plaines Terrace Civic Assn.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

A jury in Los Angeles convicted Charles Manson and three female co-defendants of first degree murder in the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other victims. The jury will begin deliberations Thursday on whether those convicted should get the death penalty or life imprisonment.

The 113,000-member Sierra Club attacked as dismal and lackluster the conservation record of Interior Secretary-designate Rogers C. B. Morton. But Morton was expected to get reasonably fast approval from the Senate Interior Committee.

The Justice Department Monday charged an Illinois real estate firm with helping to perpetuate racially segregated residential pattern in Chicago's southern suburbs.

Homestead Realty Inc., was charged in a civil suit of violating the 1968 Fair Housing Act.

The War

Heavy fighting was reported between Laotian soldiers and 1,500 North Vietnamese troops on the Plain of Jars in Laos. In Cambodia, Communist troops were harassing government-held positions just outside Phnom Penh.

The State

Vice President Spiro Agnew will be in Springfield Feb. 4 and 5 to meet with state officials and legislative leaders. Pres. Nixon's revenue-sharing proposal is expected to be high on the agenda.

The private secretary and chief administrative aide of the late Paul Powell were charged with illegally transferring part of the cash board he left behind. Atty. Gen. William Scott filed the civil charges in Johnson County Circuit Court.

The number of committees serving the Illinois Senate was reduced from 21 to 12. Chairmanships of all the key committees were awarded to members of Chicago Mayor Daley's Democratic organization.

The World

At least 25 persons were reported dead in the crash of a Venezuelan plane in the Andes Mountains. The plane was carrying 47 persons when it went down.

Dorothy Oliver

Three different time, Saturday I drove up to South Park Field house to cast my vote on the park district sports complex referendum. Finally, on the third try I found a place to park in the jammed parking lot. I've voted in every election or referendum in Des Plaines since I've moved here and have never seen anything like Saturday.

South Park had the highest voter turnout of the polling places. I stood in a line with about 100 others waiting for my turn. It had been crowded like that since around 9:30 that morning. This was about 2 p.m.

It was amazing. I remember all too well working as an election judge for the park district. Those were long days. We were over there by 5:30 a.m. (those were the only two times in my life I was ever up at 4:30 a.m.) and didn't get home until around 9 p.m.

WHAT MADE THE DAY so very long was that there was practically nothing to do. Every so often someone would walk through the door to vote — it was practically cause for celebration. "Voter Apathy" was the mood of the day.

Saturday's Judges at South Park were busy beyond their wildest expectations. Apathy was replaced with interest.

I'm a great eavesdropper in public places and the wait in line at the polling place afforded me a good opportunity. There was a "con" fellow in the other line bemoaning his high taxes in a loud voice.

"Some people just can't stand to part with a buck," grumbled the "pro" lady behind me. "He's the same guy who will be complaining because there's nothing for his kids to do in town."

A man wearing a yachting cap was further up the line. "You can forget about sailing on Opeka if this things gets put up," he said to the man in back of him.

man replied, dryly. There was a lot of grumbling that day.

THERE ARE ALWAYS a certain amount of spoiled ballots in any election. It is almost unbelievable that anyone could spoil one of the referendum ballots when the only task was to put an "X" in the yes or no box.

We scream at our kids for not following directions and yet here is the "over 21" crowd fouling up a simple ballot. Directions at the top of the ballot tell you to place a cross (X) in the box. In each of the booths was a card showing you which marks will be counted and which won't.

Inevitably there were those who marked their ballots with a check or wrote "no" or "yes" in the appropriate boxes. A couple people checked one box, changed their minds, crossed out their original decision, and marked the other box.

What a waste of time and effort to have made it to the polls and then ruined your ballot. Bob Kunkel, Director of Parks and Recreation, noted that if you spoil a ballot you can ask the judges for another. The Park District is lenient in this respect (you don't have this luxury in a political election) because they want everyone to be able to vote, Kunkel said.

Happy Birthday to the Des Plaines Kiwanis Club on its 56th birthday celebrated Jan. 21.

Juckett Introduces 2 Bills

Two bills that would end tax collection commissions in Cook County have been introduced in the General Assembly by State Rep. Robert S. Juckett (R. Park Ridge).

In a statement released by his office, Juckett said the bills "would settle the commission question once and for all" by taking away a 1½ per cent commission on taxes collected by the county treasurer.

Under the Juckett bills, statutory provisions would also be eliminated for suburban township tax commissions, which were held unconstitutional last year by the Illinois Supreme Court, depriving suburban townships of a major source of revenue.

The high court upheld a circuit court ruling which ordered an end to township commissions in Cook County, forcing the county treasurer to collect all taxes. Although the two per cent township commission on taxes was abolished, the county treasurer has been allowed to retain a 1½ per cent commission, which is turned over to the county general fund.

"IF IT IS WRONG for the town collector to keep a percentage of funds levied for other taxing bodies, then it's wrong too for the county treasurer," said Juckett.

Juckett's bills would put township collector's back in business, with their expenses being paid out of general township funds. The county treasurer's expenses would be financed through the county general fund.

In holding township commissions unconstitutional late in 1969, Circuit Court Judge Donald J. O'Brien said townships were using taxes levied by area-wide government agencies solely for the benefit of township residents.

This discriminated against Chicago residents because the commissions on the county for the benefit of both Chicago by the county treasurer, were used by the county for the benefit of both Chicago and suburban residents.

Juckett has been an outspoken critic of O'Brien's decision which forced most of the Republican-controlled townships to levy a property tax to support their operations.

"THE TOWNSHIPS have more or less accepted the fact that from now on they won't be able to use commission money. I say what's right for the townships is right for the county," Juckett said in the statement.

He said the county treasurer's 1½ per cent commission brings in $13 million from taxes collected in suburban areas. "We'd rather keep that money in the suburbs for the governments levying it," he said.

"Now that the court has spoken,"

Juckett said, "it's clear that we would be far better off by keeping 100 per cent of the local levies than by giving $13 million to the county's major political machine."

Around The House

By Marion Faro

A young agricultural graduate looked over a farmer's field and criticized his method of cultivation.

"Why, I'd be surprised if you get ten tons of beets from this field," he said.

"So would I," the farmer replied. "That's a potato field."

A tourist aboard a transatlantic liner was very curious about the bells that rang at frequent intervals. As the bells rang again, the deck steward passed the passenger. "Pardon me, steward," the man said, "will you tell me what those bells are for?"

"Of course, sir," the steward said, "they are used to tell the time."

"Thank you," said the man. "Oh, by the way, can you tell me what time it is now?"

"I'm sorry," the steward replied, "but my watch is out of order."

"SYLVESTER AND THE Magic Pebble" a children's book by William Steig, has been criticized by an official of the Illinois Police Association because policemen are portrayed as pigs in the book. Educators have defended the book, pointing out that other characters, including one pictured above, also are pigs. The educators point out that all the characters in the book are animals, that the policemen appear only once and that police are not criticized in the text. The book is copyrighted

by Steig and published by Windmill Books/Simon and Schuster. "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble" won the 1969 Caldecott Medal of the American Library Association for the best illustrations in a children's book.

Sylvester And His Pebble Stir Up Controversy

by CYNTHIA TIVERS

A children's book, "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble," has been causing quite a stir among adults.

The book written by William Steig, and published in 1969, was the winner of the 1969 Caldecott Medal of the American Library Association for the best illustrations in a children's book. The book has been removed from the Des Plaines School Dist. 62 library shelves.

Man Charged With Illegal Weapon Use

An Aurora man was charged with illegal use of a weapon early Saturday by Des Plaines police when a .38 caliber pistol allegedly was found in the glove compartment of his car.

According to police, the man Neri Garcia, 34, of 415 N. Harrison, Aurora, was found walking on the sidewalk in front of Sim's Bowl and Lounge, 1555 Ellinwood St., shortly after midnight Saturday.

Questioned by police, Garcia said he was unable to find his car, police said. While being taken to the police station by patrolman Paul Giovannoni, Garcia spotted his car near Lee Street and Park Lane.

When Garcia reached into the auto's glove compartment to get his driver's license, police said, Giovannoni saw the pistol and arrested him.

Garcia was also charged with public intoxication and will appear in Des Plaines court Feb. 26.

The book tells the story of a donkey who turns into a rock. All the characters in the book are portrayed as animals. And that's where the "problem" comes in.

Sylvester's parents, worried about their missing son, ask every one for help in locating him. They go to the police — illustrated as pigs — and solicit their help too. It's because the police are illustrated as pigs that the controversy over the book started.

"Our decision to remove it (the book) from the shelf," said Mrs. Marjorie Williams, Dist. 62 library co-ordinator, "was based solely on the one illustration showing the pig in a policeman's uniform. I felt the illustration untimely and because of this, in poor taste. There was no pressure involved in our decision."

Mrs. Williams explained why she thought the book untimely. "It was published after the Chicago demonstrations (during the Democratic national convention in 1968) and the children have been exposed to the name calling — that is, policemen as pigs — on television a great deal. I feel the book could contribute to association of policemen as pigs."

Mrs. Williams said the book was ordered last year after a review of the book was given in the American Library Association "Booklist." "All the books on the list are highly recommended," she added.

She said the story itself is a little animal story and nothing in the book requires censorship. "It's a simple book aimed at primary grade children, five to eight years old. It's really just a nice little animal story — but at the present time it's in poor taste."

She concluded by saying that the district's curriculum calls for placing community helpers in a good light. "We show illustrations of policemen as friends and we can't decide whether the child will decide to see police as friends or pigs."

Victor Witt, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Police Association, criticized the book to IPA members and suggested they ask public and school libraries to remove the book.

(The book is still being circulated by the Des Plaines public library).

Witt said he did not object to the book itself but rather to the one illustration that depicts police as pigs.

Some Des Plaines policemen do not agree with the criticism of the picture. Lt. Mike Clark said the picture doesn't disturb him in the least. "They've portrayed other people as animals in the book. People are trying to read in the book a conspiracy to influence young children."

"If they want to take the book off the shelves," he continued, "then maybe we had better take TV away too."

Lt. James Roel agreed that the book is not harmful. "I'd have to see the whole book to see the broad intent of the artist and author," he said. "But there's animals all over the book — nothing wrong with that."

Church Youth Set Weekend Outing

Youth, the church, and the "Spirit of '71" will be the theme Feb. 5 through 7, for members of the youth groups at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Lee and Thacker.

About 40 teenagers will spend a weekend of activities and discussion at the Camp Augustana in Lake Geneva, Wis., according to the Rev. Daniel Zielske, associate pastor at Immanuel.

The basic idea behind the youth retreat, according to Zielske, is to give the teenagers a chance to get to know each other and to discuss matters of vital interest about the Lutheran church.

According to one of the retreat organizers, Jill Boechenbauer, a Maine West high school junior, the teenagers "will be taking a look at the church to see what they can do for it, and how they can become involved."

Jill said that youths could be involved in more social projects, including charity work, and in learning more about the problems of less fortunate people.

They also could get more involved in the activities at Immanuel she said, including attendance of the church's Board of Elders meetings.

Jill said that youth activities at the church are now planned by the youths themselves.

The weekend retreat will begin Friday night when the youths will leave by bus for Wisconsin, she said. The first activity will be held Saturday morning, when four skits will be performed.

These skits, themes concerning youth participation representation and services, have been organized by Shirley Frank, 682 Laurel, skit committee chairman.

AFTER THE SKITS, the teens will form small discussion groups. That night, the teens will try to express their feelings on youth services and the church through art and poetry, Jill said.

A special church service will be performed at 11:30 p.m. Saturday night. This service, "Joy," was written by Jill, and another member of the group, Carla Krebs.

Joy was picked as a theme, Jill said, because "we think participation in the church should be a joyful experience, and we hope to inspire more to get involved."

Other activities of the youth groups at the church have included a glass drive,

Charity Basketball Game Slated Friday

A charity basketball game will be held this Friday at 7:30 p.m. between the Maine Township Teen-age Democrats and the Teen-age Republicans.

Proceeds of the basketball game, to be held at the Iroquois Junior High School gym, 1836 E. Touhy Ave., will go to the Maine Township Mental Health Association, 1032 Lee St., Des Plaines.

Playing for the GOP will be Doug Lauffenburger, John Benke, Mark Dumbrowski, Don Rosedale, Mark Kaneen, Dave Bush, Eric Schmitz and Mike Taylor.

For the Democrats will be Chris DeVoney, Gary Blume, Roy Chapman, Rusty Korynski, Tom Lanctot, Bill Dickens, Jay Le Jone, and Mike Goeress.

Admission is $1 per person.

Two To Resign From Youth Commission

Two officers of the Des Plaines Youth Commission will resign tonight.

The Rev. Ernest Grant, commission chairman, and Mrs. Charlene Baron, commission secretary, will submit their formal resignations tonight after a meeting of the Youth Commission.

Mayor Herbert Behrel told the Herald/Day that a new commission chairman will be appointed soon.

Rev. Grant, of the First Congregational Church, will resign, he said, because of increased pastoral duties. Mrs. Baron is moving with her family to California for business reasons.

The Way We See It

Nixon Emphasis Turns to Nation

Our reaction to President Nixon's State of the Union message Friday is a mixture of guarded optimism and skepticism.

We are optimistic because the President's "new American revolution" concentrates on domestic issues rather than the woes of foreign policy. This is an encouraging sign. It is here, at home, where our most serious problems now are: crime, racial strife and distrust, a sagging economy, a dying environment.

When the chips are down and a decision must be made on national priorities, the health, welfare and care of our own country must come before that of others.

It is reassuring, therefore, that the President is putting greater emphasis on problems at home. To be sure, our foreign concerns cannot be minimized. But the President's emphasis on domestic issues in his most important message of the year to Congress indicates these concerns will enjoy the limelight during the next two years of the Nixon administration.

Our skepticism is prompted by the President's own decision not to relate specific details of his six major goals. He did indicate that each of his plans would be outlined in-depth in separate messages to the Congress, and their merits can be judged at that time.

We are particularly pleased with the President's concern for guaranteed medical care for all families, regardless of ability or inability to pay. In a nation as prosperous as ours, it is distressing that so many are unable to enjoy good health because the cost of good health has risen so much.

His pledge to ask Congress to appropriate $100 million to launch an intensive campaign to find the causes and cure of cancer is, on a smaller scale, similar to the national goal set by President Kennedy to have the nation put a man on the moon during the decade of the 1960s. There is no reason to think that a nation that met the Kennedy goal, which seemed so unbelievable at the time, cannot also meet the Nixon goal. Medical technology in this country should be able to accomplish anything and the President's commitment to a cure for cancer is the first necessary step toward that desirable goal.

We also agree with the President's concern for welfare reform. The nation cannot turn a cold shoulder on its less fortunate citizens, but it also must not make welfare more attractive than employment. The Congress already has indicated that welfare revisions must contain both adequate care for the needy but also incentives to work.

The President's proposal to reorganize the structure of the federal government, specifically the Cabinet, does not seem as significant as it might sound. The key to a well-functioning government structure lies in the men holding the positions, not in the titles. However, since the Cabinet is the policy-making arm of the executive branch and must work closely with the President in determining the nation's directions, it should be organized in a way which the President believes would be most effective.

In short, we are encouraged by the President's message. We will await with interest the details as he relates them to Congress. We hope his concern in such vital areas is reflected by the Congress.

City Beat

Another Apartment Fire

by MARTHA KOPER

And the legend of Rolling Meadows apartment buildings continues.

The city is gaining quite a reputation. It's too bad, because it's not the kind of reputation anyone in town wants.

"There's a fire in Rolling Meadows," someone says, and he quickly hears a reply, "Oh, another apartment building is burning."

As cruel as it sounds, many suburbanites have learned to expect a blazing two or three-story building when they hear there's a fire in Rolling Meadows.

Observers at the Meadows Trace apartment building fire Saturday didn't seem surprised. It was just another case of occupants of almost 30 apartments running for their lives with furniture and belongings.

Luckily, no one was injured, and from the long string of apartment fires preceding last week, no one has been killed or seriously hurt.

But who knows how long that luck will continue?

The declining reputation of the city is not as important as a cure for innocent apartment dwellers being roasted from their homes periodically when smoke rises high above the roof.

Martha Koper

It's a baffling predicament because there is no magic cure. Several of the previous fires were attributed to poor fire code regulations and shoddy construction. So city officials more than two years ago stiffened all local restrictions relative to apartments.

Apartment buildings constructed since the code revisions are believed to be safe. They have the necessary fire walls and cement construction between floors. They have the correct amount of fire exits and some even have fire alarm systems.

However, there's still a lot of apartments in town which were built before the changes were made in city regulations. Although the fire chief and building inspector have made several trips through the older buildings and required many changes, there's no way to alter the basic structure of the building.

Obviously, there's no way to put a cement slab between floors and fire walls between apartment units after the structure is built. But accepting that fact doesn't make the buildings any safer.

In the midst of the previous fires there were always murmurs about one complex in town which hadn't been hit by flames yet. To the average person, Meadow Trace just looked like it would be susceptible to fire. The long halls, with exits only at each end of the building, seemed a natural place for fire to spread quickly.

Questions about Meadow Trace's fire immunity were answered Saturday. Many suspicions were confirmed. A fire did spread rapidly and left at least 56 people homeless.

Saturday's fire just about rounds out the scorecard. There aren't many apartment complexes left in Rolling Meadows which haven't been hit by fire.

Let's just hope the cycle doesn't start from the beginning again.

Prospectus

Time to Appoint Manager

by GERRY DeZONNA

Mount Prospect needs a village manager.

Village Atty. John Zimmermann is currently the acting village manager. He has been since September, when former Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett resigned.

Although Zimmermann has been doing a good job as both village attorney and village manager, that's a lot to expect of one man. I don't think it's quite fair to Zimmermann or the residents of Mount Prospect.

Although the village board may be happy with Zimmermann's performance in both offices, I think the public deserves the attention and services of both an attorney and a village manager.

I can understand why the board is reluctant to rush out and find a replacement for Zimmermann. For one thing Zimmermann is well acquainted with the village, department personnel and village trustees. He knows how the legislative and administrative bodies of village government operate in Mount Prospect, and he's well acquainted with the problems which beset both on a daily basis.

This is the second time in about two years that Zimmermann's served as administrative anchor man. When former village manager Robert Moore resigned in May of 1969, Zimmermann was appointed by the village board to serve as acting village manager until a new man was located. Barnett took office in September of 1969.

In September of 1970, Barnett resigned and Zimmermann once again was appointed to serve as acting village manager. To date, a replacement has not been found.

The village board may also be reluctant to push for the hiring of another new village manager based on its experience with Barnett. Barnett, a professional administrator, resigned because village trustees were unwilling to give him the job they promised. The village manager form of government in Mount Prospect "exists in name only," Barnett said when he resigned last September.

Barnett said he was leaving because as chief executive officer he was not permitted administrative authority and control. "Before the people of this community lose faith in their government, it would be only just for the board to permit the next manager to have full reign on the administrative front," he said.

Barnett was complaining about the discrepancy between theory and practice. In a 1968 referendum, Mount Prospect elected a village manager form of government. By referendum, the board could hire and fire the village manager but could not change the nature of his job or usurp his powers as chief executive officer.

Some members of the present village board were instrumental in seeking approval for the village manager form of government three years ago and campaigned for a "professional" village manager, professionalism in office.

I think these trustees were right. Mount Prospect has a professional fireman serving as fire chief, a professional policeman as police chief and a licensed attorney as village attorney. Then why shouldn't Mount Prospect have a professional administrator serving as village manager?

I don't think it's fair to Zimmermann or the residents of Mount Prospect to ask one man to do both jobs, and needless to say, expect him to do it well.

School Queries Unanswered

I would like to say that I was more than a little disappointed at Tom Weikman's reporting of a group of citizens' earnest efforts to get the High School Board 214 to have an open hearing and give other taxpayers a chance to be heard on this issue of taking away buses from safety routes.

Why did they bring it up the day before the Con-Con Referendum and a few days before Christmas when everyone is so busy? Why didn't Dick Stamm, who lives just outside the mile and a half limit in our area, call one of us and tell us they were voting on these buses — he knew we had appeared before that Board before on this same issue? This was two years ago. Why did Jack Costello feel Stamm needed 'defending' when that was all we ever asked of him? Why didn't they stick to the issue and give us a valid reason for not allowing an open hearing on this issue?

The Fence Post

Irrational Argument

Mr. Jack Buterbaugh ("Long Hairs Turn Him Off" — Herald 1-7-71) has committed a far more serious crime than being dirty or having long hair. He has let his emotions take control of his ability to think clearly.

The proof of my accusation is the fact that through his entire letter, Mr. Buterbaugh uses such emotion charged expressions as "disease infected molls, barnyard morals and deviates," when he has no way of proving that these charges are true. He does not back up one of his statements with a reasonable argument. If there were really an argument, Mr. Buterbaugh would not have been compelled to use such bitter language.

One can also assume from his choice of words, that he equates people who choose to wear their hair long with some of the lesser animals. I would like to point out to him that many of the greatest minds in history have had shoulder length hair.

With this fact in mind, if Mr. Buterbaugh would think instead of hate, he would ultimately come to the logical conclusion that he has no way of knowing how an individual thinks or what his political beliefs are, or whether or not that individual is a "deviate" unless he communicates with them, judging each as an individual apart from others.

There is little doubt in my mind that Mr. Buterbaugh considers himself a proud American. If this is indeed a fact, then I ask him to look at some of the precepts upon which our country was founded.

Is it not true that any American is entitled to any job for which he is qualified, no matter what his political and religious beliefs or racial heritage?

Are not our state and national parks for the enjoyment and use of anyone who wishes to use them, no matter what he or she may look like or think?

Is it not true that the "radical hippie o types" (as he refers to them) are entitled to the same protection under the law that Mr. Buterbaugh is?

Is it not so that the pride of our "American System" is that anyone can believe anything he chooses so long as he stays within the limits of the law, and that if he does not that he is then, and only then, a criminal?

The person who cannot answer yes to all of these questions is what is really wrong with this country. America was built around the ideas behind my questions. The men who first put those ideas down on paper were intelligent and just men. The only proof needed of their validity is the fact that they are still in practice.

The unfortunate thing is that too many of us know them, but do not understand or practice them, and it is these people who are just as responsible for our troubles as those who wish to destroy our system entirely.

It is not too late for Mr. Buterbaugh and others like him to start using their minds and not their emotions. It's not too late for them to realize that just as they dress and believe as they see fit, so do others dress and believe as they please. That just as Mr. Buterbaugh camps and vacations where he pleases, so may others camp and vacation where they please without the threat of having people like Mr. Buterbaugh and his friends providing (to use Mr. Buterbaugh's own words) "an unpleasant surprise to these deviates this coming summer, if they still infest campgrounds."

I am ashamed that this is the kind of justice and freedom that some people believe in.

May Day Pay Day

As we progress into the New Year, that persistent date, May 1, or to the uninitiated, the beginning of the fiscal year, draws closer. As it does, in our community, the many committees meet to discuss the ever present foe and the elusive dream of us all, the balanced city budget that also satisfies all the municipal employees.

As the hard working men on these committees pour over ominous figures, let us remind them of the men who must live on these figures. Let us also remind them the cost of living is still soaring, while our hopes of a better life for our families remain constant.

As they toy with the hopes of averting large pay raises for the policemen and the firemen, may I also remind them that a man who doesn't have to worry constantly about stretching a dollar does a much better job in a much better frame of mind.

Need I say more than you place your pay them a percentage of the value you place on the lives of your loved ones.

But the pay scales would jump then!

Rules for Snowmobiles

With snowmobiles becoming popular as recreational vehicles, it is inevitable that Illinois enact a law covering their use and particularly to curb those snowmobilers who abuse the privilege by disregarding safety procedures and rules of the road.

The Illinois Department of Conservation is presently putting together a workable proposal for regulating the use of snowmobiles. David Eckberg, the department's chief counsel, has been meeting with representatives of the International Snowmobile Assn. and state of Michigan Department of Natural Resources personnel. Michigan already has adopted a series of strict regulations governing use of the versatile vehicles.

The public safety and welfare must be protected, and the prospect of some regulation in Illinois is a welcome one. Such a law must not, however, unduly penalize the many snowmobilers who do operate their vehicles with full regard for the rights and safety of other citizens.

Proposed legislation will be submitted to the current session of the Illinois legislature for final approval. We urge them to give it careful consideration and make certain the law is both equitable and enforceable.

Education for Credit

A call for better education on lending practices and interest rates has been issued by the Federal Reserve Board.

The board said the federal truth in lending law has made Americans more aware of the interest charges they pay creditors but believes "consumers will probably not become fully aware of consumer credit costs, in general, and truth in lending in particular, until these subjects are taught in schools.

With credit assuming so large a role in the economy of the average family, the subject does seem to deserve thorough treatment at the high school level.

Upset Bid Falls Short

South Tips West In Gym

All week long Maine West gymnastics coach Sid Drain was talking of an upset victory over Maine South.

"If we hit our routines and get good performances all the way down the line, we can beat South," Drain said.

The Warriors met Maine South Saturday afternoon and at the midway point in the meet Maine West had the upset in the making. But the Warriors did not fare well on the trampoline while Maine South scored its best and the Hawks went on to win the meet 105.35 to 95.7.

Maine South took a two and a half point lead in free floor exercise as Warriors Steve Schwab scored a 6.55 for second place. John Leer a 3.9 for fifth and Rich Dancaster a 3.75 for sixth.

Maine West outscored the Hawks 17.55 to 9.2 on the side horse to take a 31.75 to 23.8 advantage after two events. The Warriors took the top three places in this event with Tom Jackson getting a 6.85, Jay Jacob a 5.5 and Robin Ruediger a

Though Maine South outscored the Warriors by a point on the horizontal bar, Maine West still held better than a two-point lead. For Maine West on the high bar, Dean Kolts scored a 7.0 for first place, Dancaster tied for second with a 6.7 and Tom Fulham was sixth with a 3.7.

On the trampoline Maine South outscored the Warriors 20.3 to 12.7 to take away the Maine West lead. For the Warriors on the trampoline were Leer's 6.3 for third place, Schwab's 3.5 for fifth and Jim Lane's 2.9 for sixth.

The Hawks outscored the Warriors by nearly a point and a half on the parallel bars. Dancaster was second with a 6.8, Kolts was fourth with a 5.15 and Mike Redmond was sixth with a 4.65.

Maine South sewed up the meet by outscoring the Warriors 18.25 to 15.9 on the rings. For Maine West Dancaster had a 6.05 for third place, Kolts tied for fourth with a 5.15 and Steve Hombeck was fifth with a 4.7.

In all-around competition, Dancaster took top honors with a 5.22 average.

Maine South won the freshman meet 32-29. There was no sophomore meet.

The Warriors will go against Niles West at Niles West on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for a Central Suburban League meet.

Track Team Opens

Stopwatches will again be in action today with area teams competing in a track meet and swimming meet.

Maine West's track team will open up its 1971 indoor season with a non-conference meet at Proviso West at 4:15 p.m.

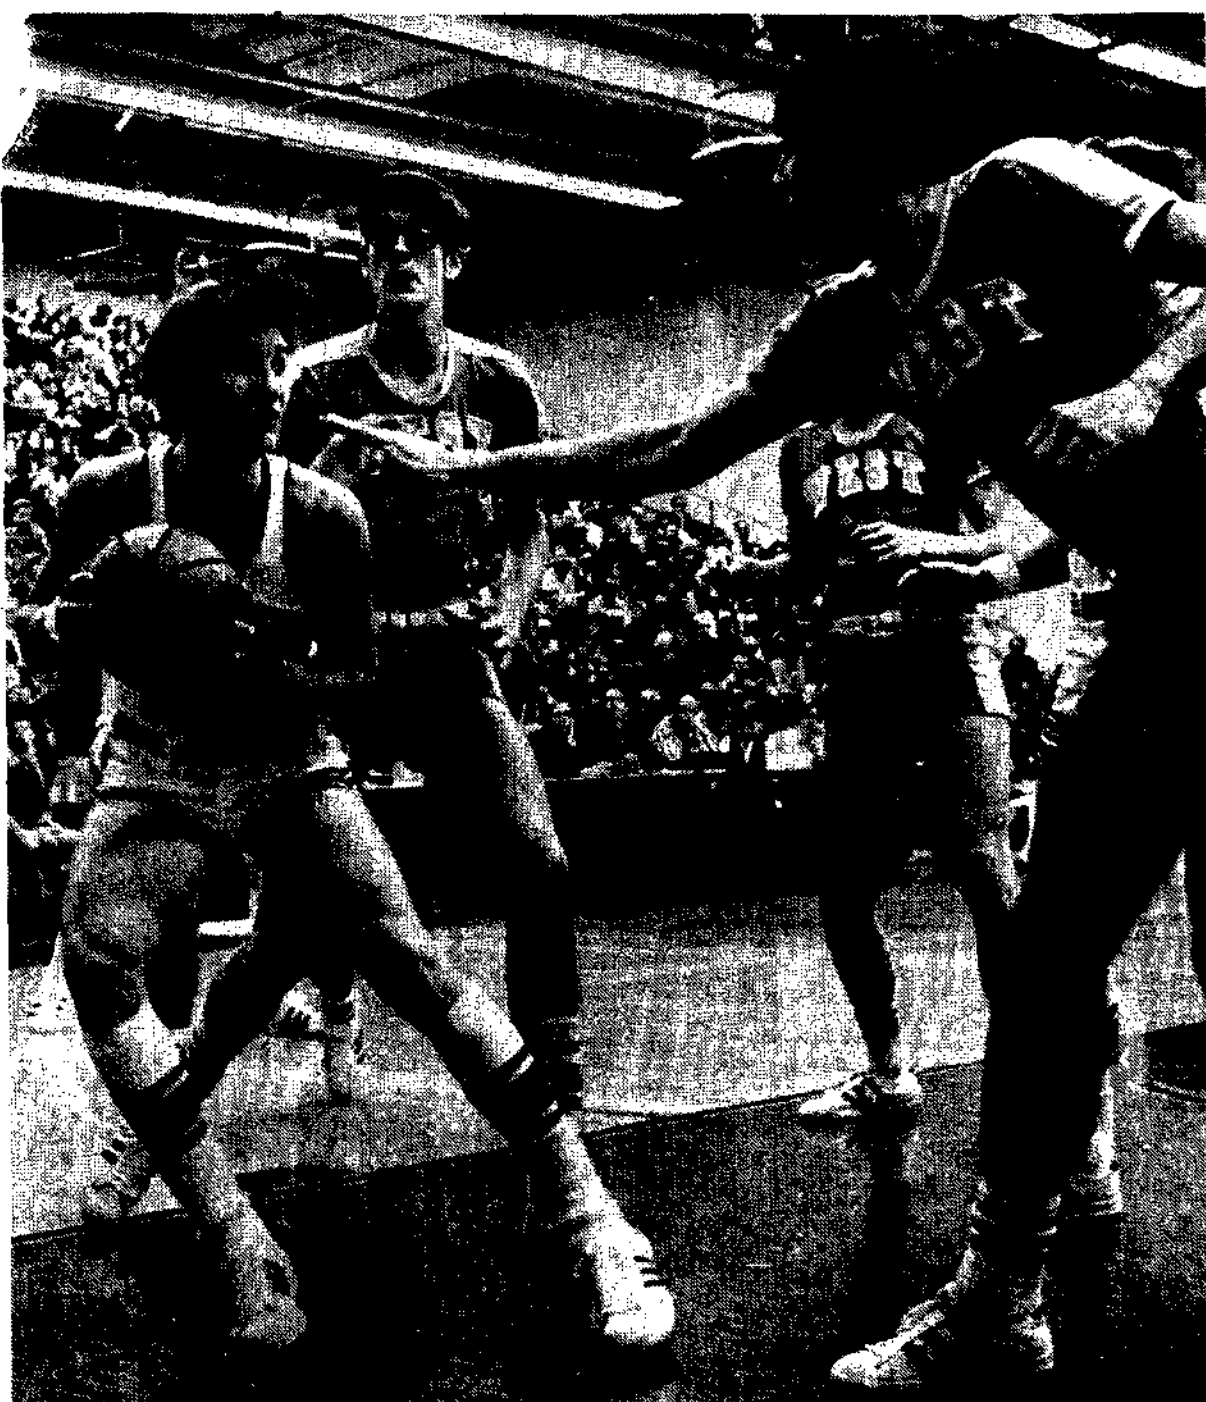

Notre Dame's swimming team will travel to Elmwood Park for a non-conference meet, also at 4:15 p.m.

Upsets In Snow Race

Two young cousins from Woodruff, Wis., upset the defending world champion and won the world champion snowmobile race at Eagle River over the weekend. Mike Trapp is the new world champion and Wayne Trapp came in second.

Defending champion Yvon Du Hamel, of Val Court, Quebec, Canada, was involved in a tight duel with Mike Trapp when his Polaris machine spun out on the 13th lap of the 15 lap race and he lost valuable time.

TAG, YOU'RE IT. Maine West's Tom Kummer, right, appears to be putting the tag on Maine South's Jerry Jones during Friday's Central Suburban League basketball game in the South gymnasium. Actually, Kummer is trying to bat the ball away from his opponent who came down with a rebound. Bruce Kerr, 45, looks on. Jones scored 19 points and Kummer had 17 as Maine South won the game 70-65.

Closing Surge Nails Peoria, 129-124

Don't Count Out Travelers Yet!

Two things had to happen Sunday evening to keep the Northwest Travelers' slim playoff hopes alive in the Continental Basketball Association.

Decatur had to beat Rockford. They did.

The Travelers had to beat Peoria. They did.

With their backs to the wall, and their playoff hopes severely jolted in a loss to Rockford the previous Sunday, the Travelers rebounded with a 129-124 conquest of Peoria — on the road!

Trailing by 14 points heading into the final period, Northwest roared back with another of their now-famous stretch drives and in a thrilling finish slapped down stunned Peoria for the second time this season.

Northwest now stands 3-10. Peoria is 3-8 and Rockford is 5-8 in the battle for a playoff spot.

"They did just a fantastic job in that final period," praised coach Russ Shaw. "They were aggressive, they went to the boards, they pushed Peoria into mistakes, and they were tough in the clutch."

"Ruffner (Paul), Holt (A.W.), and Modestas (Ed) all hit two free throws when we needed them in those final seconds, and Joe Jackson was something else in that last quarter."

Jackson hit five straight baskets in the final stanza, and it was a dunk shot, with his back to the basket, that "seemed to break their backs" according to Shaw.

And Jackson played that final period with five fouls.

"Nobody could quite believe it," the head coach said. "His back was to the basket as he was going up, he hangs in the air, switches the ball to his left hand, not his shooting hand, and stuffs it 'through over his head."

"Then Holt comes down a little later and dunks a couple, and Peoria wonders what hit them. I can't say enough for the way these guys played."

Peoria, a surging club in recent weeks in the CBA, had the Travelers down 99-85 heading into that concluding quarter. But nobody counts out Northwest until that final gun.

Holt, Ruffner, Modestas and Jackson took charge on offense, and the Travelers rallied until they only trailed by one with 2:50 remaining.

With only two team fouls at this point Shaw called for a deliberate foul from the bench and the strategy paid off. Peoria missed at the line, and Northwest came down to setre and take a one-point lead.

Seconds later, another deliberate foul, this one under the 2:00 mark, clicked again, and Northwest, which had relinquished the lead, gained the advantage. They held on as Modestas, Holt and Ruffner all hit clutch free throws under tremendous pressure.

Everybody helped out in the win, including the bench. Bobby "Duke" Floyd, a recent acquisition from the Eastern League who played his college ball at Augustana, and Don Russell came on late in the third period to spell the tiring regulars and key a successful press, taking the momentum away from Peoria.

"And the job Holt did on Peoria's L.C. Bowen was just great," praised Shaw. "Bowen had been averaging 38 a game, but only got 21 and 13 of those were free throws. A. W. really worked on him, slapped one of Bowen's first shots right back at him, and it was a tremendous psychological move. Bowen hasn't had that happen to him much this year."

Ruffner stayed in the scoring race with a nice 33-point output, hitting 15 of 27 from the floor. Modestas bounced back after a sub-par showing against Rockford with 28, canning 11 of 21, and Dickens and Holt had 19 and 18 respectively. Holt also collared 16 rebounds.

Jackson only had 13 but five of those baskets came in the final period. And then there was that stuff shot. That ignited the charge!

Score by quarters:

Travelers	26	31	28	44—129
Peoria	28	32	39	25—124

Maine North's Wrestlers Win

Maine North posted its most impressive wrestling victory in its young history as the Norsemen downed Glenbrook South's junior varsity squad 12-20 in a dual meet over the weekend.

Glenbrook South went into the meet undefeated. The victory raised Maine North's record to 5-4-1.

The Norsemen fell behind in the early matches but came on strong later and clinched the win when heavyweight Chester Dombek pinned his Glenbrook South foe in the first period. Had Dombek won by decision, Maine North would have had to settle for a tie but Dombek came through with the pin and the Norsemen had the triumph.

Maine North fell behind 12-0 in the early going as Norsemen 93 pounder Jack Horowitz lost 9-8 and 105 pounder Rich Wingereid lost 6-2. The Norsemen forfeited at 112.

Phil Kolpek got the Norsemen on the scoreboard with a 12-3 victory at 119 pounds. Steve Merker recorded a third period pin at 126 pounds and Norm Lau won 2-1 at 132 to tie the team scoring at 11-11.

The Norsemen fell behind 17-11 as Gary Heint lost 12-8 at 138 and Mike Schaumacher lost 5-3 at 245.

Rich O'Connor got Maine North within three points with a 7-1 win at 155. But Mike Fisk lost 1-0 at 167 as the Norsemen fell behind 20-14.

Steve Boucher racked up a 5-2 triumph at 185 pounds to make the score 20-17 and Dombek's pin made it 22-20.

Glenbrook South won the freshman meet 35-18.

The Norsemen will be in action twice this weekend. On Friday Maine North will host Schaumburg at 6:30 p.m. and on Saturday the Norsemen will travel to New Trier West for a meet at 1:30 p.m.

St. Viator Swimmers Rout Dons

St. Viator and Notre Dame parted waters Friday for the second time this month, but the final results hardly varied.

The Lions made the visiting Dons their eighth straight dual meet victim, 68-26, by touching first in eight of the 11 meet events.

Notre Dame, considered the toughest hurdle for St. Viator along the road to the Suburban Catholic League crown, managed a pair of winners in the 100-yard butterfly and the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Lions' domination began with the opening 200-yard medley relay and was capped by the 400-yard freestyle relay event. The quartet of Mike Salerno, Randy Robertson, Dave Takata and Rich Fitzsimons put Viator on the scoreboard early by combining for a 1:52.5 in the meet highlight.

Jeff Iversen made it two in a row with a victory in the 200-yard freestyle in 1:57.9 while Bill Geiser contributed another blue ribbon performance in the 200-yard individual medley in 2:17 flat. Teammate Takata trailed right behind in 2:17.5.

Viator's Fitzsimons notched his first of two gold medals in the 50-free by conquering teammate Mark Savage, 24.1-24.2. Rich came back in the 100-yard freestyle to win going away in 53.0.

Lion Tom Gallagher answered Notre Dame's first in the 100-yard butterfly by nailing down the 100-yard backstroke in 1:03.6 and Mike Schroeder poured it on with another winning decision in the 400-yard freestyle in 4:21.5.

Viator was disqualified in the 100-yard breaststroke, but Steve Beltran garnered a second in 1:11.4. The Lions got their revenge for the mishap by finishing on top in the 400-yard freestyle relay event on the wings of Geiser, Bob Rathman, Iversen and Mark Savage.

Even the frosh-soph Lions had little trouble with their visiting Don counterparts, rolling up a decisive 72-19 triumph.

UNDER ARREST? With his hands held high, Maine West's Tom Kummer seems to be waiting for a police officer to put the handcuffs on. What Kummer is actually doing is allowing Maine South's Mike Bonk to drive by without committing a foul. Kummer led the Warriors in rebounding and scoring, but Maine West lost 70-65.

Family Harmony

In Their Music And In Their Life

by DOROTHY OLIVER

The Shakespeare family contains a father who is a trophy-winning sharpshooter, a mother who loves working with children, a seamstress, a poet, a musician of many instruments and a 3-year-old ball of fire. Definitely a family of individuals.

Eliminate the sharpshooter and the ball of fire and you have the "Shakespeare Family Singers."

Mary Louise Shakespeare and daughters Beth, Jill and Sue have combined a common talent — music — and formed a folk singing group. They appear frequently at club meetings, church gatherings and cultural arts programs at local schools.

A Des Plaines resident all her life, Mary Louise became interested in the guitar about 12 years ago. "I missed playing the piano. We couldn't afford one or fit it into our apartment so I decided to take up the guitar."

HER TRAINING BEGAN at a Maine Township Adult Education Class at Maine East and she went on to private lessons. She now teaches guitar during the summer to teens and adults.

Her daughters picked up playing the guitar from their mom. "We really kind of taught ourselves," said 16-year-old Beth. "We'd listen in while Mom was giving lessons, try it on our own and then ask her for help if something didn't sound right."

Their first performance was for a mother-daughter banquet at their church, First Methodist of Des Plaines, and from that came invitations to play elsewhere.

"We hurriedly polished up our act," laughed Mrs. Shakespeare. "It was just a hobby to begin with — we never felt it would come to this." That was eight years ago.

THEIR PERFORMANCE runs about a half hour and includes about 10 selections of different types of folk songs as well as the history of each song. They recently gave the entire worship service for Westminster Presbyterian Church, Des Plaines, using only their music.

Mary Louise describes her daughters as "completely different from each other and very special."

"Mom says I'm the good looks in the group," laughs Beth, a junior at Maine West and part-time checker at the Jewel Food Store at Oakton and Lee streets. Beth designs the outfits the group wears and is an accomplished seamstress. Her interest lies in home economics and making people happy.

Jill, a 14-year-old freshman at Maine West, is the arty one. She arranges and composes some of the songs the group sings, and it is Jill's anti-war song that is used for the sermon in their musical worship service.

"I like to write poetry and want to try and get some of it published. After I graduate I want to go to Northwestern and go into dramatics," Jill said.

ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD SUE, a student at Forest School, is the harmonizer of the group and a versatile musician. Sue was only three when she began singing with her mother and sisters and was given percussion instruments to play until her fingers were big enough to tackle a stringed instrument. She plays guitar, ukulele, baritone uke, zither, autoharp and Afroharp. She won organ lessons and that instrument has become her favorite.

Soon to enter the group is 3-year-old Lee, who knows all the words to the songs and happily sings along while strumming anything he can get his hands on.

"Lee does really well keeping a beat on the tamborine," said mother, "and we'll bring him in as soon as he stops acting silly in front of an audience."

Lee accompanies Mary Louise in one of her "loves."

"My love is children," she said. "I go to Forest School and have sing-a-longs with the hard-of-hearing children being taught at the school. It's the most gorgeous feeling having 20 children around me while I'm playing, touching the guitar and touching me. I did nothing to get this talent and I will share it freely."

During the school year she teaches nursery school at the Methodist Church.

STUART SHAKESPEARE can neither play the guitar nor sing with his family.

"I feel guilty because he's not a part of the group," his wife said. "His special talent is putting up with us, babysitting, having occasional TV dinners and not minding an unironed shirt here and there."

The Shakespeares are a close family in more than their mutual interest. "It's Mom's leniency," all three girls asserted.

"I always try to say yes to what they ask unless there is a possibility they would be hurt," Mary Louise explained. "We talk things out and they don't feel the need to rebel."

"We can go to Mom and ask her advice and we don't take advantage of our parents' leniency," Beth said.

The girls would like to see their family group go professional, but Mother has her reservations.

"It's a cool feeling to leave and know people have enjoyed our program, Beth concluded. "Music is a great thing."

Saks Fashion Expert Directs Junior Club's Fashion Show

Bernie Dennett, fashion coordinator for Saks Fifth Avenue, Old Orchard, will be the commentator for "Daisies in Vogue," the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines' benefit luncheon-fashion show Saturday, March 13, at the Sheraton O'Hare Motor Hotel.

Mrs. Dennett will be working with models chairman Mrs. Brent Minor, co-chairman Mrs. Donald Kryza and 15 models from the Junior Woman's Club in the selection and presentation of spring fashions for the Juniors' annual benefit.

Designer clothes by Bonnie Cashion, Oscar de la Renta, Pierre Cardin and Chester Reinburg will be featured, according to Mrs. Dennett, who started her fashion career as a model.

"I found fashion interesting even as a little girl when I designed clothes for my paper dolls," continued Mrs. Dennett.

"BECAUSE FASHION and modeling go hand in hand. It was natural for me to turn to part-time modeling when I was a high school student. I continued in the field up to the time of my marriage."

After her four children were all in school, Mrs. Dennett returned to modeling. In 1966 she joined a staff of lecturers for Patricia Stevens Charm School and gave talks on poise, make-up and wardrobe to women's groups and high schools. While with Stevens, she did some free lance fashion coordinating and in 1968 joined the staff at Saks as fashion coordinator at the Old Orchard store.

All proceeds from the luncheon-fashion show will be donated to scholarships for local students, local philanthropic organizations and Illinois and General Federation of Women's Club philanthropies.

Tickets for "Daisies in Vogue" can be purchased, $6.50 each, from Mrs. Joel Wells, 299-2847, Mrs. Robert Callaghan, 299-8377, or any member of the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

That's Just Sherry Nonsense

It Doesn't Always Pay To Pay Cash

by MARY SHERRY

I remember my father telling me that one way to get rich is always to pay cash. But nowadays one doesn't usually get the chance.

Banks and other groups of money people who know say we're moving in a cashless society. I say we're already there.

My first realization of this was Friday when I received a refund in the mail. It was a crisp, brand new dollar bill. However, it didn't look right to me. I checked George's hairline, the mortise and the weight of the paper, but I could find nothing wrong with it. I finally concluded that it had been so long since I had seen real money that it didn't look authentic.

Then I began reflecting on my children's outlook on money. I have never been able to convince them that when my wallet is empty, I am broke. Probably because on such occasions (which happen frequently) they have witnessed some amazing shopping sprees on credit cards.

CASHING A CHECK is a big event in our family. The kids are convinced that I go to the store "to get money." It is also very hard to teach them the value of a dollar when they rarely see one. And a child of six or seven who is ready to understand such things is really not capable of understanding credit cards and checks.

I have found that it's almost impossible to make these concepts real to a child without being drawn into explaining the total operations of banks and the principle of credit. "But Mommy, where do THEY get the money?" is the first question and it always stops me cold.

In my wondering at the speed with which we have practically eliminated cash from our daily lives, it occurred to me that the idea that money is the root of all evil may have had a lot to do with it. In a cashless society at least we don't have to touch the stuff!

BUT OUR WORLD really does lack something without cash. The image of my husband lovingly counting his credit cards in no way compares with the picture of Uriah Heep counting his gold. One rarely sees a bank roll any more. And the person who pays cash is even somewhat suspect.

I remember once paying for groceries with two $20 bills, and the checkout clerk carefully wrote down their serial numbers and my general description. I haven't paid cash since. Writing a check is less harrowing and faster.

I must admit, though, that my father was right. It saves money to pay cash, if you can get away with it. At 15 cents a check plus five cents to cash it, and then adding the astronomical interest rates on charge accounts — slapped on whether or not the merchandise was returned or if the mail with your payment was delayed — our cashless society is costly.

MANY PEOPLE ARE deeply in debt because they were not prepared to live without cash. This makes me wonder, when I leaf through my children's math books that teach them to deal with nickels, dimes and quarters, if we shouldn't be making a real effort to teach them to deal with unlimited credit, "no money down" and the temptation to consume now, pay later.

It's a worthwhile consideration because then perhaps our children will be wiser than we are and will be able to afford to take care of us when we get old and our credit runs out!

THE GYPSY MOOD is captured in a fly-away dress of floral-printed cotton accented with touches of gold rickrack. A wide belt cinches the waist of the laced bodice and flounces adorn the skirt.

Gynecology Forum For Nurses

"What's New in Gynecology" will be reported Wednesday, Feb. 10, in a conference for registered, licensed practical and student nurses at Holy Family Hospital.

Medical specialists on the hospital staff, Stritch School of Medicine, Loyola University, and Northwestern medical school will make a series of presentations. Doctors and their topics include: Dr. L. Leone, "New Techniques in Gynecologic Diagnosis;" Dr. J. Eggers, "New Aids in Diagnosis of Pelvic Diseases;" Dr. William Cusick, "Emotional Aspects of Pelvic Surgery;" Dr. M. MacLavery, "New Techniques in Treatment of Pelvic Cancer" and Dr. James O'Leary, "Recent Developments and Treatment of Thrombo-embolic Disease."

FOLLOWING LUNCHEON, there will be a panel discussion on the "Nurse's Role in Care of Gynecologic Patient." Dr. U. Cucco, chairman of the OB-Gyne department of Holy Family will be moderator. Panelists will be Drs. Leone, Cusick, L. McGill, MacLavery and Eggers.

Nurses interested in attending may contact Mrs. Barbara Carswell, R.N., coordinator staff development, Holy Family. Registration is open to all registered, licensed and student nurses from northwestern suburban areas. Reservations, limited to 100, are due by Feb. 5. Registration fee of $1.75 includes luncheon and coffee break refreshments.
